Super-Variable What of It? Stalin Works, and Learns. While Doctors Argued. A Royal Conversation.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

YOU SEE a tumble-bug, in a huge pasture, rolling his precious little sphere toward the entrance to his storehouse underground. What could you say that would interest that tumble-bug more than that little globe, carefully fashioned for winter nourishment? NOTHING.

What could you say to the two-legged tumble-bugs called human beings, that would take their minds from their petty interests here on earth, the price of stocks, the length of dresses? NOTHING.

ASTRONOMERS AT Harvard University have discovered a "super-giant" variable, far out in the Milky Way, in the large cloud of Magellan.

That new super-giant flashes with a brilliancy that varies from 12,000 to 33,000 times that of our sun, at a distance of 90,000 light years from the earth. One light year is about 6,000,000,000,000 years.

If our earth fell into the sun, it would disappear in dust before reaching the sun's surface. If our sun fell into the huge super-giant variable, it would vanish like a flake of snow on a red-hot stove.

FOR THAT reason, it is all too big to be comfortable, and we come back to the satisfying contemplation of something that we can understand, to the fact that Max Schmeling has returned to Germany, or that "Big Steel" closed at 103¾.

TROTZKY, exiled from Russia, says only 5 per cent of Russians live as "socialists" and wants Russia to put Stalin out of power. That suggests a fable in which the mice decided that somebody should put a bell on the cat, that all might know when the cat was coming. No mouse wanted the job of "belling the cat."

STALIN RETAINS his power and accumulates knowledge of human beings as he goes along.

Everything is easy, in theory. He that would not undertake to build a bridge across a 10-foot stream will cheerfully undertake to change a system of human government.

Stalin, head man of Russia, learns as he goes and is willing to be taught. He has abandoned the noble theory that all men, being equal, should receive the same wages. He needs skillful men and finds that skillful men RESENT too much equality.

IT ISN'T that they want more, but they want recognition of their skill. Wise Stalin arranges things accordingly.

He announces that "more individuality is needed in industry," which is another way of saying that the person that develops individuality in the way of ability will get extra pay.

BLIND HATRED of Russia, shown by some of our respectable citizens, public officials and industrialists is an interesting development of near-sighted foolishness.

Russia's success would be the best possible thing for our so-called "capitalistic system."

To make a man conservative, make him RICH. What could be better for the world than to have the 150,000,000 people in Russia's 1,000,000 villages develop successful industries, and great national wealth?

IF A GIGANTICALLY rich people of 120,000,000 on this continent is a good thing for the world, why wouldn't another gigantically rich people of 150,000,000 in Eastern Europe and Western Asia be also good for the world?

Would it be better, in the opinion of our distinguished international financiers, if Russia were in a state of anarchy, brigandage and civil war, as is China?

GERMANY SYMPATHIZES with the patient that died, while doctors argued about his symptoms, as the United States and France now argue about the meaning of President Hoover's perfectly straightforward moratorium proposition. Yesterday afternoon, Berlin dispatches told of the dangerous condition of the German Reichsbank, in urgent need of immediate foreign credit.

WALL STREET did not like the looks of things. Speculators just starting are easily frightened. It is so much easier to run than to stick. In a short time, those that foolishly bought at the highest prices will be cursing themselves, wondering why they did not buy near the bottom.

Only a wise old Rothchild can say:

"I got rich selling too soon."

YESTERDAY, KING GEORGE and Queen Mary celebrated the anniversary of their wedding, in Holyrood Palace, at Edinburgh. Bells rang all over Britain, royal servants drank the health of Their Majesties in champagne.

The King and Queen, perhaps, talked about the changes since that day, 38 years ago, when Queen Victoria saw them married.

King George may well have said to Queen Mary:

"How things change. No more czar of Russia, emperor of Austria, king of Spain, emperor of Germany, king of Portugal. What will be the future history of that throne on which we sit, comfortable and secure?"

DEBT SLASH MOVE HELD LIKELY

Hoover Considered General Reduction Before Backing Holiday, Capital Reveals

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—President Hoover at one time had in mind proposing to Europe a general all-around scaling down of both war debts and reparations, as an aid to a depression-weary world, but later abandoned it in favor of the year's moratorium to which the various governments have now agreed.

This was disclosed here today by Acting Secretary of State Castle in a review of the steps and events leading up to the announcement of the Hoover plan on June 20.

SCALING DOWN LIKELY

Although Castle did not reveal why Mr. Hoover had abandoned the scaling down process in favor of the later moratorium, the deduction was very plain that, if in the end of the year's debt suspension does not work out satisfactorily, further steps will be considered. Those steps evidently concern scaling down.

As long ago as May 11, Castle revealed, President Hoover discussed with Secretary of State Stimson the necessity of adopting some measures to deal with the world's economic situation, and among the steps discussed was a proposal for a general all-around scaling down, based upon the capacity of various governments to pay their obligations.

It was recalled, however, that in his announcement, the Presi-

Hoover Celebrates, Will Attend Game

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(INS.)—Free from the strain of his negotiations with France over his moratorium proposal for the first time in 17 days, President Hoover planned to attend this afternoon's game here between the Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics.

It will be his second visit to the ball park this season, the first being when the initial game was played.

Crosley Named State Deputy School Head

HARRISBURG, July 7.—Appointment of D. E. Crosley, of Paxtang, to be deputy superintendent of public instruction, was announced today by Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent. Crosley has been with the department for 11 years. He will have charge of distribution of state school subsidiaries, budget and accounting matters and research and statistical matters.

Denver Seismograph Records Earthquake

DENVER, July 7.—(AP.)—An earth disturbance of third degree intensity, lasting 19 minutes, was recorded on the seismograph at Regis College here last night between 9:03 and 9:22 o'clock. The Rev. Father A. W. Forstall, observer, estimated the quake occurred 2,500 miles from Denver off the North American continent.

City Utility Plant Profits Pay Taxes

CHANUTE, Kan., July 7.—(AP.)—Chanute city commissioners announced today there will be no city taxes for the second successive year.

Municipal expenses are paid from the profits of the gas, water and electric plants owned and operated by the city.

LEADER 'LOST' IN AIR TOUR HERE

Haldeman Lands at Wrong Port; 14 Planes Visit Pittsburgh; Wheeling Next

George Haldeman, trans-Atlantic pilot, with whom Ray Collins was flying, became lost while en route from Bradford to Rodgers Field in the seventh annual national air tour for the Ford reliability trophy today, and landed at Bettis Field, McKeesport.

Haldeman set down at Bettis Field at noon, an hour after taking off from Bradford. Residents of McKeesport said he flew low over the Grandview section and then headed directly for the airport. Collins is the flight manager of the tour.

LANDING GEAR FOLDS

Shortly before Haldeman was located at Bettis Field, George Chapline met with a minor accident when his landing gear folded as he brought his plane up to the finish line. His plane was not damaged, nor was he injured.

Fourteen planes of various types and sizes landed at Rodgers Field. They were led by the trail blazing ship piloted by William Gould, who made the 130-mile trip in 59 minutes.

According to the flight plans, the squadron was to remain at Rodgers Field only for a brief stay, after which they were to take off for Wheeling, W. Va. The tour continues southwest to Mexico from Wheeling.

DOOLITTLE ABSENT

Jimmy Doolittle, famous ace, whose plane was damaged when he landed at Bradford yesterday, did not start for Rodgers Field, but it was announced he would join the flight tomorrow. Mrs. Doolittle arrived at the field with the squadron.

Flying in the squadron were the Sun God, of endurance fame; Bob Dake and George Dixon, local pilots; two Ford tri-motor planes; a Diesel powered plane, piloted by Walter Lees; a Gee Bee special and Edward Snyder, 19, the youngest pilot on the tour.

The tour, which started from Detroit Saturday, already has visited Canada and spent last night in Bradford.

Candlers to Try For Air Speed Mark

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Jr., of Atlanta, prepared today for an attempt to establish an airplane speed record between this city and Jacksonville, Fla.

With Beeler Blevins, their pilot, they arrived here on a commercial plane from Atlanta and announced they would purchase a $25,000 monoplane at a Burbank factory today. Weather conditions will determine the time of the takeoff.

Duncan Sister Act Ended, Asther Says

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 7.—(AP.)—The Duncan sisters probably will not be seen together again on the screen or stage, Nils Asther, film actor and husband of Vivian Duncan, said today. He said:

"Managers are after Vivian and Rosetta to appear together again, but I don't think Vivian wants to work any more on the stage or screen. She is a regular old-fashioned mother."

Mrs. Asther and her daughter, Evelyn, are now in Paris.

IMPOUNDING OF RECORDS ASKED

Probers Charge Tampering With Bids; Dr. Hammers Criticised in Presentment

Charging that large commissions have been paid to obtain city supplies contracts, the grand jury concluded its investigation of city purchases today, asking that all records brought before it be impounded and held as evidence in the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, former head of the department.

The presentment also charged Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent of the city home at Mayview, with gross waste and inefficiency in the issuance and handling of supplies.

There were no presentments for additional indictments.

JURY DISMISSED

The jury was dismissed until July 30, when it will reconvene to consider routine matters.

The presentment was made before Judge James H. Gray, who succeeded Judge George V. Moore as presiding judge on July 1. Judge Moore made the charge to the grand jury and heard its first presentment, in which Kline and Succop were indicted on approximately 50 counts, charging malfeasance and misdemeanor in office.

More than 4,000 instances in which purchases were made either without competitive bidding or in disregard of the law were found, the presentment reported, adding that these facts were known to both Mayor Kline and Director Succop.

Instances of apparent altering of bids, upward or lower, bringing them within a few cents of the next lowest bidder, were found, the presentment revealed.

It was also charged that the department has been conducted with "utter disregard of the law."

As a whole the presentment did not reveal much of the detailed testimony that had been presented before the jurors during their lengthy inquiry. Examination of a number of records, both public and private, have "brought to light additional testimony which we believe will be of considerable

WOODRUFF GETS P.S.C. POST

HARRISBURG, July 7.—Announcement was made today from the Governor's office of the appointment of George W. Woodruff, of Philadelphia, to the Public Service Commission. He takes the place of Charles H. Young, of New Castle, whose term expired July 1.

The vacancy on the commission caused by the resignation of James S. Benn, shortly before the Legislature adjourned, remains unfilled.

During the first Pinchot administration Woodruff served as attorney general.

The appointment of Woodruff to the Public Service Commission has been expected for weeks. At the time Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, was promoted from the Superior to the Supreme Court it was reported that Woodruff desired the appointment to the highest court.

Collision Off N. Y. Delays Steamer

Luther Delegates Will Visit Shrines

READING, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—The last of the delegates to the National Luther League convention here, which closed last night, left today on a five-day trip to Valley Forge, the historic Lutheran Church at Trappe, New York, Atlantic City and Washington, D. C.

BARBER JAKE'S RICHES HUNTED

CHICAGO, July 7.—(INS.)—Buried treasure to the amount of $3,000,000 was sought today in downtown banks where John (Jake the Barber) Factor is believed by authorities to have cached it.

The search for gold was legally launched when Attorney John H. S. Lee, representing Arthur Traviss Faber, one of Factor's alleged British victims, filed an amended bill of complaint in the United States District Court.

This action was taken barely two hours before the erstwhile barber, who is charged with mulcting British victims out of $7,000,000, was to learn his fate regarding deportation to England from United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Fall's Jail Decision Delayed

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP.)—Justice Bailey, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, today postponed action in the case of Albert B. Fall until Thursday.

Government counsel had announced they would ask Justice Bailey today to order that Fall's sentence of a year in prison be carried out immediately. The hearing was put off because of other cases.

District Attorney Rover said an examination of a report of Fall's physical condition had convinced the government that the former Secretary of the Interior was able to come here from El Paso to begin his term.

ELOPERS WED AFTER CRASH

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hughes were "at home" today, the first day of their married life, a bruised and battered, but very happy couple.

They left the home of the bride, the former Zora Dick, 1022 Glenn avenue, Wilkinsburg, yesterday for West Virginia, where they were to be married.

Then the trouble started.

At Wellsburg, Miss Dick gave her age as 19, so the license clerk gave no license.

They started for Wheeling to make another try. En route, their auto upset and caught fire. Hughes lost three teeth, his wallet and some clothing. Both were burned.

Their injuries were treated by a physician and they were driven to Wheeling.

There they got their license and were wed. They limped off to a train which brought them back to Pittsburgh last night.

Soldiers at Rites For Duke of Aosta

TURIN, July 7.—(AP.)—Funeral services were held today for the Duke of Aosta, eldest cousin of the King Victor Emanuel. The archbishop of Turin officiated and thousands of soldiers who served under the duke attended. He will be buried in Redipuglia Cemetery where many of the war dead lie.

Thieves Show Fancy For Coyne's Auto

The car was stolen yesterday for the second time within several months, police said. It had been parked near the Frick Building when stolen.

7 Autos, Police Radio Car Crashed by Runaway Horse

A runaway horse, owned by Tony Malka, huckster, 116 Elaman street, led police in a squad car a merry chase between 1 and 1:30 p. m. today down Cedarville street, up Friendship avenue to Millgate, and along Main street to Liberty avenue.

The runaway was captured by M. J. McIntyre, of the squad car crew, after the huckster wagon was wrecked and seven automobiles and the police car had been damaged in the chase.

Text of Presentment Made by Grand Jury

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania now inquiring in and for the body of the County of Allegheny, upon their oaths and solemn affirmations, do respectfully report as follows:

That pursuant to the Order of Your Honorable Court made on the 24th day of June, 1931, authorizing us to proceed with our investigation after the partial presentment submitted to the Court on that date, we continued our investigation until the present time (with the exception of an adjournment dating from July 2nd to July 6th, 1931, inclusive) and have examined approximately 45 witnesses who have testified concerning the matters in which the Department of Supplies of the City of Pittsburgh was conducted, and other related matters.

NEW TESTIMONY

We have examined a number of records, both public and private, and have brought to light additional testimony which we believe will be of considerable value in the prosecution of the indictments already returned by this body in connection with this investigation. We have made an effort to uncover any facts relating to this investigation and have diligently attempted to run down to a conclusion any information coming to our attention which aroused our suspicions. We believe our investigation has been

BEAMISH URGES COUNTY INVESTIGATE VOTE MACHINE CO.

FIRM AGREES TO VISIT BY ENGINEERS

State Official Inquires Into Financing Methods; Time of Delivery Debated

Investigation of the financial structure of the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, and its ability to fulfill its contract to deliver 1,100 voting machines to Allegheny County in time for the coming primaries, was recommended today by Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth. He was testifying before the Senate Voting Machine Committee, and declared he had heard intimations that the company was being financed by the contracts of Allegheny and other counties.

Testifying, Beamish declared:

"The question of voting machines in Allegheny County is solely one of production.

"Since January 20, I have received five distinct promises from the Poole company and every one of them has been broken.

"The serious question of the County Commissioners of Allegheny County centers in the Poole plant; it is not a production plant, but an assembly plant."

Attorney Hiram D. Hirsh, counsel for the Poole company, protested Beamish's statement and said the company in 1929 had paid government tax on excess profit to the extent of $284,000. Hirsch represents the Poole interests here.

INSPECTION AGREED ON

The outcome of the morning session was Attorney Hirsh's agreement to have a group of engineers and technical men inspect the plant of the Poole company, following the complaint of Miss Ella Groubart, representative of the Citizens Voting Machine Committee.

Senator Harris suggested that an impartial inspection be made of the plant.

CHARGES HARASSMENT

Questioned by Senator Frank J. Harris, Hirsh said the Poole company had been harassed by unknown forces, which included the burning of one of its voting machines while in transit as well as by numerous law suits.

Gilbert C. Cloonan, chief of the election bureau of Allegheny County, preceded Hirsh and said there are now five machines here and 20 more on the way. He testified the Poole company is now in mass production.

Asked by Secretary Beamish if Allegheny County had been redistricted according to the Richards bill, he said it had not, but would be by August 15 and there would be one voting machine to every 600 voters.

BEAMISH DOUBTFUL

Previous to testifying, Beamish had commented:

"As to the fulfillment of the contract to furnish these 1,100 machines by August 15, the county commissioners must solve the problem so far as a default in the contract is concerned.

DELIVERY IN DOUBT

"There is a question of the ability of the company to deliver the 1,100 machines on the contract date. It is up to the commissioners here to decide what measure of forfeiture they will pursue, if there be a default. If 600 are undelivered, they might exact 50 per cent of the bond, which I believe is $200,000.

"It is the commissioners' responsibility to answer to the people of Allegheny County."

The committee appeared in the City-County Building today for the hearing under the chairmanship of Senator Harris. Harris' Allegheny County colleague, Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., and Senator Chauncey Parkinson were present.

W. Va. Man Faces Charge of Murder

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., July 7.—(AP.)—Charges of murder were filed yesterday against John Sogienski in connection with the death of John Chetock, who was found hanging from rafters in his home after he had been beaten about the head. Prosecutor W. W. Ingram ordered Mrs. Chetock held as a material witness.

Civil War Officer's Widow Dies at 89

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Georgianna K. Hall, 89, widow of Brig. Gen. Robert H. Hall, U. S. A., died at her home here yesterday. Gen. Hall, who was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1860, served throughout the Civil and Spanish-American wars and the Philippine insurrection. Mrs. Hall will be buried beside her husband on the military academy reservation at West Point.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT By Quin Hall

DEATH THREATS TOLD AT TRIAL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 7.—(AP.)—County Detective W. J. Harrison, who was employed to protect John T. Harrington, former power company official, after Harry Engle, former city street railway commissioner, was said to have threatened him, was called to the stand today in the blackmail trial of J. L. Thomas, Mahoning County prosecutor.

A. C. Blinn, vice president and general manager of the Ohio Edison Company, was on the stand yesterday and told of threats Engle had made to kill Harrington.

Engle is alleged to have threatened Harrington if officials of the Pennsylvania-Ohio did not give secret remuneration to the former traction commissioner. It is on a letter Thomas sent to the City Council regarding these threats that he is being tried for blackmail.

RIOT OFFICERS' NAMES SOUGHT

AKRON, O., July 7.—(AP.)—At least 30 witnesses are expected to tell the Summit County grand jury of the clubbing and tear gas bombing that broke up a Communist meeting in Barberton June 26.

The jury heard 11 witnesses yesterday and was to hear 14 more today, according to Donovan D. Isham, county prosecutor.

The chief witness today was Mayor Seney A. Decker. He was expected to be questioned about the names of the 19 "special policemen" alleged to have been sworn in for duty the night of the riot. It has been testified in court that some of these 19 wielded the clubs.

Others on the stand today were to include three Barberton policemen.

Canadian Red Cross Offers Drought Aid

OTTAWA, Ont., July 7.—(AP.)—The Canadian Red Cross Society placed its organization at the disposal of the federal government to be used in helping to alleviate serious conditions in the West, due to drought.

Norman Somerville, chairman of the Central Council of the Red Cross in Canada, and Dr. J. L. Biggar, national commissioner, conferred with Premier Bennett. The Premier has described the situation as a "national emergency."

CAPONE BLAMED IN N. Y. KILLING

NEW YORK, July 7.—(INS.)—An outbreak of a new war between beer barons was feared by police today as the aftermath of the killing of Charles Entratta. Three men, who entered the office of a bottle company and shot Entratta without warning from behind, may have been agents of the Al Capone gang in Chicago, police said.

Authorities leaned to the theory that Entratta's death was linked to efforts of Chicago beer sellers to "muscle in" on the business of Brooklyn beer runners.

Entratta had a long police record and was a trusted henchman of Jack "Legs" Diamond, gangster and racketeer.

DARROW FIGHTS FOR EX-DRAGON

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 7.—(INS.)—An ardent defender of the rights of minorities and a man who rode to fortune and power on the racial and religious prejudice of a near majority joined forces here today.

They were Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, and D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, whose millions gained from Klan organization and political dictatorship, both lost, have become part of the tradition of the state.

Darrow was to appear this afternoon before the Indiana State Supreme Court in behalf of Stephenson, now serving a life sentence in the Indiana state prison for the murder of an Indianapolis young woman.

The famous Chicago attorney will seek to dissolve a temporary writ of prohibition which the Supreme Court issued to prevent Judge Harry L. Crumpacker, of the LaPorte County Superior Court, from acting on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus by which Stephenson hopes to obtain liberty.

NEW COMPANY LOW BIDDER ON GARBAGE

Submits Figures Far Below That of Reduction Firm, Which Now Has Contract

Bids for contracts for disposal of the city's garbage and rubbish during 1932 were opened today by Dr. C. B. Maits, director of the Department of Health.

The Modern Service Company submitted the lowest rates, bidding only on a three-year contract.

Other bidders were the American Reduction Company and its subsidiary, the Allegheny Garbage Company, which now hold the contracts.

The removal contracts are divided into two sections, one for the North Side and one for the remainder of the city, each requiring a separate bid.

The bids follow:

GARBAGE REMOVAL

North Side—Allegheny Garbage Company, $7.95 a ton for one year, $7.95 for two years, $7.60 for three years. Modern Service Company, $5.40 a ton for three years.

City of Pittsburgh, exclusive of North Side—American Reduction Company, $6.58 a ton for one year, $6.98 for two years, $6.98 for three years. Modern Service Company, $5.15 for three years.

RUBBISH REMOVAL

North Side—Allegheny Garbage Company, $7.02 a ton for one year, $7.02 for two years, $6.18 for three years. Modern Service Company, $6.30 for three years.

City of Pittsburgh, exclusive of North Side—American Reduction Company, $7.82 a ton for one year, $7.39 for two years, $7.17 for three years. Modern Service Company, $6.25 for three years.

The Modern Service Company's bid also was low for 1931 but was rejected because city officials ruled that the company was not equipped to carry out the contract.

Charles B. Prichard, treasurer-secretary of the organization, informed Dr. Maits today that his company stood ready to carry out its responsibilities "efficiently and capably."

Work Done, Mellon Bound for Riviera

PARIS, July 7.—(AP.)—His momentous task completed, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon will leave tomorrow night for the French Riviera to begin his vacation with members of his family.

He will go to Villa Maryland at Cap Ferrat. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson is expected to visit him after leaving Italy.

Mellon apparently emerged from the exhausting conferences with French officials as strong as when he came to Europe nearly a month ago. His confreres complimented him on his stamina and on his unfailing good nature in the face of disagreements.

PHILLIPS TAKES COUNCIL SEAT

Former State Game Commissioner John M. Phillips is a member of City Council today, following his induction at a meeting yesterday.

President John S. Herron appointed Phillips chairman of the Committee on Health and Sanitation. He succeeds the late George Kambach.

Those voting for Phillips were Mayor Charles H. Kline, President W. Y. English, Clifford B. Connelley, Robert Alderdice, Michael J. Muldowney and Harry A. Little.

DR. FREDERICK FAILS TO GAIN

Dr. F. H. Frederick, North Side political leader, showed no improvement today, it was said at his home, Chateau street and Pennsylvania avenue, where he is seriously ill from heart trouble.

He was stricken Friday morning.

Two Men Wounded As Theft Suspects

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 7.—Two Negroes are patients in the hospital here with bullet wounds sustained when they attempted to rob a store in Smithton, according to police.

Charleroi Teacher Injured in Crash

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 7.—Miss Evelyn Warrensford, Charleroi school teacher, was hurt when her machine crashed over a concrete culvert.

JOHN B. WALKER, EX-PUBLISHER, DIES AT 84

Noted Crusader Born in Monongahela Valley; Once Editor of Newspaper Here

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—John Brisben Walker, 84, nationally known publisher, engineer and crusader for world peace and other causes, died today at his home in Brooklyn.

He was formerly publisher and editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine and owner of the Stanley patents for steam automobiles, A business which he organized from coast to coast.

Along with other activities which crowded his long life, he was a rancher, educator, road builder, humanitarian, politician, farmer and soldier in a Chinese army.

Born in the Monongahela river valley, Pennsylvania, he was educated at Georgetown College, Washington, and West Point, after resigning his cadetship he went to China and served for two years in the Chinese army.

BROKE IN '73

Returning to the United States in 1870, he engaged in iron manufacturing in the Kanawha valley, West Virginia. When the panic of 1873 came, he believed himself worth $500,000, but when it was ended he was penniless.

Then he went into journalism, getting his start by writing a series of articles on minerals and manufactures for the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette. That led him to the managing editorship of the Pittsburgh Telegraph and the editor's chair of the Washington Daily Chronicle.

EXPERT FARMER

After three years of journalism, he went into farming and introduced alfalfa, foundation of many fortunes, on a 1,600-acre farm he bought near Denver.

When he bought the Cosmopolitan Magazine for $360,000, its circulation jumped from 16,000 to 151,000. William Dean Howells became his literary adviser and the magazine achieved distinction. It was eventually sold to William Randolph Hearst.

AUTOIST HURT, ONE MISSING

Mike McDonough, 25, of Bell avenue, North Braddock, was in serious condition in Pittsburgh Hospital today from injuries suffered when the automobile he was driving overturned on the William Penn highway, near the crossroads in Murrysville early today. He was pinned under the wreckage.

Virginia Robinson, 28, of 532 Hawkins avenue, Braddock, a passenger in the car, was uninjured. At East End Police Station she told police she had attended a party in Braddock last night and was being driven home by McDonough. She was unable to tell what caused the car to overturn.

Parents of James Alexander, of Braddock, who was reported to have left the party with Miss Robinson and McDonough, asked police to search for their son. It was believed he had been injured in the crash and crawled clear of the wreckage.

Charles Gruber, 46, of 1029 Benton avenue, was uninjured when his automobile overturned after a collision with another machine driven by W. C. Tredway, 23, of Laurel Gardens, Ross Township, at West North and Galveston avenues late yesterday, police reported. Both were arrested.

Maryland Would Keep 'Old Ironsides'

BALTIMORE, July 7.—(AP.)—Efforts to secure for Maryland permanent possession of the famed frigate Constitution, "Old Ironsides," were given added impetus last night with a plea by the Flag House Association that the restored ship be moored at Annapolis.

The resolution urging the Constitution be placed in Maryland waters will be forwarded to the Secretary of the Navy to be added to other like appeals. Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the Navy, has urged that the ship be kept at Annapolis.

Lost French Dauphin Fled To Canada, Woman Says

CLEARWATER, Fla., July 7.—(AP.)—The lost dauphin of France, son of the ill-fated Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, was not a victim of the revolution, according to Mrs. Madeline Buchanan Gill, but escaped to Canada and had a son who was reared by John C. Calhoun.

The commonly accepted story is that the dauphin died in prison, but the version of Mrs. Gill, a social leader here, is based on documents of the late Princess De Montglyon, of Belgium, whose estate is now in litigation in Tampa.

Mrs. Gill said that after the beheading of Marie Antoinette in 1794, the Countess Cabarras used her wiles on an admirer, Barras, an official of the new republican regime, to smuggle the youth to Naples. Duc Davaray interfered and took the dauphin to a chateau near Paris, from where he was subsequently spirited away by Count Charles Mercy Argenteau, an ancestor of the Princess De Montglyon.

Disguised as a girl, the dauphin was taken to Holland by the count and then to Canada by the wife of the Duke of Orleans. The dauphin was called Henry De Rion.

As Henry De Rion the dauphin joined the British army, married Margaret Hunter in 1827 and died the following year, six months before the birth of his son, James Henry De Rion.

Through Count Argenteau, according to Mrs. Gill, Calhoun was informed of the dauphin's presence in Canada and later became guardian of his son.

The dauphin's son grew to manhood with the Calhoun family in South Carolina, married Mary Catherine Wier at Harrisburg, Pa., December 11, 1851, and died in Winnsboro, S. C., in 1886, Mrs. Gill said.

Ancient Auto to Retrace Trans-U. S. Course of '05

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—An ancient automobile will chug its way out of New York tomorrow morning driven by Dwight B. Huss, retired automobile engineer, of Detroit, who drove it to victory in the first transcontinental motor race in history in 1905. The car is "Old Scout," a curved dash, one-cylinder seven-horsepower runabout, steered with a stick.

"Old Scout" and Huss are retracing the route of their 26-year-old victory to celebrate a quarter century of good roads progress in America.

Huss will carry a letter from Mayor Walker to the mayor of Portland and another from Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to the governor of Oregon. "Old Scout" and Huss won the 1905 race by reaching Portland, Ore., in 44 days.

PINCHOT AGENT ATTENDING INQUIRY

40 Witnesses Called for Probe of Wildwood Fight Of Deputies and Strikers

With half a dozen state policemen patroling the outside of the Magee Building, Coroner W. J. McGregor today opened his inquest into the death of Pete Zigarac, striking miner, shot during a riot at Wildwood, June 22.

H. S. Rausenbush, Gov. Pinchot's strike investigator, was one of the first spectators to enter the courtroom.

Twoscore or more witnesses were to testify regarding the disorders which resulted in Zigarac's death, the injury of 12 others and the arrest of 42 miners and sympathizers as strikers and officers guarding the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal and Coke Company clashed with clubs, stones and guns.

BRAUN TO TESTIFY

John Carmichael and Harry Barker, county detectives, and William (Silver) Braun, chief deputy sheriff, were among the first witnesses.

Braun was in charge of the deputies who fired on the strikers and their sympathizers after the mob charged the officers.

Carmichael and Barker outlined the action taken by the District Attorney's office to determine the cause of the outbreak. Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk and Chief County Detective George W. Murren represented the District Attorney.

Other witnesses to be called were:

Robert Brown, Edward Horan, Herbert Reel, William Dean and Glenn Henry, deputy sheriffs. Reel was severely injured during the rioting.

Frank Butler, Ray Sprigle, Chester Brown and Harold Harrison, newspapermen.

OFFICIALS CALLED

H. R. Sprenkle, Ray H. Miller and W. F. Vance, officials of the coal company.

Thomas Meyerscough, alleged Communist leader.

Henry and Gus Rosner, Charles A. Stump and Mrs. Mary Gillespie, all of Wildwood, listed as disinterested witnesses.

Mrs. Theresa Preselac, the only woman among the 42 under arrest, and Mrs. Susan Falcon, her daughter, proprietor of the store where the rioting centered, held as agitators.

Paul Vorsak, Peter Brown, Robert Young, Harold Adamik, John F. Wilson, strikers.

PICTURES TO BE SHOWN

FRECKLES WINS PART IN FILMS

"Freckles" Akerman, now 15, who a few years back sold newspapers at Market street and Fifth avenue, has finally broken into the movies as the successor of Wesley Barry.

Freckles, setting out for Hollywood two years ago, found a job caring for animals, in which capacity he managed to attract the attention of many stars. A few months ago he received a chance with Buster Keaton and Cliff Edwards in their new production, "Sidewalks of New York."

COAL OFFICIALS WAIT PARLEY

Several of the largest local coal operators will attend the conference called by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont Thursday at Washington to discuss the ills of the coal industry, it was learned today.

No labor organizations have been invited to attend the conference, it was stated.

The chaotic condition of the bituminous coal industry and the basic causes and possible remedies for conditions will be discussed at the conference.

Lamont's conference is looked upon by coal men as the first step on the part of a governmental agency to determine the reasons for present conditions and decision as to what may be done to benefit the industry.

The conference is for coal operators only. Probably a dozen of the largest bituminous companies in the United States, including three of the leading local operators, will be represented.

C. L. COOK SUED ON ALIENATION CHARGE

Brentwood Auctioneer Stole Wife's Affections, Says Auto Man's Complaint

C. Lawrence Cook, 19 Club drive, Brentwood, manager of an auctioneering business with offices in the Park Building, today was made defendant in an alienation of affections suit asking $150,000 damages.

The suit was filed in Federal Court by Henry H. Reed, 853 Mahoning avenue, Youngstown, O. Reed is said to be secretary and manager of a Youngstown auto agency.

SEPARATED IN MARCH

Reed, in his statement of claim, filed through Attorneys W. P. Barnum and K. H. Powell, Youngstown, recites that he and his wife, Lyla E. Reed, were married November 10, 1926, in Campbell, O., and separated March 1, 1931. They have one son, Richard Henry.

"TURNED AFFECTIONS"

In his bill Reed charges that Cook maliciously and willfully caused Mrs. Reed to become dissatisfied with her husband and caused Reed's loss of her affections, and companionship. Reed's statement says Cook supplied Mrs. Reed with large sums of money and enabled her to make trips to Buffalo, Cambridge Springs and Hollywood, Fla., so that Cook co[illegible]her company. Mrs. Reed is now [illegible]ing in Cleveland, the statement says.

PICKETS HELD FOR RIOTING

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 7.—Twenty-seven men and five women from Poland and Moffitt-Sterling mines in Greene County, said to have participated in a riot in which Sheriff James White and other officers were attacked last Friday at Walnut Hill, were arrested today by state and county police. The arrests followed discovery of a plot, police said, by which the strikers were to again attack he sheriff.

Of those arrested, five were American-born, five had first citizenship papers, two had second papers and 22 had no claim to citizenship.

Striking miners increased their picketing activities throughout the Pittsburgh area today, as their leaders said, they received reports that several mines planned to reopen with nonunion labor.

A report that 200 nonunion men were to be taken into the Versailles Township mines of the McKeesport Coal and Coke Company brought out a picket line of 200 strikers last night.

Five men accused of stoning a truck load of nonunion miners at Creighton were held for court on charges of inciting a riot by Justice of the Peace Ralph Parkhill in Aspinwall.

HINT PANTAGES CASE FAILURE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 7.—(AP.)—Tom Whelan, district attorney, said today conspiracy and morals charges against Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, and three others might be dropped. Retrial of the group is docketed to open next Monday.

Pantages is accused of conspiring with Jesse H. Shreve, a San Diego business man, and Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann, alleged operators of a Hollywood "girl market," to bring Lydia Nitto, a minor, to a hotel party. At the first trial the jurors disagreed, nine favoring acquittal.

Navy Helps Hurley To Hoover Luncheon

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia Navy Yard answered a cry for help from Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and thereby saved President Hoover from having an empty chair at his luncheon for the round-the-world fliers and their wives.

Hurley was at Atlantic City over the weekend and took a train for Washington. As the train neared Philadelphia he discovered he would be late for the luncheon if he remained aboard. So he called on the Navy for a plane.

Etna Banker Denies Arrest On Liquor Charge

Because he argued with a taxicab driver over a 20-cent call charge, a man who said he was John S. Patterson, president of the First National Bank of Etna, was arrested and held for court on liquor charges in Greenville yesterday.

John S. Patterson, of the Park Mansions, Frew street, East End, who is president and a director of the Etna bank, last night declared he had not been arrested.

The Patterson brought before the Greenville police refused to pay 20 cents to a driver after he had summoned a taxi and changed his mind about entering it. The driver took Patterson to the police station.

A traveling bag the prisoner carried was opened and, police say, two quarts of liquor was found.

He was taken before Justice of the Peace W. D. Rezner, where he was charged with transporting and possessing liquor.

Greenville police say the prisoner and his wife and another couple were motoring to Lake Erie for an outing. Patterson then became involved in a dispute with other members of the party and decided to return, according to the police report. He left the machine and summoned a cab, but when it arrived he had decided to go on with his party, the officers reported.

8 FACE HEARING IN STONING OF TAXICABS

Aspinwall Justice to Scan Strike Violence Charges; Three Men Free on Bail

Eight men arrested in connection with the stoning of taxicabs in strike violence over the holiday weekend will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace R. N. Parkhill, of Aspinwall, tomorrow afternoon. The arrests followed investigations of representatives of the Green and Yellow taxicab companies.

Three of the men were committed to the County Jail and released on bail. They were listed as John Moore, held on two charges of felonious assault and battery, and James W. Watt and Henry J. Wiltfeur, charged with felonious assault and battery. Moore was released on bail of $5,000 and the others on $1,000 each.

Justice Parkhill said that jail commitments are to be executed for the other five, all charged with felonious assault.

JOHN D. 92; NO HOLIDAY

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, emperor of oil, will be 92 tomorrow and his birthday schedule will observe the old adage:

"Business before pleasure."

Arising early, the elderly capitalist is expected to spend an hour or so in the forenoon at work with a secretary.

Despite his age, Mr. Rockefeller's health was described by his representatives as "excellent." Although his labors of former years are now in large part transferred to other shoulders, he likes to keep in touch with the multitudinous affairs of the Rockefeller interests.

In the evening there will be a birthday dinner for just the members of his family, including his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the grandchildren.

Japan Grants Lindy Fueling Privileges

TOKIO, July 7.—(AP.)—The aviation bureau announced today it had granted Col. Charles A. Lindbergh permission to establish fuel dumps at Muroton Bay, Shimushiru Island, and Kakumabetsu and Paramushir, all in the Kurile Islands, to aid him in his forthcoming flight from America to the Far East. The United States Army 'round-the-world fliers used Paramushir as a base in 1924.

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—It has been announced at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine that Bishop William T. Manning has been ordered by his physicians not to attend the meeting of the general convention of the Episcopal Church at Denver in September, and to spend the summer quietly.

SECOND KILLING STIRS SING SING

OSSINING, N. Y., July 7.—(AP.)—The second fatal stabbing of a prisoner within the walls of Sing Sing prison today resulted in the cancellation of all convicts' privileges, while a picked squad of guards made a cell-to-cell search for hidden weapons.

The latest victim of what Warden Lewis E. Lawes termed an inmates' feud was John De Lucca, 24, of Brooklyn, serving a term for a holdup. He died last night in the prison hospital.

Lawes said De Lucca had been stabbed Saturday night while attending the prison motion picture show. Shows have been suspended pending the outcome of the warden's inquiry.

John Mulvaney, another convict from Brooklyn, was accused by Warden Lawes of killing De Lucca as a reprisal for the killing of Frank Doyle, another prisoner, last Tuesday. Mulvaney was placed in solitary confinement.

Cloudburst Ties Up Baltimore Traffic

BALTIMORE, Md., July 7.—(AP.)—A cloudburst, accompanied by stiff gusts of wind and sharp flashes of lightning, broke over the southwestern outskirts of the city yesterday, flooding cellars, eating gulleys into unpaved streets and tying up rail and motor traffic for an hour.

The city was drenched in a heavy downpour which thinned to a drizzle as night came on, but long before midnight had exceeded an inch.

CUT IN CRIME LAID TO POLICE RADIO CARS

Clark and Walsh Pleased as Auto Thefts and Holdups Show Sharp Decline Here

With statistics revealing an 80 per cent decrease in the theft of automobiles and a 20 per cent decrease in general crime during the last two months, Public Safety Director James M. Clark and Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh today announced they were well pleased with the police broadcasting station, police emergency and scout cars and dectective cruisers.

LESS CRIME

Since the installation of the system, two months ago, there has been a pronounced falling off in crime in the city, they said, particularly chain store and filling station holdups. Edward O'Rourke, motor division head, reported the percentage of recovered stolen automobiles had increased from 94 to 97 per cent.

He also said stolen automobiles were recovered much sooner with the cruising cars. During the Fourth of July holiday period 10 cars were reported stolen, as compared with 60 last year.

MORE CARS

Director Clark, announcing he would ask Council for additional scout cars, said:

"I am delighted with the work performed by the personnel of the broadcasting station and crews of the scout and emergency cars and cruisers. So far, the system has been a great success, and has accomplished more than I had expected."

Supt. Walsh said:

"Remarkably good work is being done by the officers assigned to the department's scout, emergency and cruising autos. It is the most progressive step taken in police history for crime prevention and the apprehension of criminals."

DECLARES POPE BLOCKED PEACE

ROME, July 7.—(AP.)—Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of the Premier, said in Popolo d'Italia today that the Vatican and the state had just about reached an agreement on the Catholic Action controversy when the Pope's encyclical "spoiled it."

He said the controversy rested on two points: the closing of the Catholic Action Youth clubs and the education of Italian youth, and that the latter problem had practically been solved. He declared:

"The encyclical raised protests abroad, but these protests actually were the fruit of aversion against Italy. Many people love Italy as a garden spot, but condemn her and hate her as a power."

The differences between the church and the state are common in countries whose relations with the church are governed by a concordat, he said.

War Flier to Seek Pacific Hop Prize

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—(AP.)—In quest of the bag of gold that awaits the first man to fly the Pacific Ocean from the American mainland to Tokio, Capt. Herbert G. Partridge, former World War aviator, will take off from Burbank, Cal., sometime before September 1, it was announced here by Roy Hampton, manager of the proposed flight.

Hampton said a total of $72,500 will reward the aviator if he makes the trip.

Alicia Patterson Flying to New York

ALBANY, N. Y., July 7.—(AP.)—Miss Alicia Patterson, daughter of Joseph Medill Patterson, New York and Chicago publisher, landed her biplane here last night from Plattsburg and on unfavorable weather reports decided to wait until today before taking off for New York City.

Miss Patterson, noted as an aviatrix and author, was accompanied by J. W. Brooks in another plane.

Arno, Denying Marriage, Scoffs at Vanderbilt

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Peter Arno, cartoonist, and Mrs. Florence Rice Smith were back home today with respective Reno divorces and avowals they would not marry each other.

Mrs. Smith, former wife of Sydney A. Smith, New York broker, and daughter of Grantland Rice, sports writer, said:

"I never want to see a wedding ring again."

Arno, whose marriage to Lois Long, writer, was dissolved by the courts, told his version of the fiasco with Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., declaring:

"Vanderbilt has a mania for publicity. He is now writing a play about Reno. He is a completely frustrated human being. His only satisfaction is when his name is plastered on front pages.

"He said he was going to train with Jack Dempsey and fight me. I said: 'All right; I'll train with Jackie Coogan.'"

TEXT OF JURY'S PRESENTMENT IN CITY QUIZ

as thorough as possible with the information available at the present time. We are of the opinion that the facts which we have developed would not warrant any additional indictments at this time.

We have found instances in which successful bidders for contracts awarded by the Department of Supplies paid large commissions to obtain city contracts, but the testimony showed these commissions to have been paid to persons apparently not connected with the city government, and we were unable to further trace money so paid. We believe, however, that if contracts had been awarded to the lowest responsible bidders, as required by law, the payment of such commissions would have been unavailing and the practice eliminated. As these are matters covered by the indictments based upon our former presentment, we make no further recommendation.

We have found many instances in which bids had apparently been changed, either raised or lowered, but brought within a few cents of the next lowest bidder. We were unable to ascertain from the testimony whether these changes had been made before the opening of the bids or afterwards. We learned from the testimony, however, that although a representative of the controller's office was present at the opening of the bids, no copies or records of the bids were kept in the controller's office, and bids were filed in the Department of Supplies from the time they were opened until the contracts were awarded, with the result that the controller would be unable to discover, from records kept in his office, alterations made in bids after submission. We thinks such occurrences could be prevented if the bids were required to be filed in duplicate and a copy filed in the controller's office or some other record made in the controller's office at the time of the opening of the bids.

WASTE AT MAYVIEW

We have found evidence of gross waste and inefficiency on the part of the superintendent of the City Home at Mayview, in the handling and issuance of supplies.

From the evidence that has been produced before us in the handling of the Department of Supplies of the City of Pittsburgh for the years 1929 and 1930, and part of 1931, we are of the opinion that the Department of Supplies of the City of Pittsburgh has been conducted with an utter disregard for the laws prescribing the manner in which contracts shall be let and purchases made for the City of Pittsburgh. We have evidence that during this period there were upwards of 4,000 instances in which purchases were made either without any competitive bidding or in disregard of the lowest responsible bidder, and this practice was well known to the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Supplies. Furthermore, the evidence discloses that this system of awarding contracts in violation of law became so generally well known among prospective bidders that it effectually discouraged competitive bidding.

We recommend that all records produced before this grand jury be impounded by the court in the custody of the District Attorney, to be held by him until such time as the indictments heretofore found shall have been finally disposed of.

We are of the opinion that every source of information that might be pertinent to the investigation of the Department of Supplies of the City of Pittsburgh at this time has been investigated and would, therefore, pray Your Honorable Court that we be relieved from further inquiry at this time into the matters heretofore submitted to us.

LAW FLAUNTED, CITY PROBERS CHARGE

COMMISSIONS PAID

The most startling feature of the presentment was the disclosure that commissions had been paid for the award of city contracts. It was declared:

"We have found instances in which successful bidders paid large commissions to obtain city contracts, but the testimony showed these commissions to be paid to persons apparently not connected with the city government, and we were unable to trace money so paid."

Evidence disclosed that the practice of awarding contracts in violation of the law became so generally known that it effectually discouraged competitive bidding, the jurors charged.

The investigation of the department covered the years of 1929 and 1930.

The grand jury charged that the practice of awarding contracts without competitive bidding was known to Mayor Kline and the director of the department. Contracts were opened before a representative of the city controller's office, the presentment revealed, but no records were kept in that department.

MUST NOT TALK

In dismissing the jury Judge Gray said:

"Your work is finished temporarily, but I would recommend that you reconvene on July 30 to consider routine jail cases.

Admonishing the jurors to secrecy he said:

"Don't let any one talk to you and don't talk to anyone about what you heard in the grand jury room."

Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed praised District Attorney Andrew T. Park. He said:

"The district attorney and his staff, including the county detectives, have worked very hard to produce all evidence bearing on the case. I think District Attorney Park has demonstrated his courage and fidelity to duty in this proceeding."

PRAISES REED

District Attorney Andrew T. Park indicated that the grand jury may reopen its investigation when it reconvenes the latter part of this month. He said:

"It's over as far as I know. If, when the grand jury meets again, there is anything to be taken up regarding the investigation, that body has the power to consider it. I am very well pleased with Mr. Reed's efforts, and my entire staff. I will retain Mr. Reed as long as he is willing to stay. The grand jury deserves great praise for the sacrifices and good service it has rendered."

The presentment was made to Judge Gray by Jacob Wolff, of Bellevue, foreman.

Prior to the presentment the testimony of Patrolman George Brubach, former Bertillon sergeant in the City Detective Bureau, was heard. A. L. Braun, Jr., J. S. Lanahan, of the Fort Pitt Malleable Iron Company, were other witnesses. Awaiting call were City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and W. J. Arlow, of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company.

DINNER HONORS MARK SHIELDS

Newspapermen from the three Pittsburgh dailies, members of the judiciary and political leaders last night honored Mark Shields, political writer and editor, with a farewell dinner in the Pittsburgh Field Club.

Shields leaves today to become managing editor of the Washington Herald, Washington, D. C., after serving seven years on the Pittsburgh Press and being lately attached to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Speakers included Harry M. Bitner, publisher of the Sun-Telegraph; Edward T. Leech, editor, and Ned Boyle, managing editor of the Press; Havey J. Boyle, of the Post-Gazette; Judges Frank Patterson and James H. Gray, Attorneys O. K. Eaton and Alexander W. Lindsay and others. Joseph N. Mackrell, register of wills, was toastmaster.

Pinchot Yacht Sold To California Man

Gov. Pinchot in 1929 cruised through the South Pacific in the yatch and collected marine specimens for the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

Government Subdues Rebel City in Peru

LIMA, Peru, July 7.—(AP.)—The Peruvian government today announced the capture of the city of Cuzco, center of a revolt which has been in progress the past few weeks.

HIT-RUN AUTO KILLS SISTERS

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 7.—(AP.)—A speeding automobile careened across a street in Morrisonville last night, ploughed onto the sidewalk, fatally injuring two little girls, then swept down the sidewalk for 200 yards, knocking down posts, before the driver halted it, leaped out and fled into the woods.

An aroused village helped state troopers hunt the man, believed to be a rum runner.

The dead girls were sisters, Ilene Lucia, 6, and Marie Lucia, 3. They were watching a man mow a lawn when the big touring car bore down on them. It snapped a mail box post and then ran over them. They died in a Plattsburg hospital.

MILITARY RITES FOR POLICEMAN

A military funeral was accorded today to P. J. McGinley, war veteran and city patrolman, who was killed Saturday morning in an automobile accident in Bausman street.

The body was escorted from his home, 5023 Dearborn street, to St. Lawrence R. C. Church by 70 policemen, firemen and veterans from Post No. 303, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Following the services the escort followed to Calvary Cemetery where interment was held. A firing squad fired three volleys over the grave.

DUQUESNE MEN HELD IN DEATH

Three youths and a Negro man, all residents of Duquesne, are being held in the County Jail today on technical charges of murder for the investigation of the coroner into the death of John Pavolich, 20, of 141 Linden avenue, Duquesne, whose body was found in the Duquesne playground, River avenue, Saturday morning.

Those held are Charles Oiak, 20, of 104 North Third street; Mike Katzman, 20, of 103 Superior street; Mike Spanic, 23, of 108 East Oliver avenue, and Charles Henderson, 40, a Negro of Mill street.

Twenty-four hours after Pavolich's body had been found, a bullet wound in the back, County Detective Patrick Traynor and Duquesne police arrested five youths. Two were released yesterday and Henderson was taken into custody.

TRAFFIC CRASH VICTIMS SUE

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mag of McKees Rocks have filed suit against the Gulf Refining Company in Common Pleas Court, claiming $25,000 damages for injuries to Mrs. Mag. The suit averred she suffered concussion of the brain and other injuries when an automobile in which she was riding on Island avenue near Bradley street, McKees Rocks, December 21, was struck by a truck of defendant corporation.

Seeking $25,000 damages for injuries when a street car in which he was a passenger was struck by a truck, Michael Hilka, of Neville Island, filed suit against the Beaver Valley Service Company.

Doctor Lays Death Of Child to Fright

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 7.—(AP) Betty Jane Joralemon, 12, was literally "scared to death" last night, the medical examiner said, after the child had dropped dead in a garage at Webb Mills, her home. Betty Jane fell dead on the appearance of a man of whom the family said she was afraid.

Thaden Now Chief Fokker Engineer

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP) Reorganization of the Fokker Aircraft Company's manufacturing division, a wholly owned subsidiary of General Aviation Corporation, has been put into effect, Herbert V. Thaden, of Pittsburgh, husband of Louise McPhetridge Thaden, has been installed as acting chief engineer and general manager.

Mr. Thaden, formerly head of Metal Aircraft Corporation of Pittsburgh, replaces Albert A. Gassner, resigned, who held the position for several years.

Indians on Warpath Kill Two Children

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 7.—(AP) Dispatches from Maraba said that the Cayapo Indians had gone on the warpath between the states of Maranhao and Goyaz.

The dispatches said that the Indians had attacked the town of Nazareth Dos Patos, killing four men and two children and had also caused much property damage.

JOINT OUTING SET JULY 21

Mr. Martin

Miss Catherene J. Monahan, district deputy of the North Side, is general chairman of the Catholic Daughters' groups. A general meeting of all committees will be held in the William Penn Hotel Friday night. Plans call for a special train to convey the picnickers to the park, making local stops for various courts and councils.

CURFEW RINGS FOR BATHERS

Bathing late at night in Dravosburg is banned by Burgess C. J. Carlson's order issued yesterday. More than 25 bathers were requested to leave the Monongahela River last night. Chief of Police C. A. Livingston and his patrolmen rounded up the bathers with warning of arrest if the order was violated again. In issuing the order the burgess said:

"We have given the public permission to bathe in what is known as the Curry Hollow sand bar. More than 500 people take advantage of it every day during the summer. In order to reach the hollow the bathers must trespass the property of the National Tube Company. The company has granted that permission. I will allow bathing in that section until 10 o'clock at night."

THE BEST PLACE TO SHOP, AFTER ALL

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, July 7.

SHOW BUSINESS, as it stands today, is in tough shape. As I write this piece there are 17 shows on Broadway—and three or four of them are going out next Saturday. There was a time when the astute showman knew what the public wanted. I defy anyone in the world to tell me what the public wants today.

Of recent days, as far as hits are concerned, we have been getting sophistication. "Three's a Crowd" was last winter's biggest musical hit—and if you took Fred Allen away from the show it wouldn't have lasted two months. At the moment we have the "Band Wagon," the "Third Little Show" and the "Follies." That the "Follies" is selling out to capacity is the surest sign in the world that those who think they have their hands on the pulse of sophistication haven't even touched the fingernails.

The motion picture industry is in pretty much the same condition. Over at the Paramount studios, in Long Island, they have been turning out pictures to satisfy New York and Broadway. Anyone who thinks that New York and Broadway constitute the motion picture public is slightly daffy. There are several folks in Paramount who evidently thought that such was the case. That they were mistaken is reflected in the fact that the Eastern studio will close very shortly.

Sophistication is swell — for those who want sophistication. It wasn't New York that made picture business; it was the thousands of towns throughout the United States. New York and the other large cities used to have great fun with Bill Hart and his Wild West pictures. We thought the picture folks were dopes—and they rolled up millions of dollars.

As long as I live I will never forget Sime Silverman, the editor of Variety, as he lunched with me before I left for Hollywood.

"Mark," he said, "you're going to Hollywood on your honeymoon. There's a chance that you'll go to work out there. If they ask you to do some work, what will you say?"

I swallowed a big piece of casaba melon.

"Sime," I retorted, "if they ask me to do some work, I'll tell them a thing or two. I'll show them how money is being wasted. I'll show them what fools they are. I'll—"

Sime is a tired man. He hasn't much time to waste on people like me.

"Mark," he said, "you don't have to go further. You're going to go to Hollywood. You're going to see them toss away hundreds of thousands of dollars on one picture. You're going to see them do stupid things that one word could correct.

"But with all your ideas, they're going to turn out pictures that will earn them several million dollars. And you're going to come back to town and do the same column you've been doing for a long, long time."

Well, what happened? Hellinger went to Hollywood. He saw them make several productions. He saw them make one picture in particular that might have been termed a super-super-super-special. He saw them at work nights—at a cost of $20,000 a night to get it finished—and for no reason whatsoever. And as they were working like the devil to get the massive production completed, he heard a great argument taking place one night.

Always on the job, I ran down to the spot where the fight was in progress. A small man with a big brief case was telling a musician what he thought of him.

"No," he was screaming, "you can't do it. You can't do it, I say. I won't stand for it. How dare you think you can get away with that?"

And I heard the musician return the compliment.

"I'm entitled to it," he cried. "Why shouldn't I have it if it's coming to me?"

And so, as they wasted thousand after thousand in an argument that held up the entire production, I stood and surveyed the situation. I finally went to the director of the picture and asked him the source of the trouble.

"Mr. Hellinger," he told me, "it's a very serious thing. That musician thinks he's entitled to $2.50 for overtime—and our efficiency expert says he's not. It's a very serious dispute."

Before I laughed out loud I thought of Sime Silverman and his words to me. I know now that Sime was right. The picture in which that incident occurred grossed several million dollars. It was one of the most successful pictures of the year.

And I'm still doing columns. Not very hot columns, I'll grant you—but columns just the same.

Since I've been to Hollywood, however, the picture business has changed. Dialogue has arrived—and some master-mind with half-a-mind sold the powers-that-be on the theory that the same picture that appealed to New York would appeal to the country at large. The master-mind made a very great mistake.

New York is just a tiny part of this nation. We residents of this town are smug, self-satisfied fools. We think we know a very great deal—and that anyone who doesn't agree with us is pretty much of a sap. As a matter of fact, we don't know half as much as we think we do. The picture industry is beginning to find it out. And so is the stage.

The theater is out to make money. When a certain theatrical group or a picture outfit give you beautiful words about art they are handing you hooey. The basis of all art is individual profit.

The best thing the picture concerns can do at the moment is to go back to the old formula of making pictures that will appeal to the masses. The best thing the New York theatrical outfits can do is to forget the minority who favor sophistication and produce their wares for the general public. Kid the situation all you wish, but the Saturday Evening Posts and the American Magazines sell in the millions—while the art catalogues are given away.

It all reminds me—and, believe it or not, this is what I started to write in the first paragraph—of the New York theatrical star who was seated in Reuben's restaurant the other night and was giving out his expert opinions.

"This sort of thing can't go on," he was saying. "The American public demands sophistication. I'll grant you the Follies is a gigantic hit, but what does that prove? Nothing that I can think of."

Over in a corner sat a booking agent. He had been booking acts long before the star had finished his first portion of herring. He listened attentively as the star talked on.

"I'm going on the road with my show in the fall," the star went on. "I don't see how I can miss. Conditions on the road must get better. I say they must get better."

The booking agent stirred his coffee.

"That may be," was his devastating interruption. "But you won't. . . .

Mexico Removes Ban On U. S. Corn

EL PASO, Tex., July 7.—(AP.)—The Juarez customs house has announced lifting of the Mexican quarantine against American corn. The quarantine was effective April 28 and included celery, beets, rhubarb, straw and several flowers as well as corn.

It was ordered because of reported damage to corn in the United States by the European corn borer.

Two Pennsylvanians Take Course in Subs

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP.)—Two Pennsylvania naval officers are among a class of 24 who have begun a course of training at the naval submarine base, New London, Conn. Lieuts. Roland F. Pryce, of Ebensburg, and Loring O. Shook, of Bangor, with 22 others will take a five and one-half months' course of instruction.

Confesses Robbing Office of $450

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—Charged with robbing an office in the Central City Building of $450 after firing bullets into the corridor to make it appear the work of burglars, Murray Williamson, 38, of Kingston, is being held today by the police after confessing he was the perpetrator of the theft. The loot was recovered.

Slayer of Woman Dies of Gun Wound

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 7.—Henry Barnett, 60, mill worker, who shot and killed his landlady, Mrs. Hannah Allison, 50, in a quarrel at his boarding house yesterday, died later in the City Hospital from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Mrs. Allison was killed after an argument when she ordered Barnett to leave the house.

Waynesburg Pastor Offers Resignation

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 7.—The Rev. F. S. Dowdy, pastor of the Waynesburg Christian Church for the past two years, has resigned his pastorate, effective October 1, to enter evangelistic work.

FIGHT BETRAYS JAIL FUGITIVE

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(INS.)—Recognized as a fugitive from justice from Baltimore, police say, Andrew Kowalski, 24, was held under $800 bail following his arrest for creating a disturbance in his home, when he is alleged to have thrown his mother-in-law downstairs.

Police, summoned to the house by neighbors, found Mrs. Veronica Stefanski, 55, lying on the floor at the bottom of the stairs, bleeding about the head. They declared Kowalski was engaged in an altercation with his wife, Anna, 23, on the second floor at the time.

Police asserted that the man leaped from a police van in Baltimore in May, 1930, when he was being taken to prison to serve a jail sentence after being convicted of assault and battery charges.

Child Run Over By Train; Unhurt

CHESTER, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—A train passed over George Junkerman, 4, on a trestle near his home at Leiperville, but the boy escaped with a slight cut on the knee.

The boy was playing on the trestle when a train approached. Unable to reach safety, he lay stretched out between the tracks.

Two Dry Agents Transferred in W. Va.

Missionary Freed, Medicine Ransom

HANKOW, China, July 7—(AP.)—Oscar Anderson, Lutheran missionary whose home is in Chicago, has been released by bandits upon payment of ransom of medicines valued at several thousands of dollars. Anderson was kidnaped last April.

LUTHER LEAGUE AVERTS CLASH

READING, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—Decision upon the missionary objective for the coming biennium threatened for a time to cause dissension in the final sessions of the Luther League of America convention, but peace prevailed when an overwhelmingly large vote decided that it should be the erection of a building for the theological seminary at Tokio, Japan, at a cost of $15,000.

The final session last night, addressed by the Rev. Henry W. Simon, Washington, became a testimonial meeting.

The following committee chairmen were announced: Literature, the Rev. C. P. Harry, Norristown; finance, Charles W. Fuhr, Pittsburgh; ways and means, Alvin C. Achaediger, North Bergen, N. J.; life service, the Rev. Chester S. Simonton, Harrisburg; missionary, Miss Winnie Butt, Charleston, S. C.; sustaining membership, John W. Martin, Washington.

LAMONT FUND APPEAL WON

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—The Appellate Division reversed the recent order of Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente appointing a receiver for funds held here under the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, composed of Thomas W. Lamont and other financial leaders.

Justice Valente had appointed a receiver on the application of Gustavo Gallopin, who sued as a bondholder of Mexico and on behalf of all other bondholders.

When the appeal before the Appellate Division was argued Friday, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie suggested to the court that the bankers' committee was acting as a part of the Mexican government in this matter and that Mexico, as a sovereign state, could not be made a party to the action without its permission.

BANKS TO UNITE ON MONDAY

The merged American State Bank and Trust Company, Sixth avenue and Grant street, and the Pittsburgh State Bank, 507 Fifth avenue, will unite their forces in the rooms of the former institution Monday.

The entire operating staff of both banks will be taken along in the merger, it is said. To make room for the increased force, the foreign department of the American State Bank is being moved to the mezzanine floor and the banking quarters on the first floor will be enlarged.

SIGN CAMPAIGN AID ASKED

Western Pennsylvania motorists were asked today to co-operate with the State Highway Department's drive to remove illegal signboards from the roadsides.

The department is waging a campaign against signs which block the vision at crossroads and those carrying "Stop" or "Warning" slogans in advertisements.

More than 32,000 such signs were removed last year.

Motorists are asked to report illegal signs to the Pittsburgh Motor Club, which will forward the complaint to Harrisburg.

Extra-rich

ice cream for dinner tonight
—only in the modern package—
(introductory price)

15¢ the pint

RIECK'S have an obligation to the Pittsburgh public which they have been serving — with Rieck's Cream and Milk and Rieck's Ice Cream — for more than 30 years.

But we also have an obligation to the farmers. Every day in the year, thousands of the finest dairy farms send us their milk and cream. No matter how much they send, they depend on us to take it all and to pay them for it. That we do — we have never failed them yet. But at this time, they are sending more than the public consumes — more than we can sell. The result is, we must do something to enable the people of this community to eat more of these fine health-giving foods.

That is why we have made a new, Extra-rich "National Dairy" Ice Cream. We have packed it in a modern pint package, for the convenience of every one. We have wrapped and sealed it — for absolute purity. And we have given it an introductory price of only 15 cents.

The same fine flavor as bulk ice cream

Just think how doctors say that every one should eat more milk and cream. This new, Extra-rich product brings you more of the vitamins of youth, beauty and health. It is the same in fine smoothness and flavor as bulk ice cream. It is made in exactly the same way — in spotlessly clean sterilized freezers. It is poured directly from the freezers to the modern pint packages. Then the packages are wrapped and sealed. This new ice cream is never touched by human hands!

Find the dealer who will serve you

Rieck dealers are everywhere, in every neighborhood. Just find the one nearest you, this very day. Resolve now to have this great, new, Extra-rich "National Dairy" Ice Cream for dinner tonight. Delicious strawberry, chocolate, vanilla and other special flavors. See if you ever tasted anything quite so good! Rieck's — the "National Dairy" Ice Cream.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

This new ice cream is sold only in the modern "National Dairy" pint package and this price of 15 cents does not apply to any other ice cream in either bulk or package, sold or handled by Rieck dealers.

TUNE IN on the Rieck Revelers program every Tuesday evening at 7.15 (D. S. T.), over KDKA. Also don't miss Rieck's Trips to Wonderland every Friday evening at 6.30 (D. S. T.), over WCAE.

Seven great health features

SEVEN great health features are combined in this superb new pint of ice cream. Study them and see what "National Dairy" means to your health and enjoyment.

1 Only pure fresh milk and cream from inspected dairies are used in making this new, Extra-rich "National Dairy" Ice Cream.

2 Only the purest and best of flavors — fruits, berries, nuts, chocolate and real sugar — are chosen.

3 "National Dairy" chemists, in spotless, modern laboratories, test every ingredient to make scientifically sure that it is pure.

4 This new, Extra-rich "National Dairy" Ice Cream is pasteurized for the protection of you and your children, just as with the finest milk and cream.

5 This pure new ice cream is homogenized, a special process that bursts the millions of tiny cream globules, and spreads their silken smoothness and digestibility throughout the ice cream.

6 This "National Dairy" Ice Cream is quick-frozen to bring all of its smoothness, freshness and flavor to you.

7 Glassine wrapping and sealing is applied to the new "National Dairy" pint, to guard absolutely its freshness and purity. This ice cream is never touched by human hands.

dent declared emphatically that he was adverse to cancellation.

At the conference with Stimson, it was decided not to go ahead with any relief plan because the League of Nations was discussing the world economic situation at Geneva. The President was hopeful the League would suggest a solution.

DECIDES TO ACT

When on May 21 the Geneva conference broke up without action the President decided to go ahead.

Castle revealed that the date on which Mr. Hoover first began to recognize the necessity for some action to save Germany was on May 1. The situation was going from bad to worse. The first actual move was made, however, with the arrival of Ambassador Dawes on May 6. The next day he called on the State and Commerce departments for complete information on the German situation.

The President then felt action was up to the government.

Sackett returned to the capital June 2 on his way back to Berlin. Ambassador Dawes was here also from London, and the President went over the situation. It was determined that drastic action was necessary, and on June 5 the President worked out the plan he later proposed for the debt holiday.

MELLON AID ASKED

On June 6 it was announced to the cabinet, but Mr. Hoover felt it could not be announced then. Secretary Mellon was going to Europe on vacation, and the President asked him to discuss the European economic situation abroad.

Hoover and Stimson conferred with George L. Harrison, of the Federal Reserve Bank in New York; Owen Young, who worked out the reparations plan which bears his name; S. Parker Gilbert, former director general of reparations, and Under Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

All during the President's western trip he was disturbed by the situation which reports indicated was growing rapidly worse. On his return to the Capital he called in as many Congressional leaders as were available, and had Stimson broach it to the diplomatic representatives of the nations involved. He took it up first with the French. Stimson did this on June 19, and still it was not the Presidents intention to make the announcement for a few days, but his had was forced by a "leak." The announcement came on June 20.

Administration officials expressed the hope today that the meeting of the Young plan signatories powers and that of the treasury experts of those countries would open quickly.

party to this aspect of the debt holiday plan, but it was indicated that if American help were needed it will be given.

Debt Holiday in Effect; Experts' Meeting Awaited

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, July 7.—With the Hoover moratorium effective as of July 1, as the result of the definite Franco-American accord signed here last night, Paris turned its attention today to new negotiations for a European agreement on questions raised by the debt suspension.

It will take at least several months for the international committee of experts to work out all the multitudinous details of the debt holiday. With so many governments involved, and so many interlocking agreements between them, the committee of experts probably will have to labor right up to December to get the plan in operation before payments again fall due on December 15.

YOUNG PLAN SIGNERS

The new negotiations will be between the signers of the Young plan and the founders of the Bank of International Settlements. Since France has agreed to offer no obstacles contravening the spirit of President Hoover's plan, the United States has no direct concern in the new parleys.

Meanwhile the British government has renewed its recent invitation to powers signatory to the Young plan to hold a conference in London at an early date to thresh out the technical difficulties still unsettled in connection with the moratorium proposal.

France, England, Germany and other signatories to the Young plan have now to work out an accord concerning the $100,000,-

How Debt Truce Aids Debtor Nations

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP.)—President Hoover's moratorium plan will permit foreign debtor nations to withhold from this government during the year from July 1, 1931, to July 1, 1932, a total of $246,-609,948.

The payments which will be postponed through the moratorium:

Austria, $287,556; Belgium, $7,950,000; Czechoslovakia, $3,-000,000; Esthonia, $597,000; Finland, $312,295; France, $50,-000,000; Great Britain, $159,-520,000; Greece, $1,109,080; Hungary, $69,342; Italy, $14,-706,125; Latvia, $249,000; Lithuania, $224,550; Poland, $7,555,-000; Rumania, $800,000; Jugoslavia, $250,000.

000 fund guaranteed by France to other recipients of German reparations in case Germany declares a moratorium under the Young plan at the end of the Hoover moratorium.

REPARATIONS IN KIND

Agreement must also be sought on the problem of German reparations in kind and Germany must furnish to France assurance that sums released by the Hoover plan will be used exclusively for economic purposes.

The text of thed ebt holiday agreement lists the following chief stipulations:

1—Payment of intergovernmental war debts is postponed from July 1, 1931, through June 30, 1932.

2—Germany will pay the unconditional annuity of the Young plan to the Bank for International Settlements, which in turn will reloan it to her.

3—The suspended payments will be subject to interest and will be re-payable in 10 annual installments beginning July 1, 1933.

Debt Pact Raises Many Difficulties for Hoover

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—All of President Hoover's worries were not ended today by France's acceptance of his war debt holiday. In fact, some of them, important ones, too, may be said to be just starting.

The plan involves a financial sacrifice on the part of the United States treasury of some $246,000,-000 for the current fiscal year which began last Wednesday. The Treasury closed the fiscal year on June 30 with a deficit in excess of $900,000,000. To this must be added the $246,000,000 which the American government is to forego during the year on Europe's indebtedness.

The money must be found somewhere to offset it—either by reduced governmental expenditures, issuance of more bonds, or increased taxes. Governmental expenditures have been cut and cut until there is general belief that little more can be pruned unless there is to be a marked diminution of governmental activities. Increasing taxes in the face of an approaching presidential campaign is politically out of the question. There remains short-term borrowings by the Treasury.

CONGRESS PROBLEM

With the assembly of Congress early in December, Mr. Hoover will have more trouble on his hands arising from his debt holiday. Some very influential regular Republicans in both houses are secretly gnashing their teeth over what they regard as Mr. Hoover's re-opening the whole troublesome question of war debt payments and reparations, which they had thought settled five years ago.

And the Democrats and Progressives are planning to have considerable to say about relieving distress in the United States once they can regain the congressional stage.

Already several projects are afoot to propose moratoriums affecting governmental debts in this country. The Federal Farm Board and Intermediate Credit Banks, for example, have millions of dollars worth of farm paper, and the friends of the farmer, with a campaign approaching, are going to insist that if Europe is entitled to a moratorium then so is the hard-pressed American farmer.

Mellon Quits Paris For Riviera Holiday

PARIS, July 7.—(AP.)—Today was a quiet one for Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. With the moratorium conference over, he rested and left in the evening for Cap Ferrat on the French Riviera to begin his vacation with members of his family.

His son, Paul Mellon, will go to Tours to perfect his speech in French in the institute there.

BERLIN VOICES GRATITUDE TO HOOVER

'Magnanimous Initiative Crowned With Success,' Proclamation Declares

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service.

BERLIN, July 7.—Gratitude to President Hoover for assistance to Germany in her "hour of greatest economic danger," was expressed today in an official government proclamation announcing the accord reached in Washington and Paris on the Hoover debt moratorium proposal.

At the same time the German government pledged itself to the world to utilize the funds released through the suspension of debt payments to rehabilitate German industry, rather than for government expenditures of any nature.

This was an indirect answer to the French demand that Germany should not be permitted to use any of the money released by debt suspension for increasing her land or sea armaments.

The proclamation said:

"President Hoover's broad-minded and magnanimous initiative has been crowned with success. It comes as a spiritual relief to Germany and opens the road to economic recovery and releases feelings of friendship and joy in the German people."

President Paul Von Hindenburg, who is spending his vacation on his estate at Neudeck, East Prussia, today cabled President Hoover a message of thanks. The cable said:

"Following the beginning of the debt holiday of a year, I want to express the German people's thanks to you and to the American people. Due to your initiative, may the world be led into a new era of peaceful cooperation and mutual confidence."

NAPLES GREETS STIMSON

NAPLES, Italy, July 7.—(AP.)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson arrived from Palermo today en route to Rome and other European capitals to observe political conditions with respect to the world economic situation.

He was welcomed by American Ambassador John W. Garrett and Italian officials and was cheered by a considerable crowd. He was expected to leave shortly for Rome in order to begin conferences with Premier Mussolini and others by Thursday.

His visit is linked in many quarters with that of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in Paris, and the presence of two American cabinet ministers on European soil at the same time is interpreted as having an important bearing on international moves to stimulate the recovery of commerce.

German Babe Named In Honor of Hoover

BERLIN, July 7.—(AP.)—President Hoover defeated Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in obtaining the first personal recognition for the adoption of the reparations holiday.

The name Hoover was given to a baby boy born in Zehlendorf, a suburb of Berlin, in gratitude for America's beneficient action toward Germany. The parents said the child would have been named Mellona if it had been a girl.

Couzens Calls Pact 'Dumb Diplomacy'

OGDEN, Utah, July 7.—(AP.)—Senator James Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, asserts the Hoover moratorium plan is "another example of America's dumb diplomacy." The Michigan senator stopped here for a few hours last night en route in his private car to Yellowstone National Park.

Predicting President Hoover "undoubtedly will be renominated by the Republican party," Couzens added:

"But I doubt if this moratorium action will help him."

Mellon's 'Plain Speaking' Speeds Debt Pact

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A financial man, who turned diplomat at 76 to work for a world debt-holiday, today was free for his vacation, interrupted by the most tense international negotiations of recent years. That man is Andrew W. Mellon.

Official Washington was worried about the health of the venerable cabinet official, as the terrific strain of the Paris negotiations continued day by day with a pressure that was putting a mark on much younger men.

Mellon reached Paris June 25 after numerous conferences with the British government. From that day he has been almost constantly in conferences that often ran well past midnight, and between times, talking to Washington on the trans-Atlantic telephone.

World financial markets, vibrating to each report from the negotiations, added to the strain of America's chief representative.

The long days and nights of fretting over details, which at home have never been his concern, but which in France constitute the very staff of political and economic life, plainly irked the veteran financier, whose directness was something new to French diplomacy.

Indeed, the complaining word has gone round that Secretary Mellon was most difficult to negotiate with because he would just listen patiently to some elaborate French argument, then take his cigaret from his lips and remark laconically:

"Impossible."

It was these "impossibles," buttressed by Washington's firmness and the pressure of world public opinion, that finally pushed through the agreement.

Suffered With Large Pimples and Blackheads. Cuticura Healed.

"I suffered with pimples and blackheads on my face and neck from six to eight months. The pimples were very hard and large and my face was so sore that I was actually ashamed to leave home and come in contact with strangers. The pimples itched and when I scratched them they became sore and broke out in other places.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. I purchased more and after using them regularly for about six weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Annie M. Gehrs, Bechtelsville, Pa., Jan. 26, 1931.

COLORADO MAN TO HEAD ELKS

SEATTLE, July 7.—(AP.)—The only avowed candidate for the honor, John R. Coen, of Sterling, Col., was assured of election here today as grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

More than 10,000 persons attended the meeting last night formally opening the sixty-seventh national convention of the order. Members were welcomed by Gov. Roland H. Hartley and Mayor Frank Edwards, and the keynote address was delivered by Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., retiring exalted ruler.

After outlining the achievements of Elks in Christmas funds, in aiding crippled children and the aged, in backing the Salvation Army during the war and in building the first reconstruction hospital after the war, Rupp said:

"They say we are nothing but a bunch of 'Sweet Adeliners.' Well, you will probably hear 'Sweet Adeline' sung before this convention is over. We pity those austere men who can not sing and play."

ACHESON, NOTED INVENTOR, DIES

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Dr. Edward Goodrich Acheson, 75, internationally known scientist and inventor, died yesterday at his Park avenue home after a week's illness with pneumonia.

Born at Washington, Pa., he attended Bellefonte Academy, Bellefonte, Pa. He devoted his spare time to development of a rock-boring machine which he patented when 17.

In 1880 he obtained a job as assistant draftsman for Thomas A. Edison at Menlo Park and aided him in producing a graphite filament which Edison used in his electric lamp.

Dr. Acheson is survived by his widow, four sons and three daughters, two of whom are Mrs. Cyrus F. Mackey and Mrs. Rollin R. Bleakley, both of Franklin, Pa. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

MODJESKI GETS DIVORCE AT 70

RENO, Nev., July 7.—(INS.)—Ralph Modjeski, 70, of Chicago, internationally known bridge builder, today had won a divorce from Felicia M. Modjeska, on charges of incompatibility, after being married for 46 years.

Modjeski is the son of Mme. Helena Modjeska, famous Polish tragedienne. Among the bridges he is famous for are the McKinley Bridge at St. Louis, the Manhattan Bridge, the Ohio River Bridge at Cincinnati and the Philadelphia-Camden Bridge.

Friends in Chicago said Modjeski had announced he would soon marry Mrs. Charles Giblyn of Hollywood, Cal., wife of the motion picture director who also obtained her divorce here today.

FOREST FIRES PERIL HOMES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—(INS.)—A last effort to save a timbered section of Mount Diablo, containing rich summer homes, from a forest fire was made today by a bucket chain of 500 men.

Contra Costa County's most serious fire in years was raging on a three-mile front and had burned over 25,000 acres of grazing and wooded land. Nearly a thousand head of dairy cattle were burned to death and several ranch houses were destroyed.

So drastic was the situation that county jail prisoners were released to aid the men who were trying to hold back the flames, which were nearing the summit.

In Kern County, 25,000 acres of grass and brush on Green Horn Mountain burned in a fire started by an incendiary.

WIFE, MAN HELD, IN CLUBBING

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 7.—(AP.)—Unconscious since July 4 when he was attacked in his sick bed and beaten severely, Joseph Tomasunas, 46, a carpenter, was discovered by his three small children today and taken to a hospital where doctors said practically every bone in his body was shattered. Doctors said he likely would die.

Police are holding his wife, Mary, 42, and a boarder, Nicholas Kramer, 37. Authorities said the pair confessed taking turns at slugging the helpless man with a baseball bat. The children had been excluded from the room where their father was on the plea of the mother that the father was too sick to see them.

French Envoy, Wife Of Chicagoan Robbed

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—M. Guy Ignon, French vice consul, revealed he was robbed July 2 of $127 and Mrs. P. H. Buckley, a French girl who married a wealthy Chicagoan, of "at least $8,000 in jewelry." He said they were held up by three men near Central Park South while out walking. He said:

"But what burns me up is that treatment I got from the police. When I told a park policeman about it he said, 'So what should I do? Break down and cry?'"

Huntington Estate Valued at $42,510,251

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—(AP.)—The estate of the late Henry E. Huntington, railway magnate and philanthropist, was valued at $42,510,251 in an appraisal filed in Probate Court. It is the largest estate ever probated in Los Angeles County.

Huntington, who died four years ago, left a total fortune of $58,606,127, which was reduced by inheritance taxes, claims and administrative expenses.

Kittanning Driver Dies in Auto Plunge

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 7.—Charles Thomas, 19, Kittanning, Pa., construction company employe, was killed early today when a truck he was driving plunged over a 50-foot embankment on the Ohio River road near Wellsville, O.

Man Ends Life With Rifle in Home

The coroner's office today was investigating the death of Joseph McFadden, 22, of 1054 Lawndale street, reported to have shot himself in the head with a rifle in his home last night.

Christy Smith, 24, of 394 Wenzel road, was in Homeopathic Hospital suffering from the effects of poison he was alleged to have swallowed in his home yesterday.

Dr. Fisk, Writer Dead in Germany

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, 64, who with Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale, wrote "How to Live," is dead in Dresden, Germany.

Dr. Fisk, medical director of the Life Extension Institute, was on leave of absence from his official duties. His death came suddenly Sunday.

Ainey Attending Parley on Rates

HARRISBURG, July 7.—(AP.)—Chairman William D. B. Ainey, of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, left yesterday for Washington, to attend a conference today in connection with the application of the nation's railroads for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

The conference was called by Harvey E. Hannah, president of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, and will comprise representatives from states included in the eastern group. The conferees will select a committee from their number to meet with the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the latter's request.

U. S. Insists Vet Died, But He Says Not

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—(AP.)—The United States government has been insisting since 1918 that William R. Eba, of Los Angeles, was dead. Today he had retained a lawyer to prove otherwise.

In August, 1918, Eba said, The government informed his mother, Mrs. Samuel Steele, of Ashland, Ky., he had been killed in action at Chateau Thierry.

A short time ago Eba applied for a war-time bonus loan. Back came a letter, he said, notifying him the veteran in question died at San Antonio, Tex., March 11, 1930.

Business College Founder Ends Life

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 7.—(AP.)—Albert G. Sine, 63, president of the Mountain State Business College, which he founded here 42 years ago, died in a Parkersburg hospital last night from wounds which Dr. B. O. Robinson, Wood County coroner, said were self-inflicted. His housekeeper found him lying on the floor with a bullet wound in his head and his throat slashed.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!*

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords.

From the report of a famous scientist who studied the effects of LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—

"During the course of some recent investigations . . . we became interested to ascertain whether Ultra Violet Rays produced any change in the quality of the cigarettes. It may interest you to know that I was able to detect a very definite difference in the irritant qualities of the treated and untreated cigarettes. Several tests were made, not only on myself, but others as well, and we experienced little difficulty in selecting the treated or irradiated cigarettes as distinctly less irritating to the mucous membrane of the nose and pharynx than the control or untreated cigarettes."

Sunshine mellows—heat purifies—that's why LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. Remember—LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that brings you the added benefits of "TOASTING." And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

Deputy Faces Charge Of Striking Woman

Alleged to have struck Miss Mildred Currie, 25, of 668 West Seventh avenue, West Homestead, on the arm with a blackjack when she interfered with him as he sought to levy on the furniture of Mrs. John Poth, at her home, Deputy Sheriff Nicholas Spanovic will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace E. M. Cox, of Munhall, tonight.

Maryland Prison Fugitive Hunted

ENTREVILLE, Md., July 7.—(AP.)—With one month of a four-month term remaining, Frank Benascika, a federal prisoner, escaped from the jail here July 4 and the police of Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore have been asked to aid in his apprehension.

Student Executed In Indian Slaying

CALCUTTA, India, July 7.—(AP.)—Dinesh Gupta, a student at Dacca University, was executed today for the murder of Col. N. S. Simpson, inspector general of prisons, last December. In protest, a general strike has been declared.

American Beaten By Spanish Strikers

MADRID, July 7.—(INS.)—Lewis J. Proctor, American manager of the Spanish Telephone Company, was recovering today from the severe beating administered yesterday by striking telephone workers as he was leaving the company's headquarters.

The strike called for today was postponed until July 15, but news of the postponement arrived at Barcelona too late to prevent a walkout and service was partly disrupted there.

Russia to Increase Foodstuffs Industry

MOSCOW, July 7.—(AP.)—Better times appear in store for the Russian masses so far as food supplies are concerned. Today's newspapers announce that the government plans to increase the output of the foodstuffs industry in the third quarter of this year by 127 per cent.

A decrease of 9.9 per cent is expected in the cost of production, and some part of this saving probably will be passed on to the consumer.

No announcement was made as to what part of the increased output will be exported.

Jackie Cooper Will Portray Elephant Trainer's Son in Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, July 7.

A screen original, "O'Shaughnessy's Boy," will be Jackie Cooper's first vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The story is by Malcolm Stuart Boylan, who came into a nice piece of luck with the deal. His manuscript had been kicking around for four years without a bidder. Now he gets one check for the idea and another for collaborating with Harvey Gates on the screen adaptation.

Jackie's role in the story is that of a little boy who is adopted by an elephant trainer in a circus. Their adventures under the big top offer varied opportunities for the talented young hero of "Skippy."

Jackie Cooper

No director is chosen as yet.

These last few weeks have seen John Decker, the cartoonist, back in his familiar haunts in Hollywood. He says he was helping Billy Rose on the Fanny Brice show, and everything was going all right until he remarked one day:

"The trouble with this piece is it has Brice disease."

Others claiming this gag please line up to the left.

LATEST GOSSIP

Anna May Wong's sister, Mary, who was the Chinese actress' understudy in "On the Spot," also has been appearing in her picture for Paramount. Incidentally, Miss Wong's next picture is scheduled for October. It may be she will appear here in the meantime in a coast production of the Edgar Wallace mystery thriller . . . Lilyan Tashman is to wear a white wig in "The Road to Reno." They figure she looks too young to play Peggy Shannon's mother . . . And remembering Lil in those evening creations, this department should hope so . . .

One of the more humorous angles to the cinema business. Seeing Chester Morris running 90 yards to a touchdown in an empty stadium. He had two charley-horses the next day and could scarcely walk . . . Eliot Keen, one-time editor of "Screenland" and well known to many film folk, will be editor of "Silver Screen." Probably his biggest mistake in the old job was to hire me to write a gossip column . . . Radio Pictures is hiring back some of the people they let out of business offices to play extras in "Consolation Marriage." The pay is $10 a day. Unfortunately, this cuts out some equally hard-up extras . . . With five weeks to go on his old contract, El Brendel has been presented with a new 52-week straight agreement by Fox.

HIZZONER STOPPED

Groucho Marx made some humorous remarks at the expense of Los Angeles' Mayor Porter at a recent dinner. After the dinner, Hizzoner is said to have chided the comedian:

"Are you the man who was wise-cracking me?"

"I'm one of them," replied Groucho imperturbably.

Boy Friend

Enright Film Has Holt

"White Shoulders," based on the Rex Beach novel, opened a three-day engagement yesterday on the Enright screen. The cast features Jack Holt, Mary Astor and Ricardo Cortez.

The film tells the story of a husband who loses his wife to his best friend and then wins her back again.

Councilman Named Mayor of Corry

CORRY, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—Frank T. England, superintendent of finance, was named mayor of Corry yesterday to serve out the term of the late Mayor C. L. Alexander. Worth Hammond will succeed to the councilmanic vacancy caused by the elevation of England.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Paul McGrath, already mentioned as having gone to White Plains, N. Y., is to be leading man there in the summer stock season of the County Center Repertory Company, which opened its season with "Enter Madam," featuring Lina Abarbannell.

Want to be in the swim? ...switch to Camels

GIVE Camels the hardest test you can think of—take them along on your vacation—into the desert, on the boat, in the woods, to the beach.

Then you'll see why the switch to Camels in the new Humidor Pack is nation-wide.

This scientific wrapping of germ-safe moisture-proof Cellophane seals in all the natural factory-fresh aroma—seals it in so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

It insures every Camel smoker at work or at play the joy of expertly blended fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos kept always in prime smoking condition, throat-friendly, mellow and cool.

A special vacuum-cleaning process frees Camel cigarettes from the sting of peppery dust; the Humidor Pack guards them against being dried-out or soggy whether in sunshine or rain.

As a favor to your throat try Camels—join the throng and switch over for just one day—then quit them, if you can.

Tune in CAMEL QUARTER HOUR featuring Morton Downey and Tony Wons
Columbia Broadcasting System—every night except Sunday

CAMELS

QUICK RELIEF FROM TORTURING CORNS

Relief from the stabbing pain of a corn can be secured instantly, even though several days' treatment may be needed for complete, safe removal. So avoid rapid-fire "cures" and dangerous paring, and put your trust in the safe, sane, sensible treatment that has brought comfort to millions of feet for 31 years.

Ask your druggist for a little box of the famous Blue-jay corn plasters. In ten seconds you'll have a Blue-jay softly guarding the tingling spot; cushioning the pressure and chafing that cause the pain. Immediate relief!

After that, it's easy for Blue-jay: Mild medication loosens the corn; soon you're on easy feet. Corns will never bother you if you keep a box of Blue-jay handy. Made by Bauer & Black, noted manufacturers of surgical dressings. At all druggists', 26c.

Hurls Self to Death Under Train Wheels

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP.)—Frank Lins, 60, a retired police sergeant, committed suicide yesterday by throwing himself beneath the wheels of a Reading Company train. It was his second attempt to end his life in 12 hours. Police were told Lins hurled himself in front of a street car last night, but the motorman saw him in time to stop the car before striking him.

Farce Riots In Warner Picture

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Farce runs riot on the Warner screen this week. It is breezy farce; good farce. The affair is titled "Annabelle's Affairs."

Jeanette MacDonald shows herself a clever comedienne in this one. As an extravagant gal, who marries a miner with a beard and then fails to recognize him after he shaves, she's as goofy a bundle of laughs as you'd want to see. And the way she scatters N. S. F. checks rivals a snowstorm.

Victor McLaglen is the miner-husband. He comes on with a cowboy hat and looks like Santa Claus in wild-oats days. But after some beauty treatment, he's a regular man-about-town. He wooes his wife for a second time and gets the lady for keeps.

The plot twists about a few shares of mine stock that are worth a couple of chilled millions.

There is a rich man's estate in the film that is crazier than the craziest insane asylum. The servants line up for reveille and then disappear on picnics and sprees.

And our home-town William Penn never saw as loony antics as go on in hotel sequences.

Roland Young does a grand job as a wealthy "stew." Sam Hardy adds to the hilarity as the "captain" of the servants. And there is a gang of other players who fit in the loony pattern quite successfully.

There is no sense to the whole affair. But it is such infectious nonsense. You wish you were crazy, too.

'Go Straight' On Menke Boat

The drama is on its merry summer spree again on the Golden Rod Showboat at Montrose, on the Allegheny, just above Aspinwall. And what drama! It is as deep as the river's waters that surround it. It is as shallow as the shadow of a low cloud. It is as comic as Joe Brown's grin. And it is entertainment all the way.

This week Capt. Menke, he of the inscrutable smile, is presenting "Going Straight." It is in four acts, with a lot of scenes—all being the same as Scene No. 1. But it takes more than the confines of a stage setting to halt the dramatic flight of these veteran river players.

GREAT BANK ROBBERY

They soar from the heights to the depths and then back again with the nonchalance of an incline car. They play with human emotions like a novice with a good violin, or a genius with a bad one. But out of the screeches of discord comes a triumphant virtue and an evening of hilarious amusement. You will forget the play, but you'll never forget the Golden Rod.

The great bank robbery is the highlight of the current bill. This is all laid against a small-town background, with a mortgage due, a widow driven from home and a wayward son. The villain of the piece is as wicked as any villain could be without a black mustache. And the hero is as good as any hero could be with a prison record behind him.

AND THERE'S VAUDEVILLE

Mixed in between the acts of the drama are vaudeville specialties. And if the dramatics soar, you should get an eye and ear full of this variety. You can't say it's good, but you laugh so hard that you won't say it's bad.

The cast features Virginia Dale, who is a better heroine than she is vaudeville actress; Blanche Gardiner, Billy Florer, Harry Rollins, Robert Graham, Frances Golden, W. D. McKenzie and William Seldon.

All in all, Capt. Menke's Showboat is that something different in entertainment. Take a trip up and see for yourself.

Rumba Orchestra Listed For Sanders Inn

The Rumba Orchestra will begin an engagement in Sander's Inn, Freeport road, near Aspinwall, next Monday night. This orchestra, under the direction of A. Valencia, is composed of Cubans. They will appear in native costumes. The orchestra was featured at the Habana Casino in Havana and, more recently, in New York.

Heroine

Lillian Bond is the heroine in "Just a Gigolo," picture coming to the Penn Friday.

PREMIER SEES CANADA CRISIS

OTTAWA, Ont., July 7.—(AP.)—Premier R. B. Bennett told the House of Commons last night that Canada was facing the greatest crisis of its industrial life. He declared:

"It is necessary to protect the Canadian industries if they are to survive.

"Today the Canadian people are menaced with the replacement of their industrial products by those from abroad. Anti-dumping regulations have largely ceased to be effective because fair market values in European countries have been destroyed."

Bennett's remarks followed a stormy session in the House during which Liberals caustically criticized a "creed" issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce which advocates purchase of Canadian goods.

Mishap on Farm Kills School Head

HAMMONTON, N. J., July 7.—(AP.)—Julius Selley, 35, principal of the Nesco School, was killed yesterday when a small spraying machine exploded, forcing the handle into his throat, cutting the jugular vein and fracturing his jaw. Selley was assisting his brother on his farm near here.

Don't Seek Revenge If You've Been Slighted in Love

"Love murders"—

Every day you read about them—hear the gory details of how some Jealous Gent filled his Sweetie with cyanide or lead because said Sweetie preferred someone else.

'N' everyone shudders—yet sighs with a sneaking sympathy for the Jealous Gent because, "poor chap, he loved her so."

But did he—really?

Is it actually Love that makes a man kill the woman who no longer favors him? Or is it another motive, much less admirable?

LOVED AND LOST

Bob is inquiring. And we'd like to broadcast that his is one of the sanest and manliest letters that has gladdened my eyes in many a day. And ohmigosh! How it's needed, to offset all the blithering blooey that's going around!

"Dear Sally:

"I have been doing a good deal of thinking lately about a subject that the papers seem to be full of, and I would like to see it discussed in your column.

"What I want to know is, what is your idea about the 'love murder' horrors that seem to be getting so numerous nowadays? Maybe they're not new. Maybe they have gone on since time began. But it is only during the last few years that I have been close enough to the subject myself to notice them, I guess.

"What has happened to me has made me think about them. I am in love with a girl whom I courted for two years . . . and then lost. I lost her, but I still love her even though I never see her. I have taken myself completely out of her life, so as not to cause her a bit of trouble. My idea is that it is up to her to decide whom she may love, and if she can't love me, it is not her fault, and that's that and, while it may make me miserable, I have no right to be mad about it.

CONSIDERED AN INSULT

But it seems as if when the average person meets a setback like that, he or she immediately decides it is an insult, and sets out to wreck the love object who has refused to love in return.

"Now my idea of love is sacrifice . . . making the person I love happy, instead of trying to hurt her for not 'appreciating' me. The words 'beau ideal' tell the story in a nutshell. And as for hurting or maiming her because I can never have her love . . . Why I would rather die myself.

"Do you think that it is really love that causes these people to commit such crimes . . . Or is it something else? BOB."

Is it Love?

Not a chance, son. Although it's all-of-a-piece with the selfishness and grabbiness that many of us call love.

Jealous people—revengeful people people who think of their own happiness first—love only themselves. And their tantrums are no more excusable than the tantrums of any common murderer or thief. They never glimpse the beauty and courage and generosity of real love.

HURT PRIDE

Why does a man kill a woman when he finds she no longer loves him? Is he prompted by a broken heart? He is not. He is prompted by outraged egotism, his pride . . . his sense of importance . . . have been nicked. He doesn't stop to think of the woman's happiness . . . of her right to love whom she pleases. He thinks only of his grudge, of how he has been "robbed" and slighted. And, like any other vicious creature, he determines to get even . . . to punish her for not appreciating him.

Then why, if he's so contemptible, do so many people feel a sneaking admiration and sympathy for the 'love murderer?" Because they're like that themselves! They may never go to the extreme of murder, but they have the same selfish, savage ideas about love which the "love murderer" has. And they're quite as eager to make their "loved ones" suffer if their pretty conceit is hurt.

The man who really loves a woman doesn't want to punish her if she has left him. He realizes that she has committed no crime . . . that she has a right to her love . . . and, though he suffers, he wishes her to be happy.

But it takes a rare, brave soul to rise to such heights, son!

One of life's greatest blessings is to be born with a will for work.

Any work becomes almost play and pleasure when you take an interest and pride in it.

Newspaper work is not the only kind of work I like doing.

I almost welcome runs and rips in my wardrobe because I love to mend. My grandmother was a dressmaker, and next to a pen and pencil I love a sewing needle.

I have taken as much pride in scrubbing and polishing dishes as I have ever taken in drawing a cartoon.

Bed-making is one of my accomplishments. I can make a bed like they do in hospitals, and I've mastered all the fancy folds you'll find in hotels.

Harry Underwood Suggests Precautionary Measures

Despite Harry Underwood's gibing reference to "dirty work at the cross-roads," there was that in his keen eyes which told me that he realized something serious had happened to discompose me. I looked involuntarily at Junior and Roderick, playing happily with the electric trains, put away when they went with the Underwoods to their summer camp, but assembled and put into running shape by Dicky and my father, who had spent much of the preceding night upon it.

"They wouldn't hear a bombing aeroplane," Mr. Underwood murmured with a grin. "I've had all my time to myself since they caught sight of their trains. So I thought I'd look over this gymnasium stuff. Hank and Bill will be here day after tomorrow, won't they?"

"Yes, we expect them then," I answered with a tender thought for Dicky's older nephews, William and Henry Harrison, brothers of Mary and Roderick. Because of the sudden nervous breakdown of Dicky's brother-in-law, Dr. Braithwaite, his wife, Harriet, had been compelled at Christmas time to send her three orphaned nephews to Dicky, with whom after the tragic death of their sister, Elizabeth Harrison and her husband, she had been associated in the guardianship of the boys and their sister, Mary.

Mary had been with us for several years, and when we saw how happy Junior was with Roderick, despite their minor differences, we decided to change Harriet's plan to send all three boys to preparatory school, and keep him with us. Henry and William, thrilled with the sense of high adventure, went to Worcester Academy at mid-years, and in June, after a brief visit at the home of a school friend, they went directly to a wonderful study camp conducted in the hills of Vermont by masters of the old sterling and eminently democratic school which we had selected for their training.

"Never mind them, now," Mr. Underwood's kindly voice said, and I looked up at him gratefully.

"I haven't time now to tell you what it is," I said, "don't want to, until I am sure that Lillian is not where she will suspect anything wrong. But will you and Dicky see to it that you are with Marion and the two boys every minute they are out of the house until I can talk to you. Don't let them go out of the yard, either."

"I get you," he said, grim little lines settling around his mouth. "And I'll park Lil somewhere as soon as I can. She's pretty tired. But where's Marion?"

His voice was suddenly sharp with anxiety, and I realized afresh how deep was his love for his winsome stepdaughter, whose prejudice against him, and jealousy of her mother's care for him had been so hard a task to overcome, but which had been so thoroughly routed at last that few real fathers have more enthusiastic devotion than Marion gave to her "dad."

"She went upstairs with Mary," I said.

He drew a deep breath of relief.

"Then she's parked for awhile," he said.

"Those two girls can do more visiting to the square inch than any two women I know, and that's saying something, with you and Lil in the offing."

He was trying to raise my spirits, but despite the subterfuge, I saw his keen anxiety, knew that he shared my apprehensions, and did not belittle them.

"But you'd better give the office to Mary," he went on, his heavy brows knitting slightly, "to keep Marion indoors until further notice. Of course, I don't know what all this is about, but I do know that you don't go up in the air without warrant, so I'm sure it's serious."

"It is," I told him soberly, "but I mustn't let Lil get a hint of it, therefore I can't do anything further until Katie has served the veranda tea and we get settled down from the homecoming."

"Don't worry" He clapped a big friendly hand on my arm. "The Dicky bird and I will be strictly on the job, and I'll tip off Jim to keep a lookout for any suspicious-looking characters. You haven't told me there are any expected, but if you fear danger to the children, there must be somebody in the offing. By the way, don't you think you ought to let the Big Chief in on this?"

His voice held the affection-

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Massage the gums once a day. Very important, especially if the gums are delicate, inclined to bleed and have started to recede.

Beauty kits for motoring are provided with compartments for powder, rouge, lipstick, hand lotion and eyeshadows. Manicuring instruments and nail cosmetics should be kept in cases. Nice ones can be made of heavy silk, to roll up neatly, though the shops have charming containers at reasonable prices.

Beware now of becoming a leather neck. Too much exposure to the sun's rays and strong winds will put freckles, tan and ugly brown patches on the back of the neck and shoulders. By anointing with cream and dusting over with powder before going out of doors, old Mister Sun will be thwarted. Cosmetics form a protective barrier.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Bad Food Is a Cause of Botulism

Botulism is a serious disease the result of food poisoning. It is caused by the presence of a dangerous germ in the food.

Dr. Copeland

Interest in botulism in the United States is stimulated by periodic outbreaks of this disease. In the cases recently reported, the infection has been traced to the consumption of home canned food.

At one time it was believed this disease could be caused only by eating infected meat. It has been proved that infected vegetables, particularly ripe olives, canned string beans, asparagus, corn, apricots, olives and cheese, may cause botulism.

Botulism is traced to food that has received inadequate treatment in the process of smoking, canning or pickling. It It is never caused by fresh food, or by food that is served after boiling.

In home canning, the food is often a few days old when "put up." This gives time for the germs to multiply. Further, the temperature maintained in the home process is usually insufficient to destroy the germs of botulism. When these germs are not destroyed, the disease is sure to appear.

In preserving foodstuffs only fresh and clean food should be used. Heating is absolutely essential and should be kept at a temperature of 120 degrees for at least 10 minutes.

Canning is safe only when the contents of the can are actually sterilized. The cans should be airtight and boiled at a sufficiently high temperature to destroy all germs. This is often difficult to do at home. To be assured of safety, buy only commercially canned foods which are prepared under the most rigid precautions.

Cooking is not a sufficient precaution against food poisoning. Please remember that if allowed to stand, any food is well suited for bacterial growth. Place all cooked food in the icebox to avoid any contamination and germ growth.

In this matter, too, it is vital to know the refrigerator actually refrigerates. A temperature below 40 degrees is essential to safety.

Making Children Happy

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

Seeing so many unkind and thoughtless things done to children everywhere, it soon becomes a habit to emphasize the negative in trying to help mothers do the intelligent, kindly things for the youngsters.

Feeling that I'm apt to err in that direction, I deliberately take time off every once in a while to observe the lovely things which come to young people through the thoughtful acts of adults.

And it is gratifying to learn that out of the welter of things which might be changed to advantage, there are many, many adults who do things which make children happy.

Lately I've run across three cases which have been delightful to see and think about.

The first was in a hospital for children. The mail-carrier on that route does not need to do else than leave the mail at the desk in the hall, but through his love of the little fellows upstairs, in wheel-chair, in bed, or hobbling about, he takes time twice a day to go through the halls and never misses a youngster in greeting. There may be no letter for the child, but he is at least sure of a cheery word from the grey-haired, grey-suited kindly man who walks by, stopping at each door twice a day and calling each child, even the little newcomers by name. Just a little thing, but a thing springing from his love of children. Could he but know how eagerly his step is anticipated, I'm sure he would feel amply repaid.

During the same visit to that hospital I learned that the Scout Master of one of the young patients had made a trip of 150 miles just to bring three pictures—lovely prints of airplanes—to have hung in the room of the young air-enthusiast. Again, I hardly suspect the man realizes the weight in happiness of his kindly act.

Just a little matter in our neighborhood—warm sunny days and children as usual clamoring for picnics. And last night the charming young lady of 8, sitting happily as hostess to a small guest on the grass, with a napkin between them, a plate of sandwiches and milk and two gay dishes of strawberries. Simple thing, yes, but the satisfaction on the faces of those two children would fully repay any extra work it took to give them their outdoor dinner which was to them a "picnic."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

General Helps

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When leaving the table at a restaurant or hotel, should the chair be pushed back against the table?

2. Must a young lady rise to acknowledge an introduction to an elderly lady?

3. Is it necessary to shake hands on rising?

CONSTANT READER.

1. No. Leave the chair in the position in which it is when you rise.

2. Yes, indeed; a young lady must rise when she is introduced to an elderly woman. If she doesn't the elderly woman will have "her own thoughts" about the manners of the young lady.

3. It is not necessary to shake hands when acknowledging an introduction. There is no rule about handshaking, the person making his or her own determination on the subject. Some people are just so cordial that their inclination is always to shake hands, while others may be just as cordial inside, but they aren't demonstrative.

Opening the Bridge Napkin

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I have always been taught to open a bridge or luncheon napkin fully instead of merely half way as is done with a dinner napkin. However, very often I notice that I am the only one at the table who does so. Will you kindly tell me which is correct?

2. Also, at bridge, when the refreshments consist of a salad and dessert, which forks is used for the dessert, the salad or dinner fork?

CONSTANT READER.

1. It is best form, and usually convenient enough, to open the napkin, any kind of napkin, half way. It is not necessary to open it completely.

2. This depends on the dessert. For the dessert, if its suggests using a fork, you may use the medium sized fork, or the small fork usually referred to as the "tea fork," or a salad fork, or a special dessert fork. The dinner fork would, I should think, be too large.

Spanish Fiesta On Air Tonight

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Those dear Sisters of the Skillet are to burlesque their household hints on KDKA at 8:45 tonight . . . and every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evening at 8:45 on the blue network from now on . . . in addition to their Wednesday morning period at 9 . . . The "Sisters," who weigh a quarter of a ton between them, have broadcast only four times at night up to this time . . . Housewives lose another of their favorite morning programs with the discontinuance of Andy Sannella's Orchestra and Lew Conrad . . . Teddy Black's Orchestra is to succeed this popular 9:15 WCAE feature . . . What more enjoyable at this season of the year than a good old Spanish Fiesta? . . . Tune KDKA at 8.

The standard joke about Pittsburgh and its smoke came to us in a new form. Mike was alarmed at the sight of a huge black cloud descending upon the plane and of course Meyer dispelled all fear by informing his dumb partner that they were nearing Pittsburgh.

Another one much better:

Meyer—"Its capital is Dublin."

Man Shot July 4 Without Knowing It

CHICAGO, July 7.—(AP.)—Matthias Stieren, 36, was shot and wounded July 4, but didn't know it until yesterday. A headache prompted him to call a physician. He was taken to a hospital, where a bullet was found in the fleshy part of his neck.

Stieren remembered that he thought something had hit him July 4, but paid no attention to it at the time.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, July 7.—Wiley Post, the aviator, has one of the most pleasing voices yet disclosed on the air. Deep, resonant, clear. Only a handful of announcers have voices as effective on the microphone.

Nasal voices are not heard often. Best known are those of Coolidge and George M. Cohan . . . Lindbergh's voice is high, somewhat nasal . . . The best speaking voices on Capitol Hill belong to Borah and Barkley. Wish they'd let themselves go sometime and talk without benefit of manuscript . . . A musical revolution has hit Boston . . . Sousa's "Stars and Stripes" was actually included the other night in a Boston Symphony concert . . . First thing you know, they'll be playing jazz . . . And maybe they couldn't give a glow to Tin Pan Alley!

Waltz ballads are having a vogue . . . Inspired by the German melody, "Two Hearts in Three-quarters Time" . . . "The Blue Danube" is still the daddy of them all. Only the palsied can resist it . . . The racketeer has yet to be glorified in song. Strange, the delay of the Broadway wits . . . Broadcasters are lamenting the petering-out of the Starr Faithful case . . . Yet there's always something to take their time. Now it's the trans-Atlantic parade of aviators . . . Every conceivable noise has now been aired save the clang of ashcans on the pavement . . . News broadcasters are hoping the Hoover moratorium will soon be settled. They can't make suspension of debts exciting . . . Dr. Ziegfeld is looking to radio to popularize his "Follies" tunes.

George Jean Nathan talking on the London season would be a trans-Atlantic novelty in the parlors. Something you don't hear these days in an actor's club: "Oh, to be in England, now that Nathan's there." . . . Now it's Irene Bordoni who's holding up a liner's sailing. . . . It was better publicity when Paderewski did it. . . . Only one orchestra heard daily—the Black and Gold Room—goes in for something more ambitious than ta-tee-ta-ta music.

The other night it aired for the first time a truly beautiful song called "The Quest"—with words by Grace Coolidge and music by Pearl Bills Barret. . . . The radio drama, "The Trial of Dolores Divine," is now in book form. . . . James J. Walker seems to be the only extemporaneous radio speaker among public officials. Nice gift of gab, Walker's. . . . Where were the broadcasters when those mayors got back to the land of the spree?

Travel Chatter

Mrs. J. Bernd Rose and her young son, Bernd Phelps Rose, left at noon today for Hyannisport, where they'll stay until late August.

The Don Roses have opened their cottage at Annic Lake for the summer. With them are their children, Gretchen and Don Rose, Jr. Ann Rose will join them and so will Margaret, later. Of course you know that Ann and Margaret are the Roses' daughters too. Among their guests will be Ruth Brooks, James B. Higgins, David Wellington Miller, Jack Hays, Frederick Magee and Marshall Hamilton.

Mrs. Frank Scott Willock and her daughters, Ruth and Virginia, are at Dark Harbor, Me., for the summer, have you heard?

* * *

Mrs. Samuel Adams and her daughter, Miss Isabel Adams, and her son, William Adams, have opened their summer place at Bass Rocks, Mass.

Miss Jane Hutchinson Weds William J. Conway

Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchinson, of Mill street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jane Hutchinson, to William J. Conway, son of Joseph Conway, of Main street, which took place on Tuesday afternoon in the manse of the Presbyterian Church of Avalon. The Rev. J. Norman Hunter was the officiant.

Miss Gladys Johnston, of Blairsville, was the bride's only attendant, and Daniel Skali, of Coraopolis, served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway will reside in the Grandview Apartments after a honeymoon in Buffalo, N. Y., and Canada.

LITERARY, MUSICAL CLUB TO STUDY UNITED STATES

Comprehensive Outline of Year's Work Contained in Books For Season of 1931-32

Beginning with such fundamental questions as "Why Are We Here?" and "What Did We Find?" members of the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club will find in their new year books a comprehensive outline for their study of "Our United States. The study will, of course, share each meeting time with the customary musical program.

The government of the country and a comparative study of government, tariff and free trade, taxation systems with a comparative study of them also, tax revisions, immigration, migration, schools of today and yesterday, early and present day churches, religious customs, industries, newspapers and magazines, mines, oil fields, forests, waterways, playgrounds, amusements, cities, trails, are all included in the discussional study subjects.

Then, to vary the routine of programs, the committee has arranged a musical program for president's day, which opens the season on October 5; the fall musicale, on November 16; a Christmas party, December 28; an open meeting to celebrate Washington's Birthday; the spring musicale, in March, and the annual outing, to end the year on June 6. Mrs. H. P. McKown is the club's president.

Parkersburg Girl Scout Head Named

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 7. — (AP.) — Miss Jessie Calder, Charleston, yesterday was elected director of the Parkersburg Girl Scouts. She succeeds Mrs. Kendall Bryan, Parkersburg.

Irwin Sisters Marry At Double Ceremony

A double wedding took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Wolfe, of Irwin, Pa., yesterday morning at 10 o'clock when their two daughters, Miss Virginia Woodward Wolfe became the bride of Harry E. MacIntosh, of Elmira, N. Y., and Miss Janice Miriam Wolfe became the bride of Paul Jackson Wheatley, of Philadelphia.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Dr. Joseph D. Piper, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of Irwin. An embankment of ferns and palms and standards of roses, delphinium and orange blossoms formed the setting for the ceremony.

The brides' father gave them in marriage. A wedding breakfast followed, and the bridal parties left for a motor trip to Lake George and through the Adirondack Mountains.

Mrs. MacIntosh is a graduate of Beechwood, now Beaver College, of the Institute of Musical Art, New York, and of the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Wheately is a graduate of Cedar Crest College, Allentown, Pa.

Dull and Bright Woolens To Be Worn This Winter

PARIS.—Looking ahead to winter, although summer has only just arrived, it promises to be both dull and bright, speaking of woolens, of course, and not of the weather.

Armured broadcloth and broadcloth slightly mixed with white threads are being shown by a number of fabric-makers, emphasizing the flat materials. Companion fabrics are also promised including a dark plain woolen, a light plain woolen of quite different color and a fancy one combining the dark and light tones. Among the successful allied tones are bold combinations of light burgundy with sky-blue and brown with bright red.

Outstanding novelties for winter include clingy, open-meshed weaves which suggest tricots, although they are really woven. They are rezobure, scotmayah and modalga. There are also newer coarser types like armorah and printaliah which is a loose hopsacks.

Patou is showing "Ballys" which is a crepy garbardine with the ribs less marked. A scotmayah jacquard stands out in relief on a fine ground giving a slightly quilted effect and another woolen shows large chevrons in relief.

Miss Johnetta Painter Marries R. C. Roughen

John H. Painter, of Walnut street, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Johnetta Painter, to Richard Clark Roughen, of LeRoi road, which took place on June 12. Mr. and Mrs. Roughen are living in LeRoi road.

Individualism in Dress Causes Style Diversity

PARIS.—Dressmakers probably never provided more diversity and diverse dress fashions than they have been doing this season. The day of the individual has certainly and surely arrived. Personal dressing is paramount and never have the designers offered more varied lines from which to choose.

But because of this very diversity, every woman should be more careful than ever before of what she selects to wear. Good taste lies in the right choice for the occasion and the hour, as well as the general becomingness of the garment.

Summer simplicity signifies sports clothes as generally applied to all-day frocks, coats and crush hats of the simpler type for morning and country wear. Simple sports frocks of light washable silks are very necessary for warm weather. One designer puts little cape-like jackets of flannel with them.

A delightful town-wear dress comes in black crepe with a small printed pattern of white carnations. The skirt is accordeon pleated with a peplum high on the waist and a short bolero in back gives the effect of a jacket.

Another in black georgette has the wide sleeves of white coming from the elbow and tight at the wrist embroidered in the center with openwork and rick-rack braid. The skirt has three sections, the bottom one very full and flaring from the knees down.

Kappa Delta Sorority Increases Student Fund

At the twentieth national convention of Kappa Delta Sorority, held in Washington last week, the members voted to increase their student loan fund, which has already assisted 126 college girls. Two new scholarships for graduate work by members of the sorority have been established. The Rebecca W. Smith Fund, an anonymous gift in the form of a revolving loan of $500, is to be awarded to a graduate student for work in literature, history, sociology or education, preferably in America.

As a tribute to the state of its birth, Kappa Delta is supporting four beds in the Richmond Hospital for Crippled Children and will expand this work to include five beds and to further its work among crippled children a $500 gift scholarship, to be known as the Bess Cowley Fund, for study in pediatrics, was established at the convention.

Casino Outfits Bright, Skirt Long, Bodice Short

PARIS.—Casino costumes are cool and colorful, obviously those for warm holiday-making. And if they're long in the skirt, and of course all of them are, even many with little trains swishing behind, they are exceedingly short in the bodice, the large majority of them being sans back whatsoever.

Brilliant colors are in evidence at all the smart casinos, besides many prints of every sort and size, mostly with huge motifs in a mixture of soft melting colors over white, black or pastel ground.

Most colorful and cool as well, is Poiret's cotton Casino ensemble, the dress being made of orchid muslin and the accompanying jacket of white. The long skirt is flared by tucks on the hips and a bunch of violets is tucked into the belt.

Worth sticks to the ever-popular black Casino gown, using a black chiffon patterned with white flowers made over short green satin pajamas which can be seen right through. The usual decollete is outlined with green satin embroidered with silver beads on the side next to the chiffon and there is a narrow green belt.

A striking one seen at Engheinles-Bains which has just been reopened to the smart public after so many years, was in bright green gorgette trimmed with vertical flounces down the back and a jeweled ornament hanging in front from a strap brought over the shoulders and tied at the back. Another one in white satin has low-slung panniers on the skirt and a trailing back.

NEW CREATIONS IN HATS FOR AUTUMN

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 7. — Well, there's no more hovering on the brink of the brim. Everybody has gone in for brimmed hats and is no doubt wondering why it needed the combined efforts of the milliners to make this fashion a success. But it would seem that for sometime at least we are all going to be very hat-conscious. For it is prophesied that "real" millinery is on the way back and we are going to look our best in hats that are not just lids or coverings. Then, too, only the perfectly dressed head is going to shine, for the new autumn hats promise to reveal all—on one side of the head.

But for the present let us consider the hats that are being shown and worn at the moment. To be noted is the grand success of panama straw and the common or garden panama hat. Together with the sailor, it seems to be part and parcel of nearly every hatbox. The panama is ideal for the younger woman and for everybody addicted to outdoor life. It is jaunty, youthful and undeniably neat and appropriate with most sports clothes. The sailor hat in all its variations is splendid with town outfits.

WE SHOW TODAY a sketch of one of Patou's new panama hats. The becoming model depicted is made of yellow panama and it is trimmed with navy blue grosgrain, an excellent color combination. The flattering brim is rolled up at one side and has a narrow border of the blue grosgrain.

PATOU IS VERY addicted to brimmed hats, for he has made the brim a feature of the other model shown here. It is of pale pink cisol. The brim is open and pleated in back. At one side is a wide inset of eyelet embroidery in matching pink batiste. Matching batiste is used to fashion the three flowers posed across the back of the crown.

Wrapped and sealed right at the freezer

THE OLD

THE NEW

See the tiny ice crystals in Meadow Gold. It's doubly delicious because smoother!

IT'S the ice cream news of the day—this new way of freezing that brings velvety smoothness, a rich, creamy texture to Meadow Gold Ice Cream. Now, for the first time, you can enjoy ice cream that hasn't a single lump or icy crystal to mar its delicate flavor.

Meadow Gold's "smooth-freeze" brings out to the full the rich goodness of this finer ice cream. Delicious, sweet farm cream ... pure milk ... vanilla and chocolate flavors made right from the beans. Fresh fruits in season; real fruits always—there's never a substitute used.

Buy this smoother, finer ice cream in the sealed, "carry-home" package. Filled and wrapped at the freezer, the Meadow Gold Ice Cream in this container has never been touched by human hands.

The dealers who offer you Meadow Gold give it the same scrupulous care it receives in the making. You'll find a soda tastes better with Meadow Gold. Let the children have as much of this healthful, easily-digested frozen food as they want.

JAPAN QUELLS KOREA RIOTS

TOKIO, July 7.—(AP.)—The War Office today announced the movement of Japanese troops to the scenes of clashes between Chinese and Koreans which in two days have resulted in 82 deaths and hundreds of injuries. The soldiers were sent to co-operate with Japanese gendarmes in keeping order.

Fifty officers and men were sent to Pingyang, where 62 Chinese were slain Sunday and yesterday as mobs of infuriated Koreans ran wild. Thirty officers and men were dispatched to Chemulpo, where the other fatalities occurred.

Extra military guards were thrown about all army warehouses, magazines and armories in Korea. Tokio officials said these had been taken as precautionary measures, although no large scale anti-Japanese movement had been reported.

Man Slaps Woman Smoker; Arrested

NEW YORK, July 7.—(INS.)—What it means in the way of a penalty to slap a woman because she smoked a cigaret on the street was to be learned today by Michael Kelleher.

Kelleher, a Bronx butcher, was held in $500 bail, and a magistrate will decide today if he was guilty of simple assault. Witnesses testified he slapped a woman when he saw her smoking while walking with her son.

Wife Wins Divorce From Paul Specht

READING, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—A final divorce decree was granted Mrs. Dorothy I. Specht, this city, from Paul Specht, internationally known orchestra leader, New York, yesterday, on the charge of indignities. The case was not contested. The couple was married in Maryland 11 years ago. Specht's first wife, Mrs. Lauretta I. Specht, also obtained a divorce from him in Reading, in 1919.

ARCHERY CLUBS TO BE FORMED BY JUNIORS

Sets With Bow, 3 Arrows And Target to Be Made Available for Boys, Girls

Archery is a sport that will be welcomed by every boy and girl in Pittsburgh. Skill with the bow and arrow is a fascinating accomplishment. In every city of the Union there are archers' clubs, but they are organized solely for adults.

The Sun-Telegraph has worked out plans for the organization of junior archers—boys and girls—in Pittsburgh. They will be organized into teams of five, the boy teams to adopt the names of birds such as the Robins, the Eagles, the Pigeons and the Hawks, and the girl teams will be named after flowers such as the Roses, the Violets, the Snowballs and the Pansies. All of these teams will go into the new game as members of the Sun-Telegraph Tom Thumb Archery Club.

SETS FOR MEMBERS

The Sun-Telegraph has arranged for the distribution of a new archery set, including a steel wire bow, three rubber tipped arrows with suction cups that stick to the target and a target for each boy and girl who joins the new club.

Just as soon as there are a sufficient number of five-member teams organized—both boys and girls—competitive target shoots will begin in the various neighborhoods throughout Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh suburbs and the winning teams in these preliminaries will be brought together for the finals or championship contests.

From time to time the Sun-Telegraph will publish the names of the members of the various teams and print a record of the scores they make in the preliminaries.

NEW THRILL

This will furnish a new sport and game—a new thrill for Pittsburgh boys and girls. They will find it a sport full of fascination and fun—and absolutely safe.

So, if you want to become a member of the Sun-Telegraph Tom Thumb Archery Club fill in the application blank on this page, mail it today and the Sun-Telegraph will let you know by return mail how you can obtain a complete Tom Thumb outfit and become a member of the club which will furnish a load of fun and recreation for the summer days.

Slaying of Blind Girls Leads to Quiz

CRANDON, Wis., July 7.—(AP.)—District Attorney F. W. Horn, of Forest County, today was conducting a John Doe hearing into the death of Lillian Hewitt, 18-year-old blind daughter of Charles Hewitt.

The girl's body was discovered several days ago, a bullet wound in the head, near her father's farm home. Her mother said she left home after a quarrel and she regarded the death a suicide. Horn ordered the hearing after declaring the body was discovered in a rocky place inaccessible to a blind person.

ZIONISTS AIR MAJORITY ROW

BASLE, Switzerland, July 7.—(AP.)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann's statement last week that he had no sympathy or understanding for the demand for a Jewish majority in Palestine led last night to a heated discussion in the Zionist Congress. The outcome was a demand by the presidium that Dr. Weizmann explain.

Dr. Weizmann said he was certain that the statement he made regarding a Jewish majority was "unfortunately formulated" and "caused a misunderstanding." He continued:

"I never said or meant that any Zionist group intends to drive out the Arabs or that the demand regarding a Jewish majority is conceived in this way by any group. However, I repeat emphatically that the demand of any limit to be placed on the percentage of the Jewish population is wholly unacceptable.

TWO CONVICTS SAVED IN FIRE

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 7.—(AP.)—Aubrey Smith, Georgia bandit, serving sentences totaling 143 years at the State Prison Farm here, and Roy Gardner, another convict, were rescued by firemen yesterday after they had been trapped in cells by fire that destroyed the farm's tuberculosis hospital.

The firemen, unable to open the cell doors, cut a hole through the outside wall and pulled the men out. Both were overcome by smoke and heat.

Supt. B. H. Dunawat said the origin of the fire had not been determined. All patients in the hospital were removed safely.

GIRL CHAMPION TO RACE HERE

Helene Madison, girl swimmer and holder of American and world records for distances of 40 yards to a mile, will demonstrate her speed in a match race with local girl swimmers at the annual picnic of the Joseph Horne Employes' Outing Association July 11 at Camp Horne. The camp, a mile from Emsworth, consists of 127 acres, maintained exclusively for store employes.

The picnic has been arranged to take advantage of the first of the store's Saturday half holidays. The afternoon's program consists of races, a baseball game between the Joseph Horne Company and Reliance Life teams and a matinee dance. The evening's major interest will be in aquatic races and exhibitions.

A. H. Burchfield is general chairman of the picnic committee; Victor Picard, field sports; William H. Friesell, aquatic sports; J. M. Fitzmaurice, dancing; Mildred B. Johnson, refreshments; Albert A. Horne, transportation; M. S. Thompson, camp bus service; V. G. Geis, checking, and Andrew Connolly, publicity.

Council to Hear Plea for Zoo Improvement

COMMERCE BODY RENEWS FIREWORKS FIGHT

COUNCIL TO GET PLEA FOR ZOO IMPROVEMENT

Officials Promise Changes After Surveys Reveal Unhealthy Conditions

Representatives of organizations who investigated conditions at the Highland Park Zoo were to recommend today to City Council changes they think necessary to assure the health of wild animals on exhibition there.

Announcement of the conference was made by President John S. Herron at a councilmanic meeting yesterday. Surveys made by the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society and the Izaak Walton League disclosed, it was said, that the Highland Zoo lions are ill from lack of fresh air and sunshine. Three fine specimens, it was pointed out, face death soon from rickets. A fourth was killed some time ago. Other animals, including a hippopotamus and a lizard, died recently.

Changes expected to be recommended include changing of the bear cages to a natural pen on a hillside overlooking their present quarters and increasing of cage space and additional water pressure for the sea lion compartments.

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang visited the zoo yesterday and inspected the equipment and condition of the animals. He will recommend legislation to remedy the situation, he said. Herron, in a statement, promised full co-operation of Council.

Lang introduced at yesterday's meeting an ordinance authorizing expenditure of $8,000 at the zoo for modernization of the electric wiring system. He explained that the ordinance was not connected with the general improvement contemplated there.

BABY CONTEST CAUSES MUCH EXCITEMENT

Cups to Be Awarded Most Beautiful Infants at Picnic on August 4

Beautiful babies are always an interesting study, and the announcement that the Sun-Telegraph-Kroger Stores second annual baby beauty contest is to be held at Kennywood Park, Tuesday, August 4, has already created a lot of excitement. This is the date of the Kroger Stores' annual picnic and the baby beauty contest will be the outstanding feature of a day of varied sports and entertainment under the trees of this beautiful amusement park.

In the meantime, the search for Pittsburgh's most beautiful children is on in earnest. This city is noted for its pretty little boys and girls—so the public can look forward to an unsurpassed parade of baby pulchritude.

There will be classes for infants under one year of age—boys and girls. There will be classes for boys and classes for girls from 1 to 3 years of age and classes for ages from 3 to 5. There will also be classes for twins, triplets and quadruplets if they can be found. In each class three glorious silver cups will be awarded.

Now, if you have a beautiful baby or know a family that has one, see that it is entered in the Sun-Telegraph-Kroger Stores' baby beauty contest. You can get an entry blank at any Kroger store. A special, impartial board of judges will be appointed to select the real beauty among the babies and make the silver cup awards.

Watch the Sun-Telegraph for additional details. In the meantime enter your baby today.

HOLIDAY TOLL PROMPTS NEW ATTACK

Donley Says 150 Victims Prove Herron Ordinance, Curbing Sale, a Failure

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will continue its fight for a more restricted sale of fireworks, according to an announcement made yesterday by Charles Donley, chairman of the life and property protection committee of the chamber. Donley declared that the high toll of fireworks victims over the Fourth of July demonstrated the failure of Councilman John S. Herron's fireworks ordinance. H said:

"The Herron ordinance gives the children and adults no more protection than the so-called 'safety ordinance' passed by Council two years ago.

"The Pittsburgh Chamber committee, after looking over the list of nearly 150 victims of firecrackers in the daily newspapers, feels that its emphatic stand taken against the Herron ordinance was more than justified.

"The committee intends to continue its fight for legislation that will do away forever with the indiscriminate use of fireworks and give adequate protection to the youngsters of the city.

The chamber committee, with other organizations, took active part in hearings before Council in opposing the Herron ordinance and advocating the prohibitive measure proposed by Councilman Robert Garland. After Council had passed the ordinance the chamber committee sent a letter to Mayor Charles H. Kline urging him to veto the measure.

WORLD HIKER RESTS HERE

A round-the-world hiker, who has been on the road for three years and expects to be walking for four more, is resting in Pittsburgh for a few days before he continues to Washington and New York. He is Mate Simunovich, 29, of Vigorac, Jugo-Slavia.

The hiker has just completed a forced march from Chicago in 10 days. He stopped for a visit with Kosto Unkovich, consul of Yugo-Slavia in the American Bank Building. From New York he plans to go to Canada, Alaska, Japan, China, and through various countries in Asia, to his home.

Simunovich carries a scrap book in which are a number of messages from potentates and princes. He speaks nine languages and has walked more than 35,000 miles. In some of the more desolate spots in South America, he traveled for days without seeing a human being. He is a former cadet in the Jugo-Slav Military College.

MORE SHOWERS FOR CHILDREN

Another battery of street showers for children is the answer of the City Bureau of Recreation to the hot weather, W. C. Batchelor, superintendent, announced today.

The additions bring the total in operation up to 51. Several more will be installed within the next few days.

Locations of the new showers are:

Fifty-eight hundred Pierce street, 54 Bigelow street, 1000 block Locust street, Warren avenue and Rising Main street, Frazier and Parkwood streets, South Nineteenth and Wharton streets and Monastery and St. Thomas streets.

LIQUOR SEIZED IN SIXTH ST.

Large quantities of whisky, ale and gin were reported confiscated by prohibition agents in a raid on the second floor at 142 Sixth street yesterday.

Patrick Smith, 40, alleged proprietor, and Vincent Borman, 47, a waiter, were arrested. Each was released on a $1,000 bond.

William Parker was arrested when the agents raided a barn on a farm in Baldwin Township. They reported confiscating a 150-gallon still and 30 gallons of moonshine and destroyed 18 barrels of mash. Parker was held at Central Police Station in default of bail.

Rabbis' Meet Bans Birth Control Topic

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—An effort to reconcile and merge all rabbinical groups in America will be made during the two-day convention of the Assembly of Orthodox Hebrew Rabbis of America and Canada, opening today.

J. Mendelsohn, chief rabbi of Newark, N. J., chairman, indicated strict adherence to the old rabbinical laws would be demanded. He said there would be no toleration of birth control or let-down in the dietary laws.

Officer Faces Charge Of Beating Suspect

Members of McKeesport Council were urged by Mayor George H. Lysle to attend the hearing today of Patrolman Ruben Stephenovich, suspended for the alleged beating of McKinley Johnson, a Negro, of Mulberry street, McKeesport.

Johnson was arrested in connection with the killing of James W. McTee, of Sharpsburg, slain in his parked automobile in front of the Elks Club in McKeesport, June 27.

DESERTED MAN WINS DIVORCE

Deserted by his wife, he searched the country for her and then found she had never left New York City, according to the testimony of Francis B. Peckham, 123 North Negley avenue, sales engineer, granted a divorce from Anne Kirby Peckham, Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York City, by Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court.

They were married November 18, 1927, in Buffalo, N. Y., and parted October 8, 1928, while living at Larchmont, N. Y. Peckham testified. He said:

"I came home from work and found the apartment dark and everything gone. I called her friends. Her mother told me she went to Los Angeles. I searched for her there and in Kansas City, Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Philadelphia, New York and at her former home in Bradford, Pa. I found she never left New York. I met her on the street in New York and she told me she did not care for me any more."

WOMAN SEIZED, 3 MEN HELD

North Side police today held three men on suspicious person charges following their arrest at Lockhart and Pressley streets, where one of them was said to have attempted to drag a woman from an automobile.

They gave their names as W. J. Patton, 27, of 607 Lockhart street; Abe Lapidas, 32, of 926 Morningside avenue, and Martin Coyne, 22, of 854 North Lincoln avenue. Patton, police said, attempted to pull a woman from an automobile in which she and her husband were sitting. The others were said to have been with him.

Cruelty Charged By Wife in Suit

Charging cruelty and indignities, Mrs. Beatrice Chalfant, 24 Underhill street, Crafton, filed a divorce suit against Harry A. Chalfant, 209 Poplar Grove street, Carrick, in Common Pleas Court. They were married June 26, 1928, and parted November 11, 1930, the suit said.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 7.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

When the Fourth of July and a Sunday come together there just aint anything to do on Monday but send flowers. Fireworks killed and maimed everybody that had a match; rip tides in the ocean just wait for a holiday to get their quota and autos got what was left. About the only sure way to keep from being hurt on the Fourth of July is to participate in one of our heavyweight prize fights.

Attorneys Play Slot Machines In Court Case

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 7.—(AP.)—Attorneys hauled two slot machines into the Arkansas Supreme Court in efforts to prove their operation did not constitute gambling, but the demonstrations failed to convince the jurists.

After the lawyers had inserted many nickels into the slots and had whirled the wheels right merrily, the court ruled that even though the player receives a package of mints for each nickel, he stands a chance of winning something in addition and therefore the machines are gambling devices, subject to seizure.

Uncle Sam Gets Blessings as Generous Giver

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The person who thinks up the best slogan for the Paris debt conference will be awarded the corrugated iron sunbonnet.

Many a diller makes a dollar. And many a dollar makes a holler.

Save your pennies and the chewing gum slot machines will take care of themselves.

Money is your best friend until you ask your best friend for money.

He that hath shall receive and he that hath not shall have a receiver.

'Tis more blessed to give than to get. So blessings on thee, Uncle Sam.

Cast thy bread upon the waters and then fire the cook for shaking the tablecloth out of the window.

If you want to lose a friend lend him money. If you want to get him back lend him more. Repeat until exhausted.

When the borrower pays through the nose a sneeze is a huge installment.

All we will get out of this affair is a slogan and a compromise. The mountain wouldn't come to Mahomet so Mahomet went to the seashore.

TWO ANNOUNCE AS CANDIDATES FOR JUDGE

Foster Seeks Re-Election to County Bench; Lindsay Aspires to Common Pleas

Candidacies of two aspirants for the judiciary were announced today. County Court Judge D. Paulson Foster announced his candidacy for re-election and Attorney Alexander W. Lindsay announced for the Common Pleas judgeship.

It was rumored that Robbin B. Wolf would announce for one of the Common Pleas Court places. Attorney J. Garfield Houston announced that he is a candidate in the bar referendum for one of the places.

FOSTER'S STATEMENT

Judge Foster, 44, residing in Carnegie, in his announcement said:

"I am a candidate to succeed myself as judge of the County Court and am submitting my candidacy to the voters of Allegheny County on my record of eleven and one-half years on the bench. If returned to office I will continue the policy of endeavoring to keep the courts abreast with the ever-increasing needs of the people, bearing in mind that the courts were created to serve the people."

CAMPAIGN MANAGER

Lindsay became known in politics when he became manager in the independent fight of Judge James H. Gray to break the organization judgeship slate, along with Judge Frank Patterson, in 1927. He also managed the Richard W. Martin campaign for mayor, and was one of the authors of the election code sponsored in the last Legislature by the Pinchot administration.

Mr. Lindsay

Lindsay, a practicing lawyer here since 1909, said:

"In response to a request by many members of the bar I announce my candidacy for the office of judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

"In making this announcement I do so in the hope that it will further a common desire to promote, encourage and maintain a free, independent and uncontrolled judiciary in Allegheny County."

OBITUARY

Lea Funeral.

Funeral services for Col. Andrew B. Lea, former commander of the 112th Engineers, Ohio National Guard, who died Sunday, will be held this afternoon at his home, 60 East Two Hundred Twenty-Second street, Cleveland. Col. Lea was born in Cargenie, going to Cleveland during the Spanish-American War. He entered politics eight years later and was elected Cuyahoga County surveyor. Later he was director of public works. He was a staunch political supporter of Tom L. Johnson.

When the World War started, he was appointed a major in the 112th and served overseas. He was named colonel of the unit following the war.

He leaves his wife, two brothers, Ben H., of Cleveland, and Robert W., of Bath, N. Y., and two sisters, Mrs. T. P. Tweed, of Charleroi, and Mrs. Oliver Hickman, of Bluefield, W. Va.

GARLAND SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Robert Garland, veteran city councilman, today announced his candidacy for re-election. Garland is president of the manufacturing company bearing his name, a director of the Third National Bank and a director of the Chamber of Commerce.

Announcing his candidacy he said:

"I am submitting my name in the September primaries as a candidate for Council of the City of Pittsburgh, in which body I have served the community for several terms. As good government is entirely a matter of good representation, and as the citizens and taxpayers of Pittsburgh have been voting me into Council during the past 20 years as one of their representatives, I can only feel that the people are satisfied with the manner in which I represented them in this important legislative body.

"As to pre-campaign promises, I quote from a classic work of literature: 'Promise is the most given when the least is said.'"

2 WOMEN, MAN HURT IN FIGHT

Three persons were injured in what police described as a free-for-all fight in Welsh way, South Side last night.

Police, responding to a riot call, stopped the battle and took the injured to South Side Hospital. They said they were Mrs. Theresa Kukla, 48, of 35 Welsh way, whose lip was cut; her daughter, Helen, 23, bitten on one of her fingers, and Stanley Glod, 29, of 37 Welsh way, treated for a laceration of the head, police said. Glod was alleged to have bitten the girl during the melee. With Mrs. Kukla and her son, Frank, 27, he was arrested on disorderly conduct charges.

How One Woman Lost 47 Lbs.

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

Mrs. S. A. Solomon, of New Bern, N. C., lost 47 pounds in 3 months with Kruschen Salts. She reduced from 217 to 170 pounds. She feels much stronger, years younger and pains in sides, back and abdomen that bothered her for years are all gone. She says she not only feels better but looks better as all her friends tell her.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

DROWNED GIRL IDENTIFIED

The body of a girl recovered from the Monongahela River near the Rankin Bridge was identified at the county morgue last night as that of Jane Konop, 17, of 327 Thirteenth street, Braddock.

She was reported to have leaped into the stream from the bridge late Sunday night. Motorists who said they witnessed the leap summoned police, who recovered the body several hours later.

The victim was identified by Anthony Konop, the father. He could ascribe no reason for his daughter's act. Morgue attaches said they learned from the girl's friends that she had been despondent.

MILD WEATHER FORECAST HERE

With yesterday's highest temperature recorded at the Weather Bureau as 80, at 6 p. m., and today's recordings all well under that mark, even cooler weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Local thundershowers, which for three successive days have skirted the Pittsburgh district but exerted a cooling influence here, were expected to arrive tonight. A Wednesday with the thermometer staying in the seventies will be the probable result, bureau attendants said, adding that the heat wave, which on Thursday broiled the city under a summer high of 97 degrees, was definitely broken for the present.

SUIT INVOLVES STEEL PATENT

Seeking an accounting for royalties alleged due on stainless steel sold by the Colonial Steel Company, of Pittsburgh, also an injunction to prevent such sales, the American Stainless Steel Company, of Pittsburgh, filed an equity suit in Common Pleas Court.

The suit averred the American company owns patens, granted in 1916 and 1919, for manufacturing stainless steel, and in February, 1927, granted the Colonial company the right to make and sell such steel under certain trademarks of the Colonial company. The Colonial company paid royalties under this contract, but since November 30 last has been making and selling stainless steel under other trade names upon which royalties have not been paid, according to the suit.

The suit asked an order for discovery of the extent of such alleged sales, together with an accounting for royalties and a restraining order.

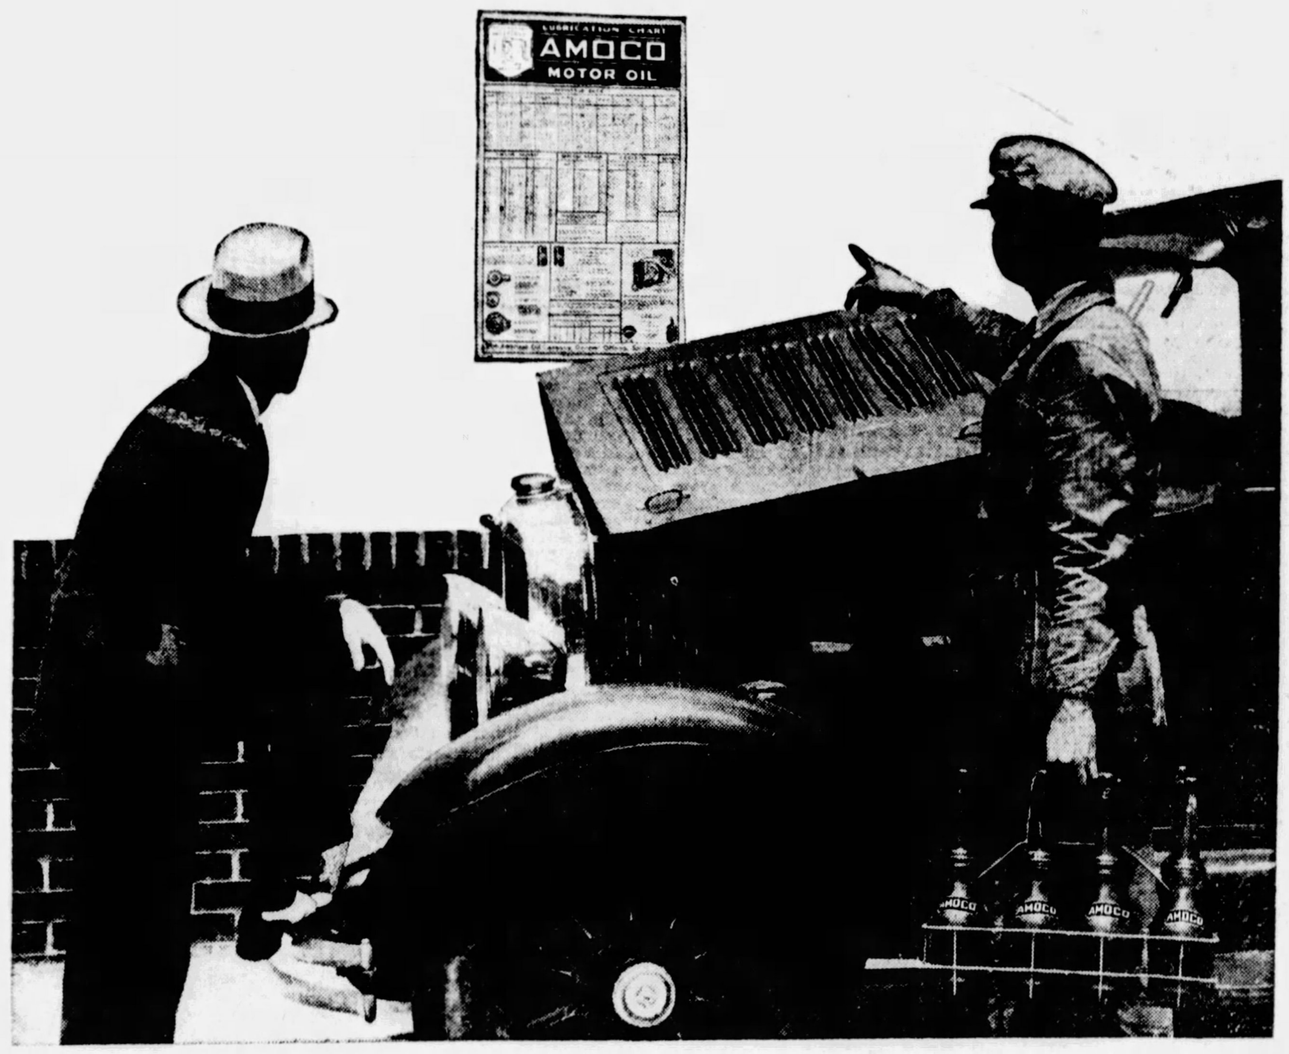
Depreciation OR APPRECIATION?



DEPRECIATION is recognized as the largest individual item of expense involved in the operation of a car. So if there is to be any reduction of car expense, depreciation is the logical item to cut.

The best way to reduce depreciation is by having your car regularly lubricated with the proper grades of Amoco Motor Oils (100% Pure Paraffine Base) and Greases.

Drive into any Amoco station—your car will be thoroughly lubricated by experts, using only the best lubricants, Amoco Motor Oils and Greases. And it will be lubricated according to the Amoco Motor Oil Chart, which follows the specifications of the engineers who designed your car.

Let the Amoco Motor Oil Chart be the "Health Chart" for your Motor—it'll change "depreciation to appreciation".

LACK OF FUNDS BRINGS PAVING DELAY PLEA

Property Owners Petition City to Repeal Street Improvement Ordinances

Postponement or repeal of two grading and paving ordinances, because economic depression has affected property owners, is asked of City Council in petitions presented for action today.

Property owners ask repeal of grading, paving and curbing legislation for Murdoch street, from Beacon street to Covode street. Several councilmanic hearings were held on the matter and a number of residents pointed out that the improvement was not worth the assessment to each home owner.

FINANCES LOW

Postponement of paving of Hearst way, between Charleston street and Sanders street is requested in a petition headed by the name of Richard H. Stone, of 1222 Lancaster street. The petitioners who originally asked for the improvement said that sickness, economic depression, deaths and forced vacations had depleted their finances. Council is expected to grant the request.

Three other street improvements will be acted upon by the city fathers today. They are:

Grading, paving and curbing of Rescue street, from Rockledge street to Varley street. Property damages in the project are estimated by the Public Works Department to be $500. Cost will be $18,000, of which amount $13,000 will be assessed against property owners.

OTHER PROJECTS

Grading, paving and curbing of Butler street, from Voltz way to Baker street, near Heth's Run Bridge.

The improvement, Director Lang said, will fit in with the general street work plan outlined by the City Planning Commission and will connect with the Allegheny River boulevard, thus diverting a large amount of traffic from the East End section.

Cost will be $130,000, of which amount $50,000 will be assessed against property owners.

Grading, paving and curbing of Sixteenth street, to Pike street and Mulberry way. Cost will be $5,500.

BRIDGE PAVING PROPOSAL UP

City Council today was to pass on an ordinance appropriating $27,500 for repaving of the Bloomfield Bridge, as well as legislation setting aside $8,000 for curb raising at the Twenty-second Street Bridge. Both projects were asked by the Department of Public Works.

In a letter to Council, Director Edward G. Lang pointed out that, despite frequent patching, heavy traffic has left the paving in bad condition. The bridge, he said, has not been resurfaced since it was built, several years ago.

A low curb on each side of the Twenty-second Street Bridge is an accident hazard in wet weather, Lang declared. Cars slide and careen over the pavement at the bridge approaches.

Lang also asked $10,000 to repair the Heth's Run Bridge and $1,500 for reconstruction of sidewalks on the Suburban Avenue Bridge approaches.

PLAN SECOND BUS MERGER

Plans for a second merger of Pennsylvania Railroad and West Penn Railways bus lines were announced today by P. R. R. officials.

They said an agreement is being drawn to place control of the Pennsylvania Greyhound Bus Lines, partly owned by the P. R. R., and the West Penn Bus Company, a West Penn subsidiary, in the hands of the newly formed Penn Bus Company, an operating organization holding a Delaware charter.

It was announced yesterday that the Penn Bus Lines, another West Penn subsidiary, would be sold to the Penn Bus Company if the Public Service Commisison approves the transaction. The Pennsylvania General Transit Company, another P. R. R. organization, yesterday's announcement said, would join in a working agreement with the Penn Bus Company, consolidating operations over routes of the Penn Bus Line and General Transit which now conflict.

RUBE ACCUSED OF THROWING SPITTER

THE SUCCESS OF Rube Walberg in holding his own against the shutout pitching of Bump Hadley in Washington yesterday, and thus saving the A's from defeat in the seven-inning argument, probably will be offered by Mackian followers as evidence disproving the Senators' charge that the lefthander has been cheating the rules this year through the illegal use of a spitball.

Rube Walberg

For Walberg was watched more closely yesterday than in any previous game, and the fact that he was able to pitch shutout ball under conditions that precluded the pulling of anything unlawful will no doubt be pointed out as a performance that proves the accusations were unfounded. The Senators had served notice of an immediate protest to the umpire-in-chief if the Rube put his hands to his face while holding the ball, but whether or not they are convinced the southpaw is pitching on the level remains to be seen.

ACCORDING TO THE Senators, Walberg's effectiveness this year has been due to the use of the spitball in violation of major league regulations prohibiting its employment except by registered damp-fling specialists. Similar charges were made last year with the result that the umpires were instructed to impose a $50 fine on the pitcher if he carried the ball to his mouth before delivering it.

This season, the Johnsons assert, the arbiters have become lax again on this point and have allowed Walberg to do practically as he pleased in the box. In two straight starts prior to yesterday, Rube beat the Senators twice and held them to three runs and 13 hits, and they contend that he was able to do it only because he was allowed to get away with a spitter.

WALBERG IS NOT the first unlicensed big league pitcher to be accused of throwing a spitball occasionally. Some players charge that several other hurlers on the main line who are not privileged to do so are not above resorting to the moist delivery.

It is said they get away with it because they do not use saliva, but get the same effect in a different way, deceiving the umpires by the common practice of wiping the perspiration from their foreheads with their hands and then applying the moisture to the ball.

THE ROBINS ARE doing it by fives. That appears to be their limit in the winning of consecutive games, as they have not been able to go beyond that total all season, but it is hardly to be disputed that if they do it often enough this is just as sure a road to the pennant as any other. Three times in a row the Brooklyn club has won five games in succession, only to be flagged in the sixth. Following a couple of defeats at Chicago's hands on June 18 and 19, the last time they were beaten twice in a row, the Robins took the next five before the Cardinals halted them, on June 25, 1 to 0; then they won five more before losing to the Reds on June 30, 4 to 3, and another string of five victories followed before the Phillies tripped them yesterday, 5 to 3.

Jumbo Elliott

IF THE BELATED drive of the Robins should fail to carry them anywhere in the end, they can attribute the blasting of their 1931 pennant hopes and chances largely to the opposition of one of their own castoffs.

In stopping the latest dash of the Robins yesterday in Philadelphia by administering their fifth defeat in their last 23 games, Jumbo Elliott was only adding to the damage he has been doing to the Brooklyn cause ever since the season opened. He has done more harm to the Robins than any other hurler in the league.

THIS MAKES NO fewer than five times Elliott has beaten his old teammates in a total of seven games pitched against them. Letting him go—and he was only thrown in for good measure in the O'Doul-Thompson deal—has proved costly to the Flatbush club from the angle of games lost to him, if nothing else.

Besides, Elliott has won a total of 11 games for the Phils to date, more victories than any of Robbie's pitchers has turned in, and a showing that would have put the Robins nearer to the top than they are at present if it had been made in a Brooklyn uniform.

BOSTON HAD ALWAYS been a lucky spot for Steve Halaiko, Buffalo lightweight boxer, until he was defeated by Sammy Fuller there last week, a result that has led Hub critics to boom Fuller for a world title match with Tony Canzoneri. It was in Boston that Halaiko, who lost only one fight in 117 starts as an amateur, won the national amateur lightweight championship in 1928, and after grabbing the Olympic title at Amsterdam he went back to the Hub in 1929 and again won the United States honors in his division, gaining the distinction of being the only boxer ever to capture the national amateur lightweight leadership twice in succession.

YOU MIGHT IMAGINE that the ambition of a young boxer would be to emulate Jack Dempsey or some other famous ring champion, but that wasn't true in Halaiko's case. He says his idol in the sport world was none other than Honus Wagner, and the dream of his life was to become a great shortstop like the Flying Dutchman.

Steve was all set for a diamond career and had received an offer from Manager Jake Pitler to join the Elmira club, but some boxing men convinced him he could make more money with his fists, so after long deliberation the youngster chose the ring. The fight game, however, has not changed his view that Wagner was the greatest figure in any branch of American sports.

CHAMPIONSHIP MARATHON GOLF records of all time were smashed by the sensational duel at Toledo in which Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., finally defeated George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, for the United States open title.

Billy Burke

More than one generation may pass before the golf world sees the duplicate of a struggle in which two men are so evenly matched that they have to play 144 holes before the question of superiority is decided by the comparative hairbreadth of a single stroke.

BURKE SHOWED RARE courage as well as golfing skill when he kept on fighting without a sign of being discouraged after the championship had twice been snatched from his grasp on his opponent's very last shot. The new champion, whose proper name is William Burkowski, is 29, the son of Polish parents, a former caddie and steel mill worker, and now professional at the fashionable Round Hill Country Club at Greenwich, Conn. Among the handicaps which Burke has overcome in rising to golfdom's heights, it might be mentioned that the index finger of his left hand is missing to the second joint. He lost the member while working in the steel mills. His back swing is slow and cautious. Inasmuch as the left hand is used to bring the club back and the right hand to guide it, one may easily imagine the disadvantage at which Burke is placed. Yet his scores of 73-72-74-73-76-77-71 through the tournament and two-day playoff give convincing testimony as to his consistency and steadiness.

KAUFMANN, ALL OTHER STARS NEAR TOP

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The scores in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole competition at Schenley Park today to determine the four linksmen who will represent Pittsburgh in the national public links tournament at St. Paul, Minn., on August 4 to 8, indicate that the makeup of the quartette who represented the Steel City in the play last year will be a little changed.

Carl F. Kaufmann, four times national titleholder, Mike Galido, Carl Lundeen and Andy Szwedko, members of the team last year, all were in advantageous positions at the conclusion of the morning 18-hole round. Galido set the pace with a sub-par 65. Kaufmann and Carl Lundeen matched par with 66 each, and Szwedko, with 67, was only two strokes back of the pace-setter.

RAMSAY SURPRISES

H. H. Ramsay may displace one of the 1930 representatives, for he "burned up" the course with a 29 coming in to total 66 and match the scores of Kaufmann and Lundeen. Ramsay's 29 was the best nine-hole score of the morning play. Pacemaker Galido went out in a brilliant 30, but had two out-of-bounds tee shots in the in nine.

John Pasikowski, with 67, and J. F. Lally, J. W. Platt and P. J. O'Malley, with 68 each, also were in threatening positions as play

Mose Butch, sturdy young southpaw, of Oakland, now knows exactly how Young Willie Stribling felt after his losing bout with Max Schmeling in Cleveland a few nights back. For, whereas Stribling got off to a fine lead against Schmeling and then tired and took a drubbing, Butch last night suffered a similar fate in his first main bout of importance, against Eugene Huat, of France, former European flyweight champion, at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

Mose won the first five rounds in hollow fashion and then tired and won only the eighth thereafter, taking a bad beating in the last two rounds to wipe out the last margin of his lead and swing the decision of the judges in Huat's favor. The referee, Al Grayber, called it a draw, but his vote did not count under the circumstances.

HUAT STARTS LATE

Huat, bothered a bit at the start by Butch's southpaw stance, fought a typically European style of battle. Like Schmeling, he is a long-distance fighter, and, like Schmeling, too, he didn't really began to fight until his opponent was, to all intents and purposes, through, and then he delivered in EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: FIGHTING FITZGERALD, CHAMPION DUELIST—George Robert (Fighting) Fitzgerald (1748-1786), descendant of a distinguished Irish family, fought his first duel at the age of 14. A life noted for gallantry, recklessness and continuous duels earned him the sobriquet of Fighting Fitzgerald. The number of duels he fought is stated as 112, and 70 of them are reported to have been fatal. In the end he was convicted of accidental murder and ended his adventurous life on the gallows at Castlebar.

GROSKLOSS BIG AID TO BUCS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Bereft of a capable secondbaseman for years, the Pirates may find themselves in possession of two stellar keystone guardians before the present race is finished.

Manager Ens and other veteran members of the Pittsburgh club have just about concluded they have landed a brilliant secondsacker in Howard Groskloss, Yale medical student and native of Sheraden.

The other infielder referred to is Anthony Pietruzska, the Polish nobleman of sport, who is traveling very incognitio as Tony Piet, of the Wichita club, of the Western League.

Groskloss, as you have heard, jumped into regular major league action sans minor league experience, yet the collegian was on his way to Wichita when he was flagged down by the local office.

HEADED FOR WICHITA

It had been arranged for Howdy to report to Manager Art Griggs, but there was a need here of infielders and Groskloss did not get as far as the western circuit. Since he entered the Pittsburgh lineup as a regular, the Buccos have won consistently and Howdy's part in every victory has been brilliant.

Groskloss was a star in Boston in the three victories the Ensmen achieved in four clashes with Bill McKechnie and the Braves. Howard was a big help in defeating the Cardinals in the morning game of the Fourth of July and he was out of action with heat prostration in the closing rounds of the second game as the Buccos let this contest slip away. The Sheraden youth contributed a fine catch in the ninth with the bases

Max Must Meet Gob or No One, Farley Says

SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—(AP.)—James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission, has declared Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion, "never will meet another boxer in New York as long as he refuses to meet Jack Sharkey again."

Schmeling, awarded the title after he was fouled by Sharkey and who successfully defended his crown Friday night at Cleveland, with a technical knockout over W. L. Stribling, is under contract with the Madison Square Garden Corporation for a title fight September 17.

"We think Sharkey is the best fighter in the world."

Continuing, Farley said the boxing commission, although it gave Schmeling the title, does not consider him the champion.

BREVERE RAINY DAY WINNER

CLEVELAND, July 7.—(AP.)—The tenth renewal of the $5,000 Rainy Day Sweepstakes, the feature event in the seventh day's Grand Circuit program at North Randall track resulted in a split heat race, which was won by Brevere, chestnut colt owned by W. N. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and driven by Ben White, of Lexington, Ky. Brevere won the first and third heats, dropping the second to Hollyrood Robin from the J. L. Dodge Stable, driven by Harris Stokes.

WALKER, GOB MEET JULY 22

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—As Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, climbed aboard a boat for Germany, two challengers for his title signed articles for a 15-round match at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, July 22.

Cameras clicked, moving picture apparatus hummed and the customary heavyweight glares were very much in evidence as Jack Sharkey, who lost his chance to be champion by fouling Schmeling a year ago, and Mickey Walker, resigned middleweight titleholder, signed contracts for the bout Jimmy Johnson will promote for the Milk Fund.

Walker, who abdicated the 160-pound throne a few days ago, looked tiny compared to Sharkey's 190 pounds of bulk, but the toy bulldog of Rumson, N. J., has been bouncing light heavies and heavyweights around freely in the past year. Sharkey eyed him with amused tolerance as they penned their names. He probably will outweigh Walker 30 pounds.

Sharkey will start training today in New York, and will move to a camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J., within a few days. Walker will train at Summit, N. J.

Schmeling, conqueror of Young Stribling in Cleveland, July 3, departed on the Europa at midnight, but he is expected back in August to defend his title again either against Primo Carnera or the winner of the Sharkey-Walker tilt. This match is scheduled for September 17.

Burke Paid $12 Per Hole for Open Victory

TOLEDO, July 7.—(AP.)—Billy Burke and George Von Elm were given a side bonus by the United States Golf Association and the Inverness Club for their record-breaking 72-hole playoff for the national open golf championship.

Prize money was listed originally as $1,000 for the winner and $750 for the runner-up. Because of the extraordinary playoff, $1,000 more was tossed, with the winner getting three-quarters. Thus Burke's prize winnings in addition to the big cup, emblematic of golf supremacy in America, totaled $1,750. Von Elm's netted $1,000.

Burke's winnings figured at the rate of slightly over $12 per hole for 144 holes; Von Elm's about $7 per hole.

Leo Diegel, who took down $650 for third money, averaged approximately $9 per hole.

Baer-Uzcudun Go Gate Shows Profit

RENO, Nev., July 7.—(AP.)—Revised figures show that the total gate receipts for the Baer-Uzcudun fight here Saturday were $79,666, enough, according to Jack Dempsey, to enable the promoters to make a small profit.

Paulino Uzcudun received $18,060.60 for his share of the purse, and Max Baer got $14,045.50.

Dempsey, who promoted the show, also refereed the main bout.

TOLEDO, July 7.—(AP.)—Billy Burke, Ironman from Greenwich, Conn., sat on the throne of American golf today, victor of the game's longest and bitterest fought championship marathon.

His mighty, surefire war clubs brought home the big prize yesterday when he outlasted and outshot the stout-hearted George Von Elm, big businessman of golf from Los Angeles, by a single shot after a 72-hole overtime battle over the sunscorched Inverness layout.

GREAT BATTLE

Golf champions will come and go, but the stirring battle between the new king and Von Elm never will be forgotten as long as the game endures and the boys gather around the nineteenth hole, to talk about the old Scotch pastime. It was a battle which lasted 144 holes and was not decided until the last stroke; a fight which found the two deadlocked for first place with 292s against a field of 142 rivals after 72 regulation holes, another test that found them still in a stalemate after 36 holes of overtime with 149s and a thrilling skirmish which ended only after 36 more nerve-wracking holes over the sand traps and narrow fairways of Inverness.

Von Elm, who sank a 15-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the home green to tie Burke in regulation time Saturday and then rammed home another from 12 feet on the same green in the first playoff Sunday to shove it into another playoff, couldn't duplicate his feats yesterday when the big showdown came, but it wouldn't have helped him anyway. After another ding-dong battle which saw one and then the other come up into the lead, Burke went one shot ahead on the thirty-second green and extended his margin to two on the thirty-fourth. It was too late and too much for Von Elm to make up that time, and the long endurance battle ended with Burke freezing him out easily with par golf on the thirty-fifth and with safe and sane golf on the final green, where he calmly measured three easy putts for a 5 on Von Elm's par 4. Both were almost too tired to accept congratulations as the wild gallery, which had stormed the course all day, swept toward them.

NIP-AND-TUCK STRUGGLE

The final duel was a thriller from start to finish, and not until Burke gained his two-shot lead and held it to the thirty-sixth tee did it break up. In the morning the lead changed hands three times and four times the struggle was in deadlock. Whipping his drives sure and straight most of the way, Von Elm finally prevailed when he shelled the eighteenth for a par 4 while Burke, wild and short, got a 5. The shift in fortunes sent Von Elm to lunch one stroke in front with medal cards of 38-38—76 to Billy's 37-40—77.

But Burke was not to be denied. Back he came with a great

ROBINS' WIN STREAK STOPPED BY PHILS

CARDS RALLY TO WIN OVER CUBS, 6-5

Yesterday's Stars

Associated Press.

JIMMY COLLINS AND WALLY ROETGER, CARDINALS—Their successive doubles in ninth beat Cubs, 6-5.

VIC FRASIER, WHITE SOX—Struck out nine, held Browns to five hits as White Sox won, 5-3.

JOHN BURNETT, INDIANS—Drove in five runs against Tigers with three singles; scored two himself.

JIM ELLIOTT, PHILLIES — Held Robins to six hits to beat them, 5-3.

Associated Press.

It still is a matter of conjecture whether the Brooklyn Robins got the better of the deal whereby they parted with Jumbo Jim Elliott and two other players in exchange for Lefty O'Doul and Fresco Thompson.

At any rate, it would appear that the jovial Uncle Robbie made a tactical error in turning Elliott over to a club in the same league. Since joining the Phillies, the big fellow has pitched fine ball against all comers, but he has been particularly poisonous to his former mates. But for the treatment they have received at Elliott's hands, the Robins would be in the thick of the National League pennant fight today.

FIFTH FOR BIG JIM

Facing his former pals yesterday for the seventh time this year, Elliott turned in his fifth victory over the flock, 5 to 3. He held them to six hits, four of which came in the last three innings, and was their master all the way. Hal Lee, who accompanied Big Jim to Philadelphia, also took a healthy slap at his former comrades in the form of a home run with one on. Buzz Arlett drove in the other three Philly runs with a home run and a double.

There seems to be a law, incidentally, against the Robins winning six straight. Yesterday marked the fourth time this season they have met defeat after a run of five consecutive victories. The reverse cost them a virtual tie with the Giants for third place, as rain held the McGrawmen idle at Boston.

The St. Louis Cardinals went into the final inning one down to the Chicago Cubs, but they emerged with a 6-to-5 victory. A walk to Sparky Adams and successive doubles by Jim Collins and Wally Roettger scored two runs and defeated Bob Smith.

NATS-A'S RAINED OUT

Washington and Philadelphia, meeting in the second game of their important American League series, might have been battling yet, but for a downpour that cleared the diamond in the last of the eighth. Neither Rube Walberg, the champions' star southpaw, nor Bump Hadley had allowed a run up to that time, and they were getting stronger all the while. The Senators, however, had a runner on second and only one out when the umpires motioned them in.

The Cleveland Indians went on another scoring rampage to square their series with Detroit, 13 to 4. Herring was bounced for eight runs in the sixth inning.

Vic Frasier, the White Sox rookie righthander, yielded only five hits and struck out nine batters in subduing the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3.

loaded and one out to save the Pittsburgh success in Cincinnati Sunday.

HAS DIAMOND GIFTS

Howard appears to be endowed by nature with most of the elements essential to diamond success. He is smart, possesses rare baseball sense, has a natural poise at the plate and is blessed with large hands; moreover, he is a sturdy lad.

Tony Piet is a big rangy infielder who at least can travel as fast as his fellow Pole, Adam Comorosky. Tony was impressive in the Pirate spring training period, but his general actions indicated he needed further experience. Piet is loaded with life, although he has a natural shyness that may hold him back a bit. He can hit a ball a long distance but he, like many another boy, was a bit too anxious and often off his stride as he competed against big league pitching. This little trouble, however, should be ironed out in due time.

INDIANS RECALL MONTAGUE

CLEVELAND, July 7.—(AP.)—Eddie Montague, one of the best shortstops in the American Association this season, has been repurchased by the Cleveland American League Club from Indianapolis. Terms of the purchase have not been revealed.

The Indians also have sold Jonah Goldman, irregular shortstop here for two years, to the Indianapolis team.

Goldman is a strong fielder, but his batting has been weak. Montague has twice before been with Cleveland. He was sent to Indianapolis last winter when it was believed the shortfield weakness here had been remedied by acquisition of Bill Hunnefield, formerly of the Chicago White Sox. Hunnefield recently was released.

CRAWLEY STOPS FARIELLO

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Johnny Pena, of New York, stopped Davey Adelman, Philadelphia featherweight, in the third round of a scheduled eight-round bout at the New York Coliseum last night.

Tommy Crawley, Pittsburgh, 137½, knocked out Frankie Fariello, 136, New York, in 2 minutes 11 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled eight-rounder.

Bob Godwin, Daytona Beach, Fla., light-heavyweight, defeated Arthur Huttick, New York, in the feature six-round bout at Madison Square Garden's "new talent" show. Godwin scaled 166 pounds, and Huttick, who substituted for Bob Olin, weighed 181½.

Kay Scores Five Under Par to Cop in Canada

TORONTO, Ont., July 7.—(AP.)—A dazzling 67, five strokes under par, enabled Andrew Kay, of Lambton, to win the 36-hole Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship yesterday with a total of 138.

MORRISON WINS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 7.—(AP.)—Fred Morrison, Los Angeles, shooting two sub-par rounds of 71-70—141, won the fourth annual North Shore open golf tournament yesterday. Sonny Rouse, who won the event in a playoff with Jock Hutchison in 1929, was the runner-up with 71-72—143.

Abe Espinosa, who burned up the course with 35-34—69 in the morning round, blew up after lunch and required 76 strokes for a total of 145. He tied for fifth place with Harry Hampton.

Abe Mitchell, the first British entrant to start, played around in 75 strokes for his opening round, then withdrew.

BEN CHAPMAN WEDS

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—William B. (Ben) Chapman, fleet outfielder of the New York Yankees, and Mary Elizabeth Payne, 19, of Birmingham, Ala., were married yesterday at the "Little Church Around the Corner."

GOLF COURSE OPENED

The Breeze Hill Golf Course, a nine-hole public layout on the Greensburg pike, three-fourths of a mile east of Wilkinsburg, has been opened for play.

Sharkey Ready To Hand Max Real Beating

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey, big, brown and bellicose, banged on the dinner table in his hotel so that the dishes rattled and the waiter jumped in alarm.

"I'll keep fighting," he growled, "until I get that Schmeling in the ring with me again. Then I'll give him the beating of a lifetime.

"He doesn't want to fight me again, and, in one way, I don't blame him. He knows he'll get licked. But sooner or later he'll have to meet me again, and when he does . . ."

Slovaks to Stage Big Sports Meet

An athletic program will be staged in conjunction with the annual picnic for Western Pennsylvania Slovaks, at Kennywood Park, tomorrow. Three baseball games, track and field competition and calesthentic drills, in which 600 to 700 will participate, are on the card. It is anticipated 50,000 Slovaks will gather for the picnic.

ALLEY OWNERS MEET

The Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association, controlling the bowling alleys of the Pittsburgh district, held a luncheon and business meeting at the Fort Pitt Hote today.

VINES, GLEDHILL GRAB TITLE

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, two tall and youthful Californians, won the national clay courts doubles tennis championship at the Triple A Club here yesterday, defeating Berkeley Bell, New York, formerly of Texas, and Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., in the final. The score was 6-3, 7-9, 10-8, 9-7. Vines won the singles title, defeating Gledhill in the final.

Five Harness Races At Oval Tomorrow

A program of five races will be offered local followers of harness horse racing tomorrow at the Schenley Oval by the Schenley Matinee Club. It is the fifth regular meeting of the season. The program follows:

First event, trotting class—Ralph Harvester, b. g., F. R. Evens; Arthur Harvester, b. g., Harry Serene; High Mack, br. g., D. H. Shull; Victor King, b. g., Duquesne Stable (Dave G. McDonald driving).

Second event, mixed race—Clinton D., b. g., W. V. Walker (Ike McKay driving); Napoleon's Reception, b. h., Dr. George C. Seitz; Fred Kitzwaugh, b. g., Ray Drew.

Third event, trotting class—Mildred M. Guy, b. m., Dr. George S. Seitz; Silkine, br. m., A. M. Lieb, Allen, Jr., b. g., Ed Wood.

Fourth event, pacing class—Tramp On My, r. g., A. J. Lieb; Silver Russell, b. g., Harry Serene; Lawful Guy, b. m., D. H. Shull.

FREDERICKS CHAMP

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—Wynn Fredericks won the golf championship of the Clinton Country Club at the tournament held here over the week-end, for the fifth time, defeating Charles F. Morrill, of State College, three times champion of Central Counties Golf Association, 3 to 2.

By TOM BIRKS

The Homewood nine, headed by Hank Daly, will invade the North Side this evening, the East Enders being scheduled to tangle with the North Side Civics at the Salt Works grounds. With the Dalymen trailing Dormont, fans on the North Side should see a fine ball game. The Civics usually can muster enough fight to make it interesting for any club. Now that all the boys are back from the fight, it is expected Art Rooney and all his regulars will be in uniform.

George Lees has been signed as first-string catcher for Homewood, it has been announced. Lees is well-known throughout the district, having played with Bellevue in the old County League days and with Green Cab. He is expected to greatly strengthen the Homewood lineup.

Fans following the fortunes of the City League are keenly disappointed in the Civics this season. The club apparently has little or no management, and since Art has evinced little interest in the doings of the outfit, it has slipped considerably.

TEAMS BEING STRENGTHENED

The Civics can make the City League a real race in the second half, provided something is done by way of getting ball players. Homewood and Dormont already are considered very strong, and J. L. Thomas, Book Shoe and the North Side Buicks are trying to build up good clubs to make things interesting, but apparently the Civics are not going to strengthen their squad.

Fans watching the Commercial and Industrial loop will note with interest the attempt of the Reliance Life and Rieck-McJunkin nines at their seventh effort to get their first game opposing each other, played.

Six times the game has been listed, and six times the weatherman has let loose with a torrential rain. The clubs met last Friday at Magee Field, and it was a bitterly fought game while it lasted. Reliance was leading, 2 to 1, at the end of the third frame.

A number of interested persons at the game noticed bitterness between the teams. The reason could not be detected. Both teams have a spotless reputation for playing the game cleanly and fairly, and probably it was the heat of a championship game which got under the players' skins.

TITLE TILTS ON TAP

With Reliance and the Homestead Aces trying to get their titular battle played, and the East End Cardinals and St. Elizabeth in the same boat, Honus Wagner has announced that the second half of the Steel City and the West Penn leagues will start Monday.

Reliance Life, with three league games in the Commercial and Industrial loop and only one home night, is trying to make a switch to bring Jack Fertig and his Aces to Homewood.

The other game in the C. & I. finds the Pittsburgh Coal nine hooking up with Frank Rush and his B. & O. nine at Burgwin Field.

The Greater Pittsburgh League started its second half last evening, and four games are again carded tonight. In the Minor League, Oertner takes the Bellevue outfit to meet Conleys, and Melrose hooks up with Washington Orioles.

Bellevue sandlot followers are pleased with the new athletic field opened last Saturday, and sandlot baseball probably will get another big play in the North Boroughs.

New National Golf Champion Getting His Trophy

burst of golf to shoot the first nine stretch in the afternoon in 34, one under par, to Von Elm's 36, to catch up and pass him by a shot at the three-quarter turn. On the twenty-eighth, Von Elm dropped his putt, a curling shot 18 feet long, for a birdie 3, to throw the match into deadlock once more. They both missed birdie 3s by inches on the next green, and the match stayed all even.

But it was Burke's turn on the thirtieth. He steamed in a putt from 15 feet to bound one shot in front. He got tangled up with a trap on the short thirty-first to take a 4 to Von Elm's par 3 and the fight was even again. Then came the beginning of the end for Von Elm.

The Prussian, playing a bold game, pushed his drive on the 416-yard thirty-second hole to the rough and had to play safely, losing the hole to Billy's par 4 and going down never to come back. He had to take bold chances after that and failed as related. Burke's medal round for the afternoon was 34-37—71, par for the course. Von Elm's was 36-37—73.

Burke, a former caddie from Naugatuck, Conn., and son of Lithuanian-American parents, is rated as one of the steadiest golfers in the game and promises to be a worthy successor to the mighty Bobby Jones, who surrendered the title without firing a shot.

Fight Results

At Meyers Bowl, North Braddock—Eugene Huat defeated Mose Butch, 10 rounds. Harry Fierro won (referee's decision over Mart Goff, 8 rounds. K. Carmichael defeated Benny Goldblatt, 6 rounds. Ross Baker defeated Anson Green, 6 rounds.

At Louisville, Ky.—Henry Firpo defeated Pete LaCrosse, 10 rounds.

At New York—Johnny Pena knocked out Davey Abraham, 8 rounds. Tommy Crawley knocked out Frankie Fariello, 4 rounds. Eddie McKenna defeated Mario Pinna, 8 rounds. Bob Godwin defeated Arthur Hunt, 6 rounds. Willie Arena defeated Jackie Ash, 6 rounds. Humberto Curi defeated Charles Krauch, 6 rounds.

JUNIOR PLAYOFF TOMORROW

Tomorrow three more boys will tee off at 9 o'clock at the Schenley Park municipal links in the closing blows of the fourth annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy.

Dave Wilson, diminutive Negro caddie at the Stanton Heights Golf Club, and unquestionably one of the finest players in the tournament; Bill Smith, of Jeannette, a caddie at the Greensburg Country Club, and Tom Madden, of Turtle Creek, fight it out for the fourth place prize—a handsome bronze medal. Each of these boys scored a 70 in the tourney last week.

PODMILSAK COPS

The lads who were deadlocked at 69 in the regular event did not fare so well in their playoff for third place yesterday, the excitement of it all causing either too much looseness or too much tenseness, with the result that all of them were well off their game. Needless to say, their eagerness to win, individually, was greatly responsible for their failure to get going.

Frank Podmilsak, of Moon Run, 17-year-old Chartiers Heights Country Club caddie, had to play an extra hole and sink a birdie to win third prize—a steel-shafted iron club, and a silver medal. He defeated John Kostik, of Linhart, Pa., on an extra hole that could have been no better played by Bobby Jones, Von Elm or any of 'em.

Winston Wertz, of the Beaver Valley team, winner of second place in the team play, was third with an 81, and some fine golf. Sam Nalesnik was fourth with a 90 and Arthur Tobias, of Greensburg, brother of Wayne, the assistant pro there, was fifth with a 92. George M. Brannigan, Jr., and Bernard Guentner picked up, and one boy, John Stubbs, Stanton Heights caddie, failed to show up.—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

VANDERPOOL VICTOR

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP.)—Meeting an ace horse for the first time in his brilliant career, Vanderpool, unbeaten 2-year-old from the Tennessee stable, ran his string of victories to 15 yesterday as he galloped off honors in the six and one-half feature at Aqueduct.

Springfield Wins Albany Protest

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 7.—(AP.)—Fred Voos, chairman of the board of directors of the Eastern Baseball League, has handed down a decision which automatically awards the Springfield club sixth place in the final standings of the first half of the season.

The decision was given on a protest of Manager Buddy Stapleton of a game played between Albany and Springfield in the former city on June 28. The game was thrown out of the standings by Voos, who upheld Stapleton's protest.

Stapleton's protest was made when Manager Bill McCorry, of the Lawmakers, inserted a relief pitcher, who, without hurling a ball, was taken out again after Stapleton inserted a pinch batter.

FOWNES TO BE NAMED

James Fownes, Oakmont Country Club, will be elected president of the Pennsylvania Golf Association at a meeting to be held Thursday, George H. Flinn, Jr., is in line for the position of secretary-treasurer.

wholesale fashion. The Frenchman's left eye was cut in the second round and his right eye puffed and cut in the fourth, and he was a bloody mess, but he carried on with unquenchable courage to finally turn the tide and come breezing home, while his opponent was badly spent and well crimsoned himself from a badly battered and bleeding nose. It was one of the best fights of the season so far at the Bowl, with first Butch's aggressive fighting tactics and then Huat's rally thrilling the small crowd.

Huat weighed 118 pounds and Butch 119¼ at 3 p. m.

FIERRO BEATS GOLD

Harry Fierro, of Chicago, 117, stopped in bouts with Johnny Datto and Butch here, finally came through with a merited referee's decision over Marty Gold, of Philadelphia, 120, in the eight-round semi-final, a hard-fought battle. Benny Goldblatt, of the Hill, 128½, was nosed out by U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, 131, in the second bout, and Rosy Baker, of Indianapolis, 154¾, bested Anson Green, Negro, of Homestead, 152, in the opener.

Jock Simco and L. K. Meininger were the judges, and Tommy Grant and A. C. Couch the timers, and Jack Henderson shared the refereeing with Grayber. Dr. M. R. Goldman was the commission physician, and Ray Eberle the announcer. Dr. William D. McClelland, the new boxing commissioner for Western Pennsylvania, was a spectator in a ringside seat, accompanied by Dr. Jock Sutherland, Pitt football coach and former teammate, and Davy Roberts, longtime friend.

Dr. McClelland will formally take over his new office today at a meeting with Havey J. Boyle, retiring commissioner.

It was announced that Tony Herrera and Johnny Jadich will box the main bout at the Bowl next Monday night.

Between Rounds

An amateur wrestling bout will serve as a preliminary to the amateur boxing show under the auspices of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. in its open-air arena on the North Side tonight. Andy Kosel boxes Young Harley, Eddie Hazel meets Pat Lewis, Fritzie Zivic battles Frankie Deal and Al Van Gura tangles with Eddie Zivic in the mitt events.

Ted Yarosz and Buck McTiernan will get in their final hard training licks today for their 10-round main bout at Hickey Park Saturday night. Twice postponed last week, the match has attracted a great deal of attention and figures to draw one of the season's most partisan crowds.

Clyde Chastain boxes Chick Haines in a 10-rounder in St. Louis Thursday night.

As a result of the financial success of his Max Baer-Paulino 15-round bout at Reno, Nev., on July 4, Promoter Jack Dempsey is planning another card there for Labor Day.

Johnny Farr and Lou Bloom have been matched for a bout at Charleston, W. Va., July 16.

All of the boxers whose names appeared on the left side of a sheet containing weights and other information for the press section at the Schmeling-Stribling fight in Cleveland turned in victories. A parlay down that side would have netted a goodly sum.

Max Schmeling makes no mistake when he rates Charley Retzlaff, of Duluth, as the best of the younger heavyweights. Retz, 1s.t can punch and box and fight. He made a neat job of stopping Marty Gallagher, a tough fellow to catch up with, on the Cleveland card, and has knocked out a flock of others.

WHEELING STAR VICTOR OVER MISS KAHLO

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 7.—(AP.)—The drive of Miss Fritzi Stifel, of Wheeling, for the West Virginia women's golf title she won in each of the last three tournaments began brilliantly as she swamped Miss Olive Kahlo, White Sulphur Springs, 8 and 7, as match play in the women's division opened today.

Miss Kahlo was runner-up to Miss Stifel in the 1928 tournament, losing then 4 and 3. The first few holes of their 18-hole match today indicated a struggle, but Miss Stifel soon forged ahead, and had things largely her own way.

Fred G. Bannerot, Jr., of Pittsburgh, led the men qualifiers in the 36-hole test yesterday with a score of 153. Miss Stifel was the medalist in the women's competition with an 87 for 18 holes.

Helen MacDonald, of Chicago, gave an exhibition under the supervision of the famed "Irish Ambassador," Jimmy Devlin, pro at the Nemacolin Country Club, this afternoon, and tonight is scheduled to appear at the Bob-O-Link driving range.

Yesterday she showed Schenley Park municipal linkers that a woman who takes the time to practice and uses the proper clubs can really play golf. Hitting the ball for the first time over the unfamiliar Schenley fairways, Miss MacDonald came home with a 76, which is unusual for any woman. Bob Graham, Schenley's popular pro, returned a 70; Fred Onoretta, Bob-O-Link pro, had 73, and the formidable women's city champion, Mrs. Eva Blair, recorded an 83. Miss MacDonald and Onoretta defeated Graham and Mrs. Blair, 5 and 4.

MRS. BLAIR VICTOR

Mrs. Blair may be forgiven if her game dropped off somewhat, for she played in the exhibition almost immediately after completing her round in the semi-monthly women's sweepstakes event, which she won with a card of 77-8—69. Margaret Curry had 81-9—72; Mrs. Edward Flegenbaum, 114-40—70; Anna Kenley, 105-38—77; Mrs. Latimore, 115-36—79; Mrs. G. A. Clark, 95-12—80; Mrs. Carrie Josephson, 92-12—80, and Mrs. Margaret Donald, 107-27—80.

Tomorrow Helen MacDonald will give an exhibition in the morning at the Westmoreland Country Club, Pittsburgh, today, of Pete O'Hara, and in the afternoon will appear at the Edgewood Country Club, with Jimmy O'Donnell being in charge.

Fred Brand, Jr., Penn State golf and basketball captain, and Bill McDonough, of South Hills, have departed for the Aronimink Country Club, Newton Square, to participate in the Pennsylvania amateur championship, which begins tomorrow. Other locals in the fight will be Greer McIlvain, defending champion; Watts Gunn, and James Hammond.

Tomorrow also will see the 16-team club championship of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, at the Pittsburgh Field Club, Fox Chapel Golf Club, Oakmont Country Club and South Hills Country Club.

It has been announced that the annual pro-amateur tourney, in which the club pro plays with the club amateur champion, will be held at the Shannopin Country Club, August 17.

SOUTH AMERICA AID NEXT MOVE

Problem One of Private Financing Rather Than Governmental Distress

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—The business depression has laid a heavy hand on the lands to the south of the Rio Grande, and it is therefore not surprising that the Hoover plan to aid Europe was quickly followed by suggestions that something should be done to alleviate the burdens of the Latin American nations.

With a Franco-American accord on the intergovernmental debt negotiations reached at last, it is possible that aid to some of the Latin-American countries may be the next step in international co-operation to lift the depression. But the Latin-American debt problem is a problem of private finance, rather than a governmental matter, for funds owed by these countries are owed to private investors who have purchased their bonds.

CONDITIONS VARIED

It appears that about all there is to be done for Latin-America is the extension of banking credits, possibly with the aid of the Federal Reserve. Conditions in the several countries vary widely. Argentina is well supplied with monetary gold and is not seeking aid. To go to the other extreme, conditions in Peru are so extremely unsettled that Wall street bankers feel that little can be done to aid the financial situation there for the present.

Chile at the moment is the South American country receiving particular attention in Wall street international banking circles. It has been rumored that a Federal Reserve official might visit Chile to seek means of aid.

BIG U. S. INVESTMENT

Total American investments in Latin America are between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000, or about half our stake in Europe, exclusive of war debts.

The Hoover war debt plan, while dealing primarily with Europe, may go far toward aiding Latin America, if its first stimulus to commodity price marks a sustained upturn. These countries have been hard hit by the drastic decline in commodity prices. With prices of many of their chief exports cut in half, it means that they must export twice as much to meet the same debts.

It is significant that most of them are dependent on one or two commodities. Seventy per cent of Brazil's exports are coffee, and nearly 8 per cent of Bolivia's, tin.

Republic Carbon To Redeem Bonds

Directors of the Republic Carbon Company have given notice that the company has elected to redeem, September 1, 1931, $50,000 par value of an issue of $2,000,000 serial 5¾ per cent debenture gold coupon bonds, being bonds of series O, Nos. 1751 to 1800, both inclusive, maturing March 1, 1942, at par and unpaid accrued interest to September 1, 1931, plus a premium of 2½ per cent of par. Payment is to be made at office of the Union Trust Company, trustee.

Mellon National Adds to Surplus

The Mellon National Bank has added $1,000,000 to the surplus account, making that item $16,000,000, it was announced yesterday. Capital amounts to $7,500,000, making total capital and surplus of $23,500,000.

WORTHINGTON'S EARNINGS UP

The Worthington Ball Company has asked for tenders up to 2,000 shares of Class A stock at a price not to exceed $25 per share, the par value. The financial policy of the company definitely is linked with a plan to retire the Class A stock. The result has been that Class A stock in the hands of the public has been reduced from the original offering of 16,000 shares to 12,725 shares as of May 31, 1931.

For the first five months of 1931, the company earned $69,112 after all charges, including depreciation and estimated federal taxes. If preferred dividends paid are based on 12,725 shares of Class A stock outstanding at the end of the period. Net to the 30,000 shares of Class B stock would be equal to approximately $1.95 per share. The first five months earnings were in excess of the same 1930 period.

New Refinements Shown by Fixed Trust

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

SEVERAL NEW REFINEMENTS in fixed trust shares are to be found in the indenture of National Trust Shares, local offering which is being started today by Dillon, Read & Co.

The stocks of three of the largest New York banks are included among the 37 issues in the portfolio. Up to the present time this is the only fixed trust including bank stocks outside of trusts specializing in this type of investment.

Another feature is that arrangements have been made to provide for all trustee's fees in advance so that the trustee has no lien on the deposited stocks. In addition to this the trustee cannot resign. This insures the life of National Trust Shares whether or not the originating house remains in business during the 20 years of the life of the trust. These provisions guard against the premature dissolution of the trust in case the sponsor should lose interest or in case the growth of the trust should not come up to expectations.

A third feature is found in a new type of clause in the indenture for the elimination of unsatisfactory stocks. The elimination feature is entirely automatic but it is based on an entirely new method which the sponsors believe surmounts the objections to automatic elimination in most of the earlier fixed trusts.

Many Plans Tried

SINCE THE FIRST fixed trusts were placed on the market many plans have been tried to provide against the possibility of some of the stocks in the portfolio losing their investment standing. A few of the trusts had no elimination feature. Others had automatic provisions requiring the sale of a stock after the passing of a dividend, a change in Moody's rating or a decline in earnings below the average of a certain number of years. Most of these plans were objectionable since they usually would result in the sale of a stock only after most of the damage had been done to its market value. Many of the later trusts met this objection by giving either the trustee or the sponsors discretionary powers to sell stocks.

In National Trust Shares, an entirely new policy is being followed. In the belief that the stock market invariably is one of the first reflections of unfavorable developments in a company's securities, the elimination has been based entirely on market action. The plan is designed to reduce the extent of losses to a smaller proportion than is possible under other automatic elimination clauses.

Base Prices Established

A BASE PRICE has been established for each of the 37 stocks in the portfolio of National Trust Shares. Most of these prices are market values at the close of 1930. Any stock after the close of 1931 which shows a lower price than its base and in addition shows a market trend less favorable by a fixed percentage than the general trend of the underlying stocks must be sold.

In applying the formula, the prices of all the stocks in the porfolio are taken. The one-fourth of the stocks which has shown the greatest gains and the fourth which has shown the smallest gains are disregarded. An average is taken of the remaining stocks which is assumed to be representative of general market conditions.

Then any stock which has dropped below its base price and which has failed to show a ratio of at least 70 per cent of the value of the stocks taken in the average price must be eliminated.

National Trust Shares fall into the cumulative type of investment trust since stock dividends in excess of 5 per cent at any time are retained in the portfolio. There is no reserve fund. Interest is paid on accumulations of cash between the distribution periods.

FIGHT SOCONY MERGER

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Dow, Jones & Co., in a special dispatch from Los Angeles, says the Barneson interests are not depositing their stock under the terms of the proposed Socony-Vacuum merger.

The dispatch says they do not consider the present basis of exchange equitable to Standard Oil stockholders.

The new terms provide the exchange of 2½ shares of the new Socony-Vacuum Corporation stock for one share of Vacuum and the exchange of Standard Oil of New York on a share-for-share basis.

The Barneson interests formerly controlled General Petroleum Corporation and received Standard Oil stock in exchange when that company was absorbed by Standard of New York.

Pollard Approved As Road President

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized Henry D. Pollard, Savannah, Ga., to hold the position of president and general manager of the Central of Georgia Railroad and also to sit as a director of the board of this road.

PENCIL FIRMS FORM TRUST

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Three great European lead pencil manufacturers have formed a trust in an effort to reduce costs through a pooling of interests.

A report to the Commerce Department from Consul Geist at Berlin said the action was taken as a result of the business depression.

The firms of Faber-Castell, Johann Faber and L. & C. Hardmuth will retain their independent organizations and will continue to manufacture the specialties they have developed.

At the same time, the report added, the new organization was expected to result in more economical and rationalized methods of selling and general management. The new concern also will include the Faber Pencil Corporation in Wilmington, Del.

THE IMPORTANCE OF A BUSINESS INSURANCE TRUST

TO the man who is financially interested in a partnership or close corporation, the Business Insurance Trust provides his estate with an immediate means of liquidating his business interests at a fixed amount.

Briefly, the plan is this. Associates in an enterprise make mutual commitments to buy or sell, and carry life insurance adequate in amount to provide the necessary purchase funds.

We shall be glad to explain to you in detail and without obligation how the plan can be made to conform to your particular situation.

STOCKS REACT AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

Market Stiffens Somewhat, But Not Until Declines Of 1 to 6 Are Recorded

NEW YORK, July 7.—Traders were so anxious to cash in on the good news of the international debt accord that the stock market turned distinctly reactionary after an opening bulge today.

Advances of 1 to more than 3 points chalked up in the first few minutes of trading had been replaced by net losses of 1 to more than 6 by early afternoon. Selling pressure later lightened and the list stiffened a little. Foreign bonds responded to the debt holiday agreement with a mild upturn.

The market had been generally expected to follow some such pattern on news of a final Franco-American agreement although the reaction came somewhat quicker and was a little sharper than most traders had looked for. Profit-taking on the bulge had been so widely advocated by advisory services and brokers, however, that the abrupt decline was easily explained.

"Selling on the good news" is an old custom in Wall street, especially when the news has been expected for some time. Traders reason that once a favorable development has finally been accomplished it is no longer a stimulating influence in the market, and profits should be taken. The market now faces the publication of second quarter earnings statements, which may cause some irregularity during the rest of July.

Important banking quarters explained that the reaction of the market should by no means be interpreted as reflecting any cooling of enthusiasm over the debt moratorium. Wall Street feels that the stage has been set for business recovery, although it may be slow. Foreign banking difficulties continue to come to light but the debt holiday will facilitate taking care of such situations.

Today it was reported that a $20,000,000 credit from the Bank for International Settlements had ameliorated the situation in Hungary.

Although the Reichsbank arranged for the use of the $50,000,000 credit extended by the International Acceptance Bank of New York group, further extensions may be necessary later. While the $100,000,000 credit extended by the Federal Reserve in co-operation with European central banks was announced as expiring July 16, it is understood that the credit has been made available by the discounting of 90-day bills, so that it will not wholly mature for some time.

Credit remains stringent in Berlin, with call money quoted from 8 to 10 per cent, and foreign withdrawals have not wholly ceased, although immediate cessation was scarcely to have been expected.

BERLIN MEETS CREDIT CALL

BERLIN, July 7.—There is general improvement in the German situation, but difficulties facing the Reichsbank and private banks have not yet been wholly overcome. The Reichsbank lost $10,000,000 of devisen (foreign credit) during the day against $20,000,000 on Monday, and renewal and increase of Central Bank credit to Reichsbank is considered to be necessary. Arrangements have been made for the renewal, it is said. The Reichsbank must give aid to several middle-sized savings and banking institutions, but insolvencies of any size are not expected.

BERLIN, July 7.—The issue of £5,000,000 treasury notes and opening of $20,000,000 discount credit at the Bank for International Settlements has ameliorated the Hungarian situation. Liquidity of all Hungarian banks is now assured.

The Hungarian National Bank had appealed to the Bank of England and to the Bank for International Settlements as a result of disturbance produced by difficulties of the Hungarian General Credit Bank.

Buying of Copper Continues Small

NEW YORK, July 7.—Copper buying remains small here and abroad with practically no metal changing hands. As a result prices are largely nominal. Custom smelters continue to quote 8½ cents delivered. Producers continue to hold at 9 cents.

Goldman-Sachs Sell Coast Holdings

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—Local interests representing the Pacific Mutual group of companies have taken over from Goldman-Sachs Trading Corporation and its affiliate, Pacific American Company, Ltd., the entire holdings of the eastern organization in various California companies which were acquired two years ago.

The transaction involves roughly $2,000,000.

WHITE TO HEAD ALTON ROAD

BALTIMORE, July 7.—It was reported that R. B. White, president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is scheduled to become president of the Alton Railroad Company if the purchase of the Chicago and Alton by the Baltimore and Ohio is approved.

R. W. Brown, now vice president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is to succeed Mr. White by the plans of the Baltimore and Ohio management, it was said.

The Alton Railroad Company was formed by the B. & O. to take over the Chicago and Alton. The application for approval of the purchase by the B. & O. is now before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A report that Mr. White would become president of the B. & O. and Daniel Willard be made chairman of the board was declared to be without foundation. No one in authority would confirm the plans affecting the Central Railroad of New Jersey executives.

Mr. White is 47, and most of his career has been with the Baltimore and Ohio, which has a large interest in the New Jersey road.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 7.—(AP.)—Fraction upturns in grain prices early today followed announcement that the war debt moratorium had been accepted by France. Trade was of only fair volume, and profit taking sales checked advances. Opening ½@¾ cents up, wheat later held near the initial limits. Corn started ¼@⅜ cents higher and afterward rose a little further.

New York Bond Market

CHAIN OPENS 70 NEW STORES, SHOWS GAIN

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service

NEW YORK, July 6. Depression tests the character and resourcefulness of management. Retail organizations are businesses in which the fixed capital investments bulk relatively less important and where management is comparatively more important than in numerous manufacturing industries.

Mr. Rukeyser

Among the chain store organizations which have succeeded in bucking the tides of depression is the W. T. Grant Company, operators of about 360 stores in various parts of the country. The company opened 70 new stores last year out of earnings and will launch about as many new units in 1931. Having always emphasized the price appeal, the organization feels that it is now reaping the cumulative harvest, what with the present economical mood of the buying public.

MANAGERIAL POLICIES

I have had an opportunity to discuss in detail the managerial policies of the Grant organization.

The company finds consumers disposed to take advantage of price declines in getting the same merchandise at lower figures, rather than willing to spend the same amounts as before for a higher quality of merchandise. Accordingly, the money value of the average sale has dropped. The company, though doing somewhat less business in dollars than in 1929 in the units which were then in operation, has actually increased the physical volume of merchandise moved. Through the expansion policy in opening additional stores, the company has steadily increased both its total dollar volume and its net profits. It has even increased slightly the ratio of profit of gross sales.

Its executives have found it good business to pass along quickly to consumers the benefits of price reductions in primary markets. On the other hand, they find that many independent merchants are less alert in keeping their prices at the market, and that they thus clog the channels of distribution.

CONSIDER PRICE

The Grant management finds that the public, which was placing more emphasis on style than on price in 1929, has now swung around to the position where price is the main consideration.

This particular chain carries merchandise priced at $1 or less, with the exception of millinery and apparel. The chief advantage of the price limits, the management insists, is that it enables the buyers to strike better deals with the manufacturers. They take only merchandise which fits within their price zones, and frequently are able to show manufacturers how to bring higher priced merchandise within their grasp.

The Grant management has made it a rule through the depression to keep its inventories up to normal in the lines in which it specializes. Meantime, some of its competitors have lost sales through having inadequate stocks.

Kitty Tells Thompson That She Can't Marry Him

CHAPTER X.

Viola Carson giggled.

I couldn't giggle. I could only see myself up on a stage wearing, as Sam Jacobs so coolly expressed it, "nothing at all."

"It's art—that's all, stage art," Mr. Jacobs said, glaring at Viola.

"Not for me," I said, getting up hastily.

"But why—such a chance as that, to throw it down!"

"I thought there was some catch in it—now, it may seem all right to you, but I wouldn't pose that way for a hundred a minute; thanks, just the same, for the offer," I declared.

Mr. Jacobs started to argue.

"My sister would—Oh, she'd kill me, and——"

Bring her along to take care of you, to be ready with the robe when the curtain is down—all them girls have a maid——"

"And there are other people——"

Viola said with her lips, "Thad." I nodded. I had just thought of it. Why, Thad Parsons wouldn't speak to me—at least he'd never marry me if I did such a thing.

Finally we broke away, and all my dreams of a hundred a week had gone, as Viola said, "Flooey!"

At home that night I remarked to Cora that I had thrown down an offer of a hundred a week.

"Yeah? What sugar daddy wanted to put you in a love nest?" she asked.

"Be yourself, Cora, you know well enough that any love nest I step into will have a marriage certificate all nicely framed and hung beside the 'God Bless Our Home' motto," and then I told her about Jacobs.

Cora laughed for five minutes.

"I'd give anything to have seen your face when he sprung that," she cried.

CORA APPRECIATIVE

Cora was getting well rapidly. We were all very happy about it. She insisted that in a few more months she would go to work as a dress designer. That had been her work when she married.

"It won't be long now, Kit, before I can pay you back for all you've done for me—perhaps you could go to some nice school if you wanted to," she suggested.

"You attend to getting well; your kiddies need a nice, strong mamma; as for yours truly, I'm doing quite well, thank you."

"Do you really expect he will ask you to marry him?" she asked, lowering her voice so father wouldn't hear in the next room.

"Yes, I do," I confessed, "he's in love with me and he respects me."

"And you'd marry him?"

"Try and stop me!"

Synopsis

Katherine Mason, a dress model, believes the chief aim of every girl should be to play around and have a good time—all within the bounds of decency. Because Peter Thompson, who loves her, is poor, she decides not to marry him, and expects a proposal from Thad Parsons, wealthy society chap. She has an offer to quit her job and go on the stage. Investigation shows that her role will be that of an undraped "living statue."

Now Go On

"If you do I hope you are happy—not so very many are who just fall in love with money!"

"Why, Cora, how can you say that?" I cried.

"I don't know what to say—it's something a person can't butt in on. I just have a feeling that what you think is love is a dazzle caused by his wealth and position—and all I want is to see you happy—as happy as I was during the five years my husband lived——"

I had to comfort her then and the subject wasn't mentioned again for a long while.

Thad was away on a fishing trip up in Canada.

I had known him almost a year. He had come into Hunter's a year before to buy blades and stuff to take on a fishing trip and had given up the trip, come back to my counter every day and finally became acquainted.

VISITS BEACH

Now we had a thorough understanding. He had told me that he loved me. I knew that he meant every word of it. Yet, somehow, I hated to have him take that trip. I hated to have him away for so long, perhaps, but probably I was a little jealous because he would prefer to go on a fishing trip instead of staying in town and going around with me to our gay little parties.

Viola's married brother had a garage down at Long Beach and a cozy little home. Twice I had been down with Viola. We could put on our bathing suits at the cottage and go to the beach for a swim.

This particular Saturday we were to stay over until Monday morning.

Mrs. Miers, always kind-hearted, gave us bathing suits out of stock, for among the many "Miers Creations" were ultra modern and ultra daring bathing suits.

"Kit, we'll knock 'em for a loop when we hit the beach in those things," Viola declared as we settled into a train seat.

"Or else be pinched," I added, thinking how much I wished Thad could drop down to the beach and see me. There would be no chance of that, even if he were in town instead of up in Canada, for he didn't patronize such public beaches.

An hour after we landed at Viola's brother's home we were headed for the beach, our long robes clutched tightly about us. We cut through from the cottage right past the garage that Viola's brother, Fred Carson, owned, and stopped just to say "Hello" to him.

"Hoo—hoo—Kitty!" someone shouted.

It was Susie Lawlor!

She and her husband were friends of Thad and twice we had visited down there for a little while on a Saturday or Sunday. She was having something done to her car.

I introduced Viola. Mrs. Lawlor caught sight of our bathing suits under the long, flashy robes.

"Let me see!" she demanded, and then raved over them.

"Why can't you and your friend come down to our place—we're going to have some extra young men and we'll need you, really," she insisted.

ACCEPTS INVITATION

I explained that I was visiting Viola's people, but Viola, anxious to be a guest at a really swell Long Island summer home, declared that she could square that.

Back we trotted and got ready. An hour later we were at the Lawlor's beautiful place, a really big home with private grounds and a stretch of private beach.

Viola was thrilled. I don't mean that I was blase about it by any means, for I got a big thrill myself, although I had been there a few times before.

Susie—Mrs. Lawlor made us call her that—had us get into those "hot" bathing suits again and we went down to the beach where there were a dozen or so, including her husband and their guests. They were too polite to rave or make comments about our suits, but they did create quite a stir and we frankly explained that they were advance styles for the next Palm Beach season especially, and we told how we [illegible]m. I wouldn't stand f[illegible]uffing—if they didn't want to mingle with working girls, that would be their hard luck. But Thad Parsons' circle of friends seemed to be real people, not snobs, and Viola and I had a wonderful week-end.

Curt Lawlor seemed especially attentive to a stunning girl named Arline Sargent. If his wife didn't like it (and I wouldn't have liked it if I had been in her place), she didn't give any hint of it.

That night during the dancing it was the same; Curt Lawlor couldn't keep away from Miss Sargent. A couple of pleasant young men took Viola and myself for a stroll down to the beach in the moonlight, and there were Mr. Lawlor and this Arline, snuggled up together on a sand dune, in the moonlight.

I am glad that a person cannot see into the future, for if I had known that just what part this Arline Sargent would later play in my life I think I would have been tempted to try to drown her then and there!

PETER OFFERS GIFT

We had a lively, almost hectic, time of it throughout Sunday. Monday morning we got up and got to the station before any of the guests were awake. We were working girls and wasted no tears over the fact, but hustled back to town, grateful for a wonderful time.

Viola didn't get over talking about that trip for weeks.

Thad had been gone almost a month. I had received three splendid letters from him. He was lonesome, if the men with him weren't his own guests, he declared, he would have been back long ago, and he was counting the days until he could see me.

"I'll never drift away from you so far and for so long again, my precious," he wrote in one of the letters. This made me decidedly happy.

Peter Thompson came over that next Sunday.

"Well, Kit, look me over—I'm a regular plumber now—just as I said I'd be—I'm working for a big construction company, sixty smackers a week and overtime that has been making it about ninety for the past three weeks—what do you think of that?"

"I think it is wonderful, Peter; you ought to be proud and happy."

"I am proud, Kit, but not happy—I can't be happy until you promise to marry me."

"Peter!" I protested.

"Won't you wear this?" he pleaded, holding out a pretty little solitaire.

I choked up; I wanted to cry.

"Oh, Peter, I'm sorry, dear boy, but I can't—I can't wear your engagement ring—I can't marry you." I managed to say.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Star Boarder

Husband Forced to Desert Domineering Mate

Dave Corbin was talking with Mr. Turner about the warehouse extension he wanted built next to the railroad freight station.

Corbin was a builder—the only builder of note in the country town.

Mary Corbin, his wife, turned and glared when she saw him enter.

"Now, Dave Corbin, don't tell me you walked through my spic and span front hall with those muddy boots on!"

He tossed his hat toward the hook in the corner, but the hat missed by a foot and fell on the floor.

"Why, yes, May, I did. I just ain't got in the habit of going around in my socks," he replied, mildly.

"It isn't funny—it's outrageous, when I work so hard to keep this house from looking like a pigpen."

"It's an old hat, May. The floor won't hurt it none."

"There you go! There you go! Trying to be funny just to cover up your laziness and downright meanness, Dave Corbin."

He glanced at her a bit wearily, combed his hair and drew up a chair.

"I'm hungry—this certainly looks good—those biscuits are worth a million dollars per each to a hungry man," he said.

REFUSES TO EAT

She served him his boiled ham and vegetables and pushed the plate of biscuits and honey jar over to him. Then she took broom and dust pan and went out to the front hall.

There might have been a few grains of soil on the ingrain hall carpet from Dave's boots, but not enough to be noticeable.

Mrs. Corbin swept the entire hall vigorously and brushed, making quite a task of it. She came in, sighed wearily and sat down.

"I'm too tired to eat, now," she said.

"I'm going to start Turner's warehouse addition on Monday, May."

"All right," she said, listlessly. She got up and went to the corner and hung up Dave's hat.

"Come on and eat, May."

She shook her head. "How can I eat when you keep me on the jump every minute cleaning up after you?"

He finished his dinner, his appetite suddenly gone. Then he went out to the kitchen step, filled his pipe and sat there smoking.

His wife came to the screen door.

"I scrubbed those steps this afternoon—look at them now—tobacco all over them. The dew in the morning will stain the paint—"

Dave went out to the garage and began arranging his fishing tackle.

He was off fishing the next day and his wife was quite gracious when he returned with a splendid catch.

WIFE GETS ANGRY

Mrs. Corbin was extremely fond of fish and she could cook them to perfection.

"I don't know what I'd do without you catching me a mess of fish now and then, Dave—these store fish coming by rail aren't my idea of fish," she said.

The trouble started again.

The burden of Mrs. Corbin's plaint was that Dave Corbin was lazy, that he was dirty, that he deliberately made extra work for her. It was the same old story.

Dave finished his dinner in silence.

He disappeared upstairs. He brought down a battered old suitcase with him and he placed before his wife a wallet in which there was considerable money.

"I'll see you get enough to live on comfortably," he said.

His wife stared at him and then flushed angrily.

"Showing off, are you? Getting childish because I tried to teach you to be clean and decent and not make a hogpen of the house, well—"

"SHUT UP!"

It was the first cross word Dave Corbin had ever said to his wife and this time he bellowed it.

"I'm fed on nagging. Of all the dam fool creatures and pests on earth it's a nagging woman and of all nagging women you're the most efficient. You're the best cook in the world and a dam sight better nagger."

He started for the door.

"Where you going?"

"Out of earshot."

He slammed the door and got out his car. He drove down to the lower village and went to Mrs. Lacy's boarding house.

He made no explanations and Mrs. Lacy knew better than ask. A boarder was a boarder, and Dave Corbin was a man who was pretty well off and would pay promptly.

Mary Corbin knew, by the next noon, that her husband was boarding with the Widow Lacy.

She became somewhat grim. People would talk, but she would say nothing.

All she did say to nosey inquiries was that Mr. Corbin had to be down near his work. Everyone knew that was a silly bluff.

Mrs. Corbin wished, on Saturday, that Dave had gone fishing and would bring home a lot of fresh ones for the Sunday dinner. She ordered some mackerel and didn't enjoy them at all.

On the other hand, she regarded her home with a great satisfaction, even if she was somewhat grim about it. There wasn't a speck of dust in the place. The little yard was as neat as indoors. Everything was glistening and spotless.

But not so many of the neighbors came in and those who did visit her hinted that it was a shame a man like Dave Corbin should lose his head over that skinny Widder Lacy.

Not one of them spoke of her spotless and shining rooms.

Dave was not having it altogether gay. Mrs. Lacy's biscuits were a trifle soggy and there was too much fat in her beef stews. The food was all right, he guessed, but it could be better.

Dave never worked Saturdays. He fished.

He brought back a splendid catch of lake trout and Mrs. Lacy knew how to bake them in milk with onions and bits of bacon. She was good at that.

COMPLETES WORK

However, aside from that, the boarding house food did not improve. Dave had many uncomfortable days, distressed by too high seasoning used to cover slightly stale foods, or too much grease.

Mrs. Trotter didn't make Mary Corbin any better, either. Mrs. Trotter was related to the Widow Lacy. She dropped in and told Mrs. Corbin that Lucy, which was the Widow Lacy, had told her all about the wonderful lake trout Mr. Corbin brought her and how he praised the way she baked them.

When it came to white perch, however, Mrs. Lacy was a failure. They were fried like baked tiles instead of being fillets of tender fish rolled in cornmeal and dropped in deep fat.

It was hot midsummer when Dave finished the warehouse and had to go to work rebuilding the Smith Block of three wooden stories that had been gutted by fire. He had to go home to get some old plans he had built for the original block.

Mary Corbin saw him coming from his car up the side path. She saw him scrape and scrape his feet and then knock.

"If you'll fetch down that leather roll, May," he said, "I won't have to come in and muddy up your house. I must have those plans in there."

"Guess not—make you too much work."

She brought the plans.

"Why not come and have some baked cloved ham and some biscuits, Dave?"

"Gosh—I'd—I'd like to."

He went in and almost wept over the wonderful meal.

"I'll fetch you some pickerel Saturday night; you always liked 'em," he said.

"I'd love 'em. This store fish I can't go, Dave."

He brought the fish.

"Look here, May, suppose I board here—just be a boarder. I can't live on that woman's greasy truck. I'll pay my board regular and pay you extra for getting the house dirtied up."

ENJOYS SMOKE

He came on one rainy Saturday and left great blobs of mud all over her newly polished kitchen linoleum and expected to catch it.

Mary Corbin went about singing as she cleaned the floor. She praised the fish, cooked him an excellent dinner and brought him a pretty square table with a handle on it.

"It's a new smoking stand. Go ahead and smoke, Dave. You see you're sort of my star boarder."

Dave chuckled and enjoyed his smoke.

Mary brought the weekly paper to him, and picked up the things on the table, going about singing merrily.

She even talked about his progress on the new building and he told her that it was time they had a chowder made from catfish. He knew where to get them at night. He'd go next Monday night.

It came 10 o'clock and Dave went up to the "guest room" that he had occupied since his return as a star boarder in his wife's home.

"Say, Mary, where's my duds?" he called.

Mary stood in the door, her face very red.

"I thought—long as you are my star boarder, Dave, and there's always so much scandal about star boarders, that you might as well move back to your old—to our old—oh, come on to bed, Dave!"

The New Councilman

John M. Phillips Has a Clean Record, and Promises To Be Independent.

John M. Phillips, the South Side manufacturer of mine and mill supplies, who was elected to Council yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George J. Kambach, has a clean record, and promises to be subservient to no political boss or faction, but to pursue an independent course. He states further that he will not be a candidate for election to the full term.

These things go far to remove the unpleasant impression created by the fact that he was the candidate of "the Mayor's majority"—the crowd that voted against a public investigation of the Department of Supplies, the crowd that authorized fireworks, and in other ways has opposed the best interests of Pittsburgh.

Aviation in Pittsburgh

Current Events in Aeronautics Call Attention to City's Important Place on Air Maps.

We have been disappointed in some of our plans for the development of Pittsburgh as an air center; but there is encouragement in the part the city has played and is playing in important current events in aeronautics.

Calling attention to the city's prominence on the air map, we have the fliers of the Ford reliability tour with us today.

Yesterday we had a visit from Camille Vinet, pilot of a passenger plane, in which he was striving to set a new record for the flight from Los Angeles to New York.

Pittsburgh receives mention, too, in the current issue of the Air Commerce Bulletin of the Department of Commerce, in connection with the lighting of the new Pittsburgh-Erie airway and other aeronautical matters.

We have advantages—our central location, for example—which, if we avail ourselves of them, present an opportunity to make this one of the nation's foremost centers of aviation.

Pittsburghers can help to give the city an enviable position on the air map by making air journeys and using the air mail.

Voting Machine Inquiry

Public Hearings of Senate Committee Serve Useful Purpose by Bringing Suspicions Into Open.

The Senate Voting Machine Investigating Committee, headed by Senator Frank J. Harris, is holding another hearing today, open to the public.

Senator Harris is taking the right course in inviting all citizens having information on this question to appear, and in giving widespread publicity to the committee's work.

This serves a double purpose. It brings into the open suspicions and rumors as to unethical, dishonest and unbusinesslike methods that may have been used in securing or awarding contracts for voting machines, and thus will make it possible to prove or disprove these stories, and at the same time it provides opportunity to furnish the public important facts about voting machines—facts with which every voter should be acquainted but of which, it is to be feared, many are still ignorant.

Building Activities

This Is a Good Time to Engage in Construction Projects, Because Materials Are Cheap.

In the Sun-Telegraph yesterday you saw a picture of wreckers tearing out old houses on Montgomery avenue, North Side, to clear the way for the new $200,000 temple that Islam Grotto, the Masonic society, is about to erect.

You read, also, of a 25-story building for physicians, to cost $4,500,000, which it is proposed to construct on the site of the Academy Theater on Penn avenue.

This is a good time to engage in building activities. Materials are cheap and wages reasonable. Money is plentiful and can be borrowed, on good security, at an unusually low rate of interest.

Our Neglected Zoo

The City Should Have a Fixed Policy for the Maintenance of the Animal Collection.

Once more complaints are made about the zoological garden at Highland Park.

The Humane Society and the Izaak Walfon League say the animals are not maintained as they should be.

Councilmen promise to look into the matter.

Complaints about the zoo are frequent. Sometimes we are told it is run down, that animals which have died are not replaced, or that the zoo does not have animals that it should have.

When the agitation becomes sufficiently vigorous Council generally does something about it—though without ever bringing the local zoo up to the standard of the zoos in St. Louis, or Washington or New York.

What is needed is a fixed policy for the maintenance of the zoo—a policy which will be consistently followed at all times—so that it will not be necessary for the Humane Society or the public to complain periodically to Council.

Fireworks Accidents

Fourth of July Record Again Proves Need of Municipal Ban on the Explosives.

Virtually everything that the women's clubs, civic bodies and citizens generally have said, in urging a municipal ban on fireworks, was justified by what occurred in Pittsburgh and nearby communities on the Fourth of July.

The hospitals report five persons seriously injured and 250 others burned or otherwise hurt by the explosives which City Council authorized as harmless.

Not for several days will it be possible to tell how serious are the apparently minor injuries, for tetanus does not develop at once.

In happy contrast with Pittsburgh's unfortunate celebration was the situation in Mt. Lebanon, where fireworks were forbidden and there were no mishaps.

Horrors, look at the three anthropophagi, approaching in the upper right hand corner. Unless you have seen their hideous faces, their wolf-like fangs, and felt their hot breath on the small of your back, you can't POSSIBLY know what the anthropophagi are like.

Reading, as you do, a paper for intellectuals, you know that the name of these monsters comes from two Greek words, "phagein," meaning "to eat," and "anthropos," meaning "man."

In other words, believe it or not, the "anthropophagi" eat human beings. If they reach the little lady in the foreground there will be nothing left of her but slippers, clothing, ear rings and beads.

However, we hope for the best, while fully expecting the worst. That turtle with his queer, slow jockey MAY come to life.

And the two little boys in the boat, called for short "Shoot" and "Boot," may suddenly turn and shoot old Prohibition.

In fact, it is their shooting and bootlegging activities that now make it so hard for Prohibition to explain his existence.

Poor little "America's Prospects!" Poor little girl, how would you like YOUR daughter, or aunt, to live the life she leads? It was not so before old Prohibition came.

Galton Blazed Path for Modern Eugenics

By Archibald Henderson

There was a time when Francis Galton was held in no great esteem as a scientist. His theories were looked at askance, and there was no unanimity of opinion that his methods and conclusions were truly scientific. Although eugenics, for example, bulks large in the writings and categories of modern science, this subject has had to make a long and uphill fight until it reached its present position of dignity as a considerable subject for scientific research.

Recently there has been completed by Karl Pearson, Galton professor in the University of London, the comprehensive biography: The Life, Letters and Labors of Francis Galton. This work, a genuine literary monument, is a definite appreciation of Galton as a great scientist. It has been said that no other man of science ever had such a biography to preserve his memory.

During the last decade of Galton's life, Pearson was closely associated with Galton in one common aim: the establishment of eugenics as an accepted branch of science. Galton's final crusade for eugenic principles, asserts Pearson, was the crowning phase of a life whose labors in medicine, evolution, anthropology, psychology, heredity and statistics directly fitted him to be the teacher and prophet of the new faith.

A subject of immense importance in the subject of statistics is the principle of correlation. This principle has proved valuable in many fields, and is coming rapidly into very general use. It is still in the experimental stage, and many researches have been stimulated by this suggestive principle. Galton was deeply interested in the application of statistics to the problems of heredity. It is a singular fact that both Galton and Mendel started with experiments on peas, the former from sweet, the latter from edible peas. It is obvious why Galton chose the former. He selected peas because he wished to avoid, as far as possible, the variation in size of peas within the same pod. Indeed Galton actually gave this reason for selecting peas. Instead of arriving first at the correlation coefficient, he hit upon the idea of regression. Already the correlational calculus, sprung from Galton's peas, has grown and flourished abundantly. Some day it may rival in importance the vast system of factorial genetics which arose from Mendel's peas.

Like all scientists endowed with an active imagination, and faculty of wide-ranging generalization, Galton formulated certain principles which have not stood the test of verification. A sort of forerunner of De Vries, Galton believed that mutations or "sports," as he called them, demonstrated the discontinuous character of evolutional process. The unexpected law of universal regression, which Galton confidently formulated, has now been shown not to be a law at all. This display of Galton's so-called law does not prove, however, that "variations proper" have been the basis of evolution. Galton believed they were inherited, but considered them of no importance in evolution. Unfortunately, the disproof of this so-called law which is now law, removed Galton's chief reason for belief in evolution by discontinuity, that is, by sports or mutations. As Pearson has clearly indicated, the law of "universal regression" is only true when we neglect ancestry beyond the parents and suppose mating at random, but these are not the conditions which exist when intense selection is taking place and the selected interbreed.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You never can tell.

There was Noguchi.

Noguchi, the Japanese peasant boy who rose to be one of the world's greatest scientists in spite of abject poverty and deformity so hideous that it scarred both spirit and body, Gustav Eckstein has just written his biography.

The average biography is apt to be a disappointing thing. It's wonderful — too wonderful. You may admire the hero but you could never hope to be like him. He's too good to be real . . . like those displays of perfect fruit one sees in restaurant windows—

But Nugochi was no display of perfect fruit. Anything but! He was irresponsible, disorderly, conceited, selfish and a most persistent grafter. He borrowed money from everyone—making glorious, impassioned speeches while he did so—but he almost never returned a cent. Then, instead of spending these sums on noble ends, he wasted them, without a qualm, on loafers, geishas, and gambling games. At times he was charming and good natured but, more frequently, he was irritable, inconsiderate, thoroughly unpleasant. In short, judged by all the rules laid down for Worthy Citizens, Noguchi was a Horrible Example and he should have come to a very bad end. Yet millions mourned when the news of his death knelled round the world!

For what wonders he achieved with that disorderly character, in those littered laboratories—wonders that freed countless men from agony and the haunting horrow of death. With what delicacy, patience, self-sacrifice and controlled intelligence he worked for others, he who, in his own life, disregarded all these qualities! With what courage he faced constant risk, and his final heroic death in the African jungle—he who ran away from so many trival things!

Noguchi—such a mess! Such a marvel!

You never can tell. The greatest natures are often like that. Seemingly unruly as vacant lots—tangled with weeds, thorny with thistles, littered with junk. And yet, amazingly, in the midst of all the rubbish, Life flowers and fruits, sending strong roots into the deep, untilled soil.

That queer, unconventional woman who won't join the P. T. A. . . . whose house is always at sixes and sevens . . . whose children do the wildest things and yet, somehow, turn out to be the town geniuses—she's like that. Out of the very unruly abundance of her nature, she gave them greatness.

Those careless, happy-go-lucky town characters who "never amount to anything," yet leave their impress on a whole generation—they're like that. Remember "Lightning"? You can never tell.

And the chances are you'll be even more mislead by the seeming successes. Often the most respectable people get that way because they haven't sufficient imagination, courage or curiosity to be anything else. We praise them because their lives are in order . . . but actually they have nothing to put in order. They live lawabiding lives but so does a turnip. And I suspect they rate about as high in the history of human progress.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You know many persons who are trying to create impressions about themselves that are not true, and you bluff considerably yourself.

Consequently you have come to wonder if there are any persons in the whole wide world who are just exactly what they appear to be.

Most everyone has mean traits and would like to keep them covered.

Yes, there is much bluffing in the world.

If there were not there would be a gener[illegible]tion.

Many strong friendships would be lost if all the meanness of each individual were known.

It is well for business, for social and economic systems that so many have the desire and the will power to control the worst that is in every one of us.

Fortunately, pride and the ambition to be thought well of keeps the worst down, and it is nothing to be alarmed about because there is personal deception to an extent—it has always existed.

The worst may be there, but you can try to bring out the best

What Is Russia Really Doing?

RUSSIAN CHILDREN INSTRUCTED IN THE USE OF THE HANDS.

First Lenin threw out the Czar and all his family, then he died.

Now Stalin, man of extraordinary power, rules the nation as completely as Mussolini rules Italy, or Kemal Pasha, Turkey.

And Stalin says that Russia, a great agricultural nation, must be changed by the "Five-Year Plan" into a great industrial nation as efficient as the United States, as great and powerful in its "mass production" as any nation on earth.

Until lately our financiers were assuring us that "Russia's plan couldn't possibly succeed." At any minute, Russia might "blow up;" it couldn't last long at best.

But it has lasted 13 years, and nations that once despised the Russian plan are now terrified at Russian competition in wheat, candy, machinery, cotton, heaven knows what.

The Russians are manufacturing Ford tractors and selling them for $100 less than Ford's prices.

They are underselling the candy makers of England and the United States.

Every American soldier at this moment carries in his pocket a box of matches made in Russia. When the United States government asked for bids to supply the Army with matches, Russia won the competition.

It is evident that the older systems of government can no longer "pooh-pooh" Russia out of existence.

You will be interested in the fact that what people SAY about Russia and what the camera says when it takes photographs, present conditions far apart.

They do not look particularly miserable, or starved, or frightened. If you were not told that they were Russians you might think this photograph was taken in the United States. Of one thing you may be sure, poor Russian children of this class did not have such good clothes, such fat faces, or such careful training in the days of the Czar.

All young Russians are compelled to take exercise and time is given them. Their week is only five days long. Every fifth day they have a day of rest. There is no Sunday. That is part of the Soviet effort to eliminate religion—an effort, by the way, that can never succeed, since religion is stronger than any theory.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 7.—Joe Leblang, one of the oddest human anomalies Broadway ever turned out, is being missed more than ever along the sagging Rialto. From obscurity, he fevered the dying play with the miracle of life. "To Leblang a show" was to slash prices, fill the theater and often turn the tide.

While known as the king of the cut rate ticket brokers he was far more than that. He was a backer of hundreds of shows, a builder of theaters and the most alert theatrical prognosticator in the town. When a show flops today, it goes speedily to Cain's theatrical warehouse.

But when "Abie's Irish Rose" was considered a "turkey," Leblang started it on its amazing run. He did the same thing for the critically panned "Rose Marie." Along with many others too numerous to mention. Any number of producers owe their success to Leblang.

He was a modest fellow. Now and then I would receive post cards from him from Florida or France and with his greetings would caution: "Just a thought of you—no publicity, please." Starting in a corner cigar store he built up at 57, when he passed away, a 20 million dollar fortune.

He gave heavily to charity and much of his vast estate went to worthy humanitarian enterprises. In the beginning he bought theater passes that billposters used to exchange with small tradesmen for sticking signs in windows. And out of the simple beginning developed his big idea.

His first stand was on Sixth avenue and then he took desk space in Gray's drug store at Forty-third and Broadway. Eventually he bought the entire building, the George M. Cohan theater next door and finally the entire Broadway block. This was, however, only one of his real estate ventures.

When a show began to droop, producers went to Leblang for a puff of life. His ticket mart under the drug store is still one of the sights of the metropolis. Its activity suggests the milling and jostling of the Stock Exchange. Twelve policemen keep crowds in line.

The private elevator for dogs has arrived, introduced by The Croyden in East Eighty-first street. When tenants wish to air the pooch they zip a special elevator button. The special button notifies the operator a dog and master await and on the upward and downward journey no other passengers are taken on.

James Barton, the dancer, tells of giving his mother-in-law a drink from his flask of speakeasy hooch the other eveneing and the next afternoon she was pitching for Brooklyn.

The friendliest orchestra in town, I think, is that in the pit of the Palace. Of all play houses it has the biggest list of regular attendants and while they are being seated there are friendly exchanges of bows and flurries of hand waves with the musicians. It is a back woods simplicity among what is, at least theatrically, the hardest boiled audience in New York.

Incidentally, a bit of old backwoods slang illuminates the Broadway patter. In encouraging a dancer, blues singer or horn-tooter to "get hot," they yell, "Let's go to town!" The phrase came originally out of the Ozarks. When a local puddle jumper pitched a mean horse shoe, executed a clever break-down or appeared in some bright new sartorial touch his admirers would yell: "Look at him. He's going to town!" Back in the hills and up the forks of the creek "going to town" is the high spot of existence.

My memory of the Ozarks is blurry, having gone there but once with my father at the age of 14. In one town where we stopped we visited the Elks Club, and there is an outstanding picture of the members pushing their whiskers to one side to shoot pool.

In those days it was smart to drive through the streets in the evening with one foot hanging out the side of the buggy and turning corners so the wheels scraped. And I remember the first fellow—a baking powder drummer from the city—to wear his hair feather edge among us with locks cut high and all the way round. We thought he had a dirty neck.

And there is the reply of Jimmy Durante when asked if he was going out tonight. "Not completely," he cracked.
